

'Baby Plane' Believed Over Scotland After Ocean Hop

West Virginian Is Thought to Have Spanned Atlantic in Light Craft; Took Off Sunday

Fuel Cost: $30

Trip Is Made to Establish Safety of Light Plane Travel

London, May 29 (AP)—A small airplane, flying very high and believed by some to be Thomas H. Smith's tiny "baby clipper," was sighted at 4:15 p. m. G. M. T. (11:15 a. m. E. S. T.) today over Wigtownshire, on the western tip of Scotland, headed toward England. The plane, which was coming from Ireland, was seen about three miles inland.

Nearly two hours earlier a high-flying airplane similarly described was seen passing over Londonderry, northern Ireland, in the direction of England.

Londonderry Reports

Londonderry, Northern Ireland, May 29 (AP)—A small plane passed over here this afternoon and while there was no immediate identification some thought it might be that of Thomas H. Smith, 24, American flier attempting to span the Atlantic in his light "baby clipper."

The plane, which was flying at a high altitude, came from the direction of the Atlantic.

It passed over Londonderry at 2:20 p. m. G. M. T. (9:20 a. m. E. S. T.).

The plane was heading toward England, and if it was the "baby clipper" it apparently had followed the route the late Amelia Earhart flew when she crossed the Atlantic from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, May 21, 1932, and landed near Londonderry.

It was seen by hundreds who had been scanning clear skies for Smith's 670-pound plane which took off from Old Orchard Beach, Me., at 3:47 a. m. (EST) Sunday and was expected to reach the Irish coast about 11 a. m. (EST) today.

Flight Unsuspected

Into yesterday's dawn from Old Orchard Beach, Me., the Los Angeles birdman nosed his 670-pound monoplane (Aeronca) with its four-cylinder, 65-horsepower engine on a course associates said was plotted for a landfall at Slyne Head, Ireland, nearly 2,800 miles away, about noon today.

Fog and rain clamped a low ceiling over the first third of his route. No word came of the tiny ship's passage over Newfoundland, but at Saint John, N. B., airport officials heard a plane they thought might be Smith's.

The former transport pilot had 160 gallons of gasoline—he calculated it was enough to take him 3,500 miles at a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour—when he rose from the beach at this ocean rest.

Smith had the equipment to fly blind, if necessary, but no radio. His only means of communication consisted of three canvas message bags he hoped to drop to ships at sea.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith expressed themselves as "amazed" when news of their son's solo take-off from their New Canaan, Conn., home was reported at Clark's, W. Va. "We had no advance notice," said the father, a lawyer.

Nor did the civil aeronautics authority, officials said at Washington, adding they had given no permission for the flight, which Smith said was to demonstrate the practicability of long distance flying by light planes. Associates estimated Smith's fuel cost less than $30.

Charles Deland, Cincinnati, one of the associates who helped Smith prepare secretly near here for the flight, said weather reports indicated good conditions over much of the "Great Circle" course Smith was to follow.

Most recent of the many airmen who have set out on that trail was Charles Bachman, unreported on a solo hop to Sweden in a "flying gas tank," not much larger than Smith's little ship.

Shultis Is Signed By American Airlines

Donald Shultis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Shultis, of Bearsville, who was graduated recently from Parks' Air College, East St. Louis, Ill., has signed a four-year contract with American Airlines and is stationed at Chicago.

Shultis, who was engaged as an instructor at the college following his graduation, will be stationed in the instruments division of the concern.

In the fall it is expected that Mr. Shultis will be stationed at the North Beach Airport on Long Island. American Airlines it is understood anticipates shifting its headquarters to that base in the autumn.

Will Probe Reports

Washington, May 29 (AP)—The house committee on Un-American Activities, it was reported today, has decided to investigate naval officers' reports that Communistic and other organizations have influenced the "loyalty, morality and discipline" of military personnel.

Characteristically, Smith took off for Europe without informing his parents of Clarksburg, W. Va. His father, Harvey Smith, was "amazed" at the report. A well-to-do lawyer and real estate dealer, the elder Smith had often backed Tommy's flying ventures.

City Anticipates Parades, Program On Memorial Day

Patriotic Display to Mark Beginning of Annual Festivities; Baseball Is on Schedule

Memorial Day will be observed Tuesday in Kingston with the annual parade on Broadway at 11 o'clock in the morning with special programs in all of the theatres in the afternoon and evening, and for those who like baseball, a doubleheader at the Athletic Field.

Plans have been made to make the parade one of the best ever to pass through the city's streets. The various divisions will form at Pearl street and Clinton avenue at 10:30 o'clock and the parade will march promptly at 11 o'clock.

The line of march will be down Broadway to Delaware avenue. The Kingston Colonials will stage a doubleheader with Cohoes at the Athletic Field, with the first game at 2 o'clock, followed immediately by the second game.

During the morning the cemeteries will be visited as usual and the graves decorated with flowers in memory of the dead.

Besides the parade in Kingston there will be Memorial Day parades held in other sections in Ulster county including New Paltz and Highland.

Skipper Is Held

New York, May 29 (AP)—The skipper of a fishing vessel was held on a homicide charge today in one of two Sunday boating accidents which took five lives. Three persons were drowned when the heavily loaded 32-foot cabin cruiser Bilot overturned yesterday, spilling 24 holiday anglers and a crew of four into the East River's swift ebb tide.

Anthracite Coal Miner Is Dug From Under Entombed Slide

Shenandoah, Pa., May 29 (AP)—Laughing and joking with rescuers, Robert Galligan, 38-year-old anthracite miner, was dug out of a coal hole early today, apparently uninjured after 65 hours imprisonment under tons of rock and dirt.

Rescuers who had toiled unceasingly, first with a steam shovel and then with pick and shovel, reached Galligan at 12:55 a. m. E. S. T. Hoisted up a 75-foot deep shaft, Galligan greeted fellow miners on the surface with "gimme a ciggie (cigarette) and let me sit down a while."

He was taken to a hospital, where physicians said he was suffering slightly from shock.

A sudden slide of rock trapped the miner at 10 a. m. E. S. T. Galligan was rescued by the mine's rescue team.

Two Women Hurt In 3 A. M. Crash At Main and Green

Mrs. George Cook, New Paltz, and Miss Marie Lyons Injured; Former Hurt Badly

Mrs. George Cook of New Paltz and Miss Marie Lyons of 299 Wall street suffered injuries shortly after 3 o'clock this morning when automobiles they were riding in collided at Main and Green streets. Both cars were badly damaged.

Mrs. Cook, suffering from head and face lacerations and a possible skull fracture, was removed to the Benedictine Hospital in the Conner ambulance, while Miss Lyons was treated for lacerations of the face and head by Dr. C. L. Gannon.

The police department received five telephone calls following the crash and Officers Burns and Fallon in one of the radio cars, and Officers Barnum and Schoonmaker in another radio car, were rushed to the scene.

Mrs. Cook was riding in her husband's car and Miss Lyons in the car of Donald Davis of 84 Washington avenue.

Mr. Cook was driving south on Green street, while Mr. Davis was proceeding west on Main street, when the two cars collided at the intersection of the two streets.

J. H. Bridge Dies

New York, May 29 (AP)—James Howard Bridge, writer, editor and literary assistant of several famous persons, died yesterday at 83. He had assisted in the writings of Herbert Spencer, the English philosopher, Andrew Carnegie, the steelmaster, and Henry Clay Frick, steel manufacturer.

one of the many so-called "boot-leg" workings which do not this eastern Pennsylvania hard coal section. Two companions escaped.

Galligan's 80-year-old father, Patrick, witnessed the rescue. Loose dirt covering Galligan's refuge, a small chamber which did not cave in, made the rescuers' task doubly difficult. Toward the end the rescuers worked two and three at a time in a space only four feet square under the constant threat that they too might become engulfed by new slides.

A one-inch pipe driven through the wall of dirt into the miner's tomb early last night gave Galligan air.

Before he was hoisted to the surface, Galligan was blindfolded to prevent injury to his eyes by the sudden emergence into a glare of light.

Six People Injured In Route 28 Auto Crashes

State Troopers Patrolling Phoenicia Sector Say Slippery Highway and Reckless Driving Contributing Factors — Mrs. Anna Hayes of New Paltz in Benedictine

Six people were injured on route 28 over the week-end and required hospital treatment.

Accidents Sunday caused by slippery condition of the roadway were responsible for some accidents and reckless driving on the part of some drivers was the cause of others, according to State Trooper Ray Dunn of Phoenicia, who with Trooper Maish cover the Phoenicia area.

Hoover Lines Up Delegates to GOP Convention in '40

Former President Is Said to Have Made Leading Suggestions on Tour to GOP Leaders

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover was described by intimates here today as working quietly to line up a large bloc of uninstructed delegates to the Republican convention next year.

In recent talks with Republican leaders over the country, it was said, Mr. Hoover repeatedly has made two suggestions—that Republicans pick a candidate who will wage an uncompromising fight against the New Deal and that state delegations go to the convention uninstructed.

Mr. Hoover has said that he himself is not a candidate for the presidential nomination and that he is not working in behalf of any candidate.

Persons in a position to know said the former president's principal desire was to command sufficient convention strength to enable him to play a major role in the selection of a nominee and in drafting the party platform.

Mr. Hoover was reported to feel that there should be no effort by Republicans to "beat the New Deal at its own game" but that the campaign should center on a direct attack against the present administration's program.

It was said authoritatively that he probably would oppose the candidacy of any individual who did not share his fundamental political philosophy.

Mr. Hoover recently visited Thomas E. Dewey of New York, but reports were that he merely sounded out the prosecutor's basic political views and made no commitments regarding the stand he will take when candidate-picking time comes.

Another possible contender for the nomination, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R, Mich.), will reply this week to a statement from Michigan Republican officials urging that he be drafted to head the ticket.

Friends said Vandenberg's reply would say that he would be gratified to receive the nomination, but would not indicate that he was actively campaigning.

City Parks Open Officially Tuesday

Special Policemen Selected for Summer Duty; All Equipment in Place

Kingston's 10 parks open officially for the season on Memorial Day. The park committee of the Board of Public Works, in charge of the park system, have had gangs of men busy cleaning up and getting the parks ready for the season.

Special policemen who will serve in the parks this summer have been appointed and will assume their duties Memorial Day. The officers named and the parks to which they have been assigned for duty are: Francis Wojciechowski in Cornell Park; Daniel Garrity, in Forsyth Park; Leroy Goodjohn, in Barnum Park; Fred Myers, in Block Park; and Marvin S. Whittaker in Hasbrouck Park.

The playground equipment has been installed in all of the parks.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, May 29 (AP)—The position of the Treasury May 26: Receipts $24,725,405.63; net balance $2,945,986,791.55; working balance included $2,277,166,738.95; customs receipts for month $21,982,197.09; receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $5,022,754,238.69; expenditures $8,224,631,397.16; emergency expenditures included $2,820,802,201.28; excess of expenditures $3,201,877,158.47; gross debt $40,277,177,051.92; decrease under previous day $445,293.80; gold assets $15,936,088,083.25.

No Mail Deliveries

There will be no delivery of mail in Kingston on Memorial Day, and the postoffice will be closed all day. The lobby in the central building and the two substations will remain open until 3 o'clock that afternoon for the collection of mail.

Trooper Dunn, who investigated, said the Hayes car swerved to the left of the road on a curve and narrowly avoided striking the car of Irving Abery of Sahler's Sanitarium, this city, and then ran head on into the car driven by Emma L. Stoll of Albany avenue extension. Mrs. Hayes was the only one injured.

Three people were injured about 5 o'clock Sunday at Ashokan when a car driven by Victor Hugo Osborn of 85 Franklin street, Kingston, and a car of George A. Schmidt of 634 West 52nd street, New York, collided. Trooper Dunn said Osborn pulled out of line. He was arrested and taken before Justice of the Peace North and fined $10 on a reckless driving charge.

Injured in this crash was Miss Elsie Albert of New York, who suffered a laceration of the scalp; Mrs. Ethel Osborn, the wife of the driver, who suffered bruises, and Victor Hugo Osborn, Jr., who was cut about the face and had several teeth loosened. Miss Albert was taken to the Benedictine Hospital in the Conner ambulance and treated. At the hospital it was reported she was released after being treated.

Crash at Shokan

Another accident at 4 o'clock on Grossman's curve at Shokan sent Joseph T. and Lucy Kenishea of Naugatuck, Conn., to the Kingston Hospital. Their condition was reported as fair today. Their car skidded on the turn and struck a car of Benjamin T. Moracco of Elizabeth, N. J. Mr. Kenishea suffered lacerations of the face and knee and his wife suffered a fractured wrist and lacerations of the face.

Back up the line the troopers were called to Shandaken where a car of Louis Berglas of Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, had skidded and struck a car of Elbert M. Dickman of Margaretville. There was no personal injury but the cars were damaged.

Victor Palombi of Grand Hotel, Highmount, also reported to Trooper Dunn that his car had been struck and driven off the road at Shandaken. No one was injured and he reported the number of the offending machine to the trooper. The crash is under investigation.

20 Deaths in State

Albany, N. Y., May 29 (AP)—There were 20 accidental deaths in upstate New York this week-end as many residents and visitors began celebrating a four-day Memorial Day week-end.

With many a life to remain away from business today to stretch the usual week-end through Memorial Day, the state's highways were crowded with motorists and 15 of them died as a result of automobile accidents.

Blow at 'Subversives'

Albany, N. Y., May 29 (AP)—New York, striking a dual blow at subversive activities through two new laws, closed its city service and public school teaching systems today to those advocating violent overthrow of the American form of government. One of two bills signed by Democratic Governor Lehman, admittedly aimed at the German-American Bund, makes unlawful the wearing in public of a uniform similar to that of "the official or semi-official forces of any foreign state." The other bars persons advocating government overthrow from civil service and public school systems in New York.

West Pointer Drowns

West Point, N. Y., May 29 (AP)—Cadet Sidney F. Dunn, 20, a second class man in the U. S. Military Academy and son of Maj. and Mrs. Sidney F. Dunn of Fort Lewis, Washington, drowned yesterday in the Hudson river when the canoe in which he was riding with another cadet was caught in a squall and capsized. He became exhausted while he and Cadet Charles S. Brice, son of Maj. and Mrs. Charles S. Brice, of Fort Bliss, Tex., tried to swim to the east shore.

Pendergast in Prison

Leavenworth, Kas., May 29 (AP)—Tom Pendergast, Kansas City political boss, drove in his own car through the federal penitentiary gates here at 8:45 o'clock this morning to begin a 15-month sentence for income tax evasion.

Lehman Vetoes Act On Grade Crossing Liability of State

Governor Calls Feinberg's Measure Added Expense on State; Approved Bills Total 558

Albany, N. Y., May 29 (AP)—Governor Lehman vetoed today as an "additional expense" on the state a bill which he said would have enlarged its liability for damages caused by grade crossing eliminations.

The measure, sponsored by Republican Senator Benjamin Feinberg, of Plattsburg, provided that the state's existing liability for such damage should not prevail because of any law enacted after the construction work in begun.

The governor, bringing to 558 the number of 1939 laws, approved measures which:

Broaden the definition of "frozen desserts" to include ice cream, frozen custard, milk sherbet, ice and ice sherbet; require containers to show net contents and fix minimum weight of ice cream per gallon at four and a half pounds.

Grant 30-day exemption from operator's license and motor vehicle registration fees, for vacation or recreation purposes, to the resident of a country not adjoining the United States.

Require dealers in second-hand automobiles to execute, when making a sale, a certificate showing all equipment is mechanically adjusted and giving the engine number and other pertinent data concerning the vehicle.

President Rests at Hyde Park And Looks Over His Estate

Hyde Park, N. Y., May 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt decided again today to emphasize relaxation instead of work in an attempt to get rid of a head cold before starting back to Washington tomorrow.

White House officials said only the most important mail and communications were being laid before him and that no appointments had been made for the day.

The President expected to spend some time looking over his 1,200 acres of farm and wood lands, which were beginning to show a need for rain. A brief shower yesterday did little more than lay the dust.

The cold was not bad enough to prevent Mr. Roosevelt's work on the farm, but he was expected to spend some time in the morning looking over his estate.

Army Planning Intensive Drive For 115,000 Men

Drive Is Designed to Meet Needs of Air Corps and Other Branches of Regular Service

Washington, May 29 (AP)—High army officials are preparing the most extensive recruiting campaign since the World War, with a goal of nearly 115,000 recruits or re-inlistments in the next 13 months.

The drive is designed to meet replacement and expansion needs of the air corps and other branches of the service. Eighteen huge recruiting stations on wheels, new slogans, posters, motion pictures and the radio will be used.

Major Harold N. Gilbert, recruiting officer-in-charge, said some "high pressure" salesman-ship might be used to assure that the air corps, particularly, gets properly qualified men for the treble expansion authorized by congress.

"We're going to make sure the boys in the country, as well as in the cities, know what the army has to offer," he said.

Free Education

"They have the chance to get free technical education that would cost them a lot of money otherwise."

The army's present need is so unprecedented for peace times that officials are unwilling to predict whether the intensive recruiting will be successful.

MOSCOW—Soviet Union gives no sign of approval or disapproval of latest British proposals for mutual assistance accord.

Criticism in Congress

(By The Associated Press)

Congressional criticism of Secretary Hull's neutrality recommendations strengthened the belief of many legislators today that a Senate showdown might be deferred until next year.

Rep. Bloom (D., N. Y.) has embodied Hull's proposals in a bill, but some members said that even if the House passes it, prolonged Senate debate would run the session too far into the summer.

The biggest argument was over the Secretary's foremost suggestion—repeal of the embargo on arms shipments to warring nations. Senator George (D., Ga.) said he was certain to meet with such stubborn opposition in the Senate as to foreclose action within the next 60 days.

Senator Borah (R., Ida.), senior member of the foreign relations committee, contended that the change would "make an arsenal out of the United States," while Senator Clark (D., Mo.) said: "The plan Mr. Hull proposes is simply calculated to lead us into war in the same way we were led into the last war."

A number of administration followers, on the other hand, were supporting the six-point program which Hull submitted Saturday night with a statement that it would "help to keep this country out of war." Senator Green (D., R. I.) commented: "I think very favorably of the recommendations. They are very reasonable, and while theoretically they might be better, they give consideration to the practical situation."

Europe Gets Rest

Whitman holidays gave Europe's diplomats a rest and Europe's millions at least temporary respite from alarms today with Soviet Russia holding secret the answer to the continent's biggest question.

That was: Will Russia accept Britain's proposals, approved by France, for bringing the Soviet Union into the British-French front?

Moscow still was silent on the identical messages delivered to the Kremlin Saturday by representatives of Britain and France but in London the press and public took agreement for granted.

Some informed British circles believed, despite absence of any outward sign of Russian approval or disapproval, that Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador to London, would be instructed to accept the proposals for a mutual assistance accord on his return there today from Geneva.

Favor for Chamberlain

British optimism, in which a British-French-Russian line-up was hailed generally as a great assurance of peace, appeared to have swung feeling sharply in favor of Prime Minister Chamberlain as he began his third year at the head of Britain's government.

Some foreign observers in Moscow thought that Russia, however, might wait to see what Britain and France would do in connection with recent Japanese actions in the Far East before committing herself definitely.

In France, the graves of 30,000 American soldiers who were killed in the World War were decorated in memorial services held a day in advance of the American Memorial Day in order to coincide with the European holiday.

In Spain, Nationalists said Generalissimo Francisco Franco would fulfill his promise to send home all foreign troops by the end of the week. The German Condor Legion of 12,000 already has sailed, about 5,000 already will embark at Cadiz on Wednesday, about 500 Portuguese have been concentrated at Salamanca for home-going and the return of Moorish troops to Morocco also has begun.

Six People Injured In Route 28 Auto Crashes

State Troopers Patrolling Phoenicia Sector Say Slippery Highway and Reckless Driving Contributing Factors — Mrs. Anna Hayes of New Paltz in Benedictine

Six people were injured on route 28 over the week-end and required hospital treatment.

Accidents Sunday caused by slippery condition of the roadway were responsible for some accidents and reckless driving on the part of some drivers was the cause of others, according to State Trooper Ray Dunn of Phoenicia, who with Trooper Maish cover the Phoenicia area.

Mrs. Anne E. Hayes of New Paltz was taken to the Benedictine Hospital by the Gormley ambulance Sunday following a crack-up near Bert Winne's Garage at Cold Brook. She suffered a possible fracture of the skull and her condition was reported today as fair. A passenger in the car operated by her husband, she was injured about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in a head-on collision.

Swerved on Curve
Trooper Dunn, who investigated, said the Hayes car swerved to the left of the road on a curve and narrowly avoided striking the car of Irving Abery of Sahler's Sanitarium, this city, and then ran head on into the car driven by Emma L. Stoll of Albany avenue extension. Mrs. Hayes was the only one injured.

Three people were injured about 5 o'clock Sunday at Ashokan when a car driven by Victor Hugo Osborn of 85 Franklin street, Kingston, and a car of George A. Schmidt of 634 West 52nd street, New York, collided. Trooper Dunn said Osborn pulled out of line. He was arrested and taken before Justice of the Peace North and fined $10 on a reckless driving charge. Injured in the crash was Miss Elsie Albert of New York, who suffered a laceration of the scalp; Mrs. Ethel Osborn, the wife of the driver, who suffered bruises, and Victor Hugo Osborn, Jr., who was cut about the face and had several teeth loosened. Miss Albert was taken to the Benedictine Hospital in the Conner ambulance and treated. At the hospital it was reported she was released after being treated.

Crash at Shokan
Another accident at 4 o'clock on Grossman's curve at Shokan sent Joseph T. and Lucy Kenisha of Naugatuck, Conn., to the Kingston Hospital. Their condition was reported as fair today. Their car skidded on the turn and struck a car of Benjamin T. Morasco of Elizabeth, N. J. Mr. Kenisha suffered lacerations of the face and knee and his wife suffered a fractured wrist and lacerations of the face.

Back up the line the troopers were called to Shandaken where a car of Louis Berglas of Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, had skidded and struck a car of Elbert M. Dickman of Margaretville. There was no personal injury but the cars were damaged.

Victor Palombi of Grand Hotel, Highmount, also reported to Trooper Dunn that his car had been struck and driven off the road at Shandaken. No one was injured and he reported the number of the offending machine to the trooper. The crash is under investigation.

20 Deaths in State
Albany, N. Y., May 29 (AP).—There were 20 accidental deaths in upstate New York this week-end as many residents and visitors began celebrating a four-day Memorial Day week-end.

With many able to remain away from business today to stretch the usual week-end through Memorial Day, the state's highways were crowded with motorists and 15 of them died as a result of automobile accidents.

Blow at 'Subversives'
Albany, N. Y., May 29 (AP).—New York, striking a dual blow at subversive activities through two new laws, closed its civil service and public school teaching systems today to those advocating violent overthrow of the American form of government. One of two bills signed by Democratic Governor Lehman, admittedly aimed at the German-American Bund, makes unlawful the wearing in public of a uniform similar to that of "the official or semi-official forces of any foreign state." The other bars persons advocating government overthrow from civil service and public school systems in New York.

West Pointer Drowns
West Point, N. Y., May 29 (AP).—Cadet Sidney F. Dunn, 20, a second class man in the U. S. Military Academy and son of Maj. and Mrs. Sidney F. Dunn of Fort Lyster, Washington, drowned yesterday in the Hudson river when the canoe in which he was riding with another cadet was caught in a squall and capsized. He became exhausted while he and Cadet Charles S. Brice, son of Maj. and Mrs. Charles S. Brice, of Fort Bliss, Tex., tried to swim to the east shore.

Pendergast in Prison
Leavenworth, Kas., May 29 (AP).—Tom Pendergast, Kansas City political boss, drove in his own car through the federal penitentiary gates here at 8:45 o'clock this morning to begin a 15-month sentence for income tax evasion.

Lehman Vetoes Act On Grade Crossing Liability of State

Governor Calls Feinberg's Measure Added Expense on State; Approved Bills Total 558

Albany, N. Y., May 29 (AP).—Governor Lehman vetoed today as an "additional expense" on the state a bill which he said would have enlarged its liability for damages caused by grade crossing eliminations.

The measure, sponsored by Republican Senator Benjamin Feinberg, of Plattsburg, provided that the state's existing liability for such damage should not prevail because of any law enacted after the construction work in begun.

The governor, bringing to 558 the number of 1939 laws, approved measures which:

Broaden the definition of "frozen desserts" to include ice cream, frozen custard, milk sherbet, ice and ice sherbet; require containers to show net contents and six minimum weight of ice cream per gallon at four and a half pounds.

Grant 30-day exemption from operator's license and motor vehicle registration fees, for vacation or recreation purposes, to the resident of a country not adjoining the United States.

Require dealers in second-hand automobiles to execute, when making a sale, a certificate showing all equipment is mechanically adjusted and giving the engine number and other pertinent data concerning the vehicle.

Army Planning Intensive Drive For 115,000 Men

Drive Is Designed to Meet Needs of Air Corps and Other Branches of Regular Service

Washington, May 29 (AP).—High army officials are preparing the most extensive recruiting campaign since the World War, with a goal of nearly 115,000 recruits or re-inlistments in the next 13 months.

The drive is designed to meet replacement and expansion needs of the air corps and other branches of the service.

Eighteen huge recruiting stations on wheels, new slogans, posters, motion pictures and the radio will be used.

Major Harold N. Gilbert, recruiting officer-in-charge, said some "high pressure" salesmanship might be used to assure that the air corps, particularly, gets properly qualified men for the treble expansion authorized by congress.

"We're going to make sure the boys in the country, as well as in the cities, know what the army has to offer," he said.

Feeling in Washington Is That Even With House Passage, Senate Would Have Long Debate

Soviet Make No Comment on British, French Notes of Saturday

Foreign-at-Glance
(By The Associated Press)

LONDON — Chamberlain's popularity grows as Britain takes for granted Russian entry into British-French front.

MOSCOW — Soviet Union gives no sign of approval or disapproval of latest British proposals for mutual assistance accord.

PARIS — Graves of 30,000 American World War dead decorated in France.

CADIZ, SPAIN — Nationalists say Spain will bid farewell to last foreign troops by end of week; Germans have departed; Italians, Portuguese, Moors begin home-going.

Criticism in Congress
(By The Associated Press)

Congressional criticism of Secretary Hull's neutrality recommendations strengthened the belief of many legislators today that a Senate showdown might be deferred until next year.

Rep. Bloom (D., N. Y.) has embodied Hull's proposals in a bill, but some members said that even if the House passes it, prolonged Senate debate would run the session too far into the summer.

The biggest argument was over the Secretary's foremost suggestion—repeal of the embargo on arms shipments to warring nations. Senator George (D., Ga.) said he was certain to meet with such stubborn opposition in the Senate as to foreclose action within the next 60 days.

Senator Borah (R., Ida.), senior member of the foreign relations committee, contended that the change would "make an arsenal out of the United States," while Senator Clark (D., Mo.) said:

"The plan Mr. Hull proposes is simply calculated to lead us into war in the same way we were led into the last war."

A number of administration followers, on the other hand, were supporting the six-point program which Hull submitted Saturday night with a statement that it would "help to keep this country out of war." Senator Green (D., R. I.) commented:

"I think very favorably of the recommendations. They are very reasonable, and while theoretically they might be better, they give consideration to the practical situation."

Europe Gets Rest
Whitsun holidays gave Europe's diplomats a rest and Europe's millions at least temporary respite from alarms today with Soviet Russia holding secret the answer to the continent's biggest question.

That was: Will Russia accept Britain's proposals, approved by France, for bringing the Soviet Union into the British-French front?

Moscow still was silent on the identical messages delivered to the Kremlin Saturday by representatives of Britain and France but in London the press and public took agreement for granted.

Some informed British circles believed, despite absence of any outward sign of Russian approval or disapproval, that Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador to London, would be instructed to accept the proposals for a mutual assistance accord on his return there today from Geneva.

Favor for Chamberlain
British optimism, in which a British-French-Russian line-up was hailed generally as a great assurance of peace, appeared to have swung feeling sharply in favor of Prime Minister Chamberlain as he began his third year at the head of Britain's government.

Some foreign observers in Moscow thought that Russia, however, might wait to see what Britain and France would do in connection with recent Japanese actions in the Far East before committing herself definitely.

In France, the graves of 30,000 American soldiers who were killed in the World War were decorated in memorial services held a day in advance of the American Memorial Day in order to coincide with the European holiday.

In Spain, Nationalists said Generalissimo Francisco Franco would fulfill his promise to send home all foreign troops by the end of the week. The German Condor Legion of 5,000 already has sailed, about 12,000 Italians will embark at Cadiz on Wednesday, about 500 Portuguese have been concentrated at Salamanca for home-going and the return of Moorish troops to Morocco also has begun.

President Rests at Hyde Park And Looks Over His Estate

Hyde Park, N. Y., May 29 (AP).—President Roosevelt decided again today to emphasize relaxation instead of work in an attempt to get rid of a head cold before starting back to Washington tomorrow.

White House officials said only the most important mail and communications were being laid before him and that no appointments had been made for the day.

The President expected to spend some time looking over his 1,200 acres of farm and wood lands, which were beginning to show a need for rain. A brief shower yesterday did little more than lay the dust.

The cold was not bad enough to prevent Mr. Roosevelt's work, but it was enough to keep him from leaving the White House.

Church, where the President will attend services June 11 with King George and Queen Elizabeth. The president of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Bishop Henry St. George Tucker, will deliver the sermon.

Mr. Roosevelt heard the regular pastor, the Rev. Frank Wilson, tell members of the congregation they would have to obtain tickets for the memorable event and that part of them would have to remain outside the ancient stone edifice, which seats only 200.

In his Whitsunday sermon, the Rev. Mr. Wilson reproached his parish for not taking greater interest in church finances, foreign missions, Sunday School and the "heathens" in Hyde Park itself.

Afterward, the Chief Executive drove back to his country estate at Hyde Park.

Local Death Record

Howard S. Tutill, 63, insurance broker and mortician, died at his home, 309 E. 3d St., Kingston, Monday morning in Jefferson Memorial Hospital, Miami, Fla., after an illness of three months. Born in Westtown on April 24, 1876, a son of the late Richard and Emeline Bennett Tutill, he had lived in Marlborough for 36 years. A graduate of Middletown Academy and Columbia University's College of Pharmacy, he is survived by his wife, Edith Christine Tutill; two sons, Christie R. and Howard S. Tutill, of Marlborough; two daughters, Mrs. Solon Butterfield of Delmar, N. Y., and Mrs. Stanley Harcourt of Baltimore; a sister, Mrs. Walter O. Dunham, of Pasadena; a brother, Orin N. Tutill, of Suffern; and five grandchildren. Funeral services on Wednesday at 2 o'clock in the home will be conducted by the Rev. Claude Macintosh, of First Presbyterian Church of Marlborough. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

James F. Smith of 17 West Chester street for 15 years superintendent of Kingston Point Park died Saturday evening after a long illness. Mr. Smith was a native of Rhinebeck and prior to coming to Kingston had resided in Newburgh for several years. For many years he was a ferryboat captain in New York harbor for the Erie Railroad and he also was employed on the Mary Powell and other boats plying the Hudson river. Retiring from river duty about 15 years ago, he came to Kingston and had since then been in charge of the park at Kingston Point. Mr. Smith was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Fraternally he was a member of Newburgh Lodge, No. 309, F. & A. M., and Hudson River Commandery K. T., No. 35, of Newburgh. In addition to his wife, who was Anna Meyers, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. T. M. Stokes, of this city; two sons, John, of Leonia, N. J., and Oliver, of New York City; one brother, John Q. Smith, of Kingston; a sister, Mrs. M. Baer, of this city; and two grandchildren. The funeral will be held from the home Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with burial in the family plot in Montrose cemetery.

Will Go on Air

Bill Raible, lyric tenor, and Tom Crosby, pianist, both of this city, will broadcast from Station WGN in Newburgh on Wednesday afternoon from 4:45 o'clock until 5 o'clock. Mr. Raible will sing a series of Indian love songs, including the Kashmiri Song, Nodette, Dawn Light and Bird Song, while Mr. Crosby will play Retro-spection by Lee Sims.

Financial and Commercial

Business Reported Better Last Week

Business conditions showed signs of improvement last week. There was an upturn in steel production after seven weeks of decline and rail movements were on the upturn by reason of the large rail movement of coal following the mine stoppage and the movement of miscellaneous traffic and a sustained volume of merchandise movement. The past week also saw an upturn in the weekly total of heavy construction contracts in which private undertakings were quite large. There was an upward movement in the retail marketing of automobiles and vigorous buying of cotton goods, all of which made for a good week.

On the opposite side of the business ledger was a dropping off of motor car output due to labor difficulties and foreign trade returns for April reflected a somewhat serious decline in dollar value of total exports. From Washington came a new prospect of a renewed drive for a second spending-recovery campaign. This movement, which seemed in the making, dimmed an otherwise encouraging outlook and the persistent official urging of a self contradictory and expensive farm aid program continued.

Steel in the Pittsburgh areas was up and the schedule for this week was 40 per cent, up 4 points from the preceding Monday. Chicago district was up 6 1/2 points and Buffalo is scheduled for a 4 1/2 point rise. Improvement in earnings of A. T. & T. shown during the latter part of 1938 continued and business continues to run ahead of last year. Consolidated profits for first six months are expected to more than cover the $4.50 per share dividend requirements for the period.

Over the week-end corporate earnings made available are: American Power and Light net income for March 31 quarter, $3,141,763 against $3,312,780 for the same 1938 period. Brown Shoe for six months ending April 30, net profit $282,337 against a net loss of $79,963 in comparable period last year. Hall Printing Co., year to March 31, net income $898,853 against $593,372 net preceding year. Pittston Co., March 31, quarter, $108,833 net profit against net loss of $293,518 in same 1938 quarter.

During the next couple of months a prominent pick-up in new bond offerings is expected. The securities market moved up with some vigor on increased volume in transaction during the week and stock and bond averages gained more than their net loss of the previous week. Industrial stocks much more than their prior week losses. Grains were selling off sharply on Saturday because of rainfall in dry areas but July wheat closed four cents above the previous week's final.

Rural Residents Confused on Cut In State Money

Residents of rural districts sending students to Kingston schools in some instances, it was revealed today, have apparently misunderstood the statement which appeared in Saturday's Freeman relative to the city of Kingston losing state money through the cut of 10 per cent in the state aid money for the coming year.

While the tuition which the district pays for attendance at the Kingston schools by non-residents will remain the same the city of Kingston will lose a considerable sum from the so called "attendance money" which the city annually receives.

Rural districts raise by local taxation a sum of money for school purposes, in addition the districts receive state aid. However the city of Kingston receives in addition to this flat rate tuition from the rural districts a small additional sum from the state for non-residents which is based on the attendance of all students in the Kingston schools. There will be a 10 per cent reduction in this state aid on city students and rural students alike.

The figure is approximately $26,000. It is not contemplated raising the tuition of non-resident students at this time but the 10 per cent loss of state funds will be made up through a slightly higher tax rate here. It was stated that this tax increase now appears to be about $1.20 over last year's rate unless drastic economies can be made. Kingston will be the second largest loser in the state, Ithaca leading the list.

Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson entertained relatives over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. James Davis and son spent Tuesday afternoon in Kingston.

Mrs. Esther Wood, who has been spending a few weeks at Circleville, has returned home.

Mrs. Roberta E. Davis spent Sunday with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Davis.

James Davis was employed at Trowbridge Farm from Friday until Wednesday.

Mrs. Tracy Barley of Stone Ridge spent Monday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oakley and family.

Military Drill Is Gaining

In American Universities

Although only 139 out of a total of 1,706 American colleges and universities offer military drill, and a still smaller percentage of public high schools provide such instruction, 135,794 college and high school students received military instruction under United States army officers in the 1937-38 school year, as compared with 55,091 such students who received army-supervised military instruction in 1916. Another 18,729 young men received such instruction in eight military colleges and 46 military academies qualifying under war department reserve officers training corps standards, making a total of 154,523 R. O. T. C. trainees in the year 1937-38. A small increase in these totals is expected in the school year 1938-39. The training is generally approved by the vast majority of students, and as a result of its effectiveness, the U. S. now has a reserve of competent commissioned officers numbering just short of 100,000 men. Of the 139 colleges and universities offering military training, 72 require attendance at military courses for two years by able-bodied male students, and offer an additional two years of training as an elective course; 67 schools offer either two or four years of military training purely on a voluntary basis.

Assails Eyebrow-Shaving

As Detrimental to Vision

Don't shave your eyebrows, ladies, if you would see better as well as look better. This bit of beauty advice is offered by no less an authority than Mr. Perc Westmore, famous Hollywood make-up expert. According to Mr. Westmore, when too much of the eyebrow is plucked away, the eye is deprived of one method of protection against excess light from the sun or artificial illumination. It is thus more subject to eyestrain and defective sight due to glare.

It is interesting to note the number of protective devices which have been provided for the eyes, observes Better Vision Institute. The efficiency of each is nature's way of proving the importance of our seeing apparatus. For example, the eye, seeing an object approaching, closes almost instantaneously. Then, too, nature has provided the deep, bony socket into which the eye is fitted and the covering of lashes and eyebrows to protect the precious organ. Other forms of nervous protective development are the extreme sensitiveness of the surface of the eyeball and the expansion and contraction of the pupil in order to control the amount of light entering the eye.

May Register Bikes

Corning (AP)—Sergeant Charles G. Burnett of the state police and the Corning and Painted Post safety councils are considering registration of all bicycles in Steuben county. Under the plan, bicycle owners would sign a safety pledge and receive a numbered metal tag. A description of the vehicle and its number would be filed in a central office. Sergeant Burnett believes the plan would lead to increased safety and fewer bicycle thefts.

'Fishes' Out Ring

Hornell (AP)—Barbara Townsend, 8, went fishing in Canadacreek with a stick, a piece of string and a bent pin and caught a gold ring. Investigation disclosed the ring was lost in the creek 30 years ago by the son of a pioneer.

New York Gets Appeal Notice

At the last special term of Supreme Court there was submitted for approval of the court a plan for a substitute highway around the Rondout development at Lackawack of the New York city water works system.

At that time the plans had the approval of the state highway department, but it was also necessary to have the approval of the Supreme Court.

When the matter came up before Justice Harry E. Schirck objection to the plan was made by Attorney John D. Lyons representing Sullivan county and the town of Neversink.

Justice Schirck later granted an order approving the plan as submitted.

The city of New York has been served with a notice of appeal from the order granted by Justice Schirck. The appeal was made by Attorney Lyons on behalf of Sullivan county and the town of Neversink.

The city of New York is represented by Attorneys Henry Bright and John Egan.

It is hardly likely that the appeal can be argued before the Appellate Division before October and in the meantime the city of New York will continue operations at Lackawack.

Street Program Is Progressing

The street building program inaugurated by the Board of Public Works is progressing with favorable weather conditions prevailing. Greenkill avenue was completed today. A new macadam has been laid in that street on the stretch between Clinton avenue to the intersection of Wall street and the Boulevard.

A new pavement has been laid in Cedar street for the entire length.

Work on Abel street is progressing, and Linderman avenue is being gotten ready for new pavement as well as Hewitt Place, off Linderman avenue.

Sterling street is now ready for a new pavement, having been scarified and reshaped.

About the Folks

Charles T. Hunt, manager of Eddy Brothers Circus, and Mrs. Hunt, formerly Carrie Tronson of Kingston, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Blanshan of 59 Johnston avenue. Concerning his circus business, Mr. Hunt said it has been

Traffic Reported As Purely 'Local' By State Troopers

Travel over the week-end was reported light by State Police, who paroled the highways, and much of the traffic was called "local." Memorial Day coming on Tuesday this year did not hold out the inducement which it did last year when a long week-end was the result of the holiday falling on Monday.

Traffic was pronounced only normal for a week-end. As a result of comparatively light travel there were few accidents along the main highways, a series of accidents being reported Sunday on Route 28 in the Catskills. Some of these crashes were due to numerous showers which made the highway slippery.

The heaviest traffic in this locality was along route 28 from Kingston to the Catskills where State Trooper Ray Dunn and Trooper Maish were kept on the jump all day Sunday. Traffic was flowing steadily over this route throughout the day and several accidents were reported. At each accident traffic stalled and gave the officers considerable trouble with traffic.

Memorial Mass at St. Mary's Cemetery

Weather permitting, the annual Memorial Day Mass will be offered in St. Mary's Cemetery Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. In order to facilitate the passage of traffic, into and through the cemetery, all cars will enter by the Foxhall avenue gate, and leave through the exit on Flatbush avenue.

In the event of rain, the Mass will be offered in St. Mary's Church at the same hour.

Deaths among Americans from diabetes have increased by 400 per cent since 1900; over 30,000 deaths in the U. S. estimated from this disease in 1938. The American death rate from diabetes was 9.7 per 100,000 population in 1900; estimated to exceed 23 per 100,000 in 1938. The U. S. has more cases of diabetes and more deaths from this cause per 100,000 of population than any other nation because diabetes is especially a "prosperity" disease, flourishing in countries where living standards are highest. The death rate varies widely among the different states, but parallels per capita income with surprising exactness. Alabama with a per capita income of $189 in 1935, 56 per cent below the national average of $432, had a diabetes death rate of 9.1, 9 per cent below the 1935 national average of 22.2.

Atmosphere Affects Tea. English Cooperative Wholesale society, famous importer and exporter of fine teas, has discovered that tea tasters have keener palate perception in the clear cool atmosphere of an air-conditioned room. So a product might have that certain something in the cool comfort of your private office and still be in the lunch basket of a steel-mill worker.

Miniature Cathedral Thomas Jacobson, a cement finisher of Tacoma, Wash., in his spare hours, has carved with the aid of a magnifying glass, a 3 1/2-foot replica of famed Rheims cathedral out of alder, birch, and walnut wood. The miniature contains more than 250 statues.

LISTEN TO ENTOMBED MAN'S TAPPINGS

Rescue workers at Shenandoah, Pa., take time out to listen to faint underground tappings which told them that Robert Galligan, 38, entombed miner, was still alive. After many hours, the shaft in foreground has been dug almost down to the point, 60 feet underground, where a rock slide trapped Galligan.

MRS. ROOSEVELT HANDS OUT DIPLOMAS

Mrs. Roosevelt handed diplomas to the graduates, urging them to be peacemakers in a troubled world. Homesteaders crowded the commencement hall.

Stone Ridge to Have Day On WGNV in Newburgh

It will be Stone Ridge Day next Tuesday, May 30, at Radio Station WGNV in Newburgh. Matthew Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge will be guest speaker with Miss Eva Purdy on the "For Women Only Hour" at 11 a. m.

Following this at 11:30 o'clock, Harry Harms, accordion player, of Stone Ridge, will be heard on Hudson Valley Varieties, in a program of old-time songs. Crosswell Sheeley and Stockell Gray, also of Stone Ridge, will appear with Charles Graham in Hudson Valley drama.

Newman Club Communion Sun.

Sunday morning more than 125 members of the Newman Club, an organization of Catholic high school students, received Holy Communion at the eight o'clock Mass in St. Peter's Church. Following the corporate communion, all journeyed to the Governor Clinton Hotel, where a communion breakfast was served for 130.

At the speakers' table were the officers of the club, John Weis-haupt, president; Katherine McConnell, vice-president; Mary Martin, secretary, and Thomas McNierney, treasurer, along with the members of the communion breakfast committee, the Rev. Benjamin C. Roth, moderator, and the Rev. Stephen Landherr, C. S. R., from Mount Saint Alphonsus Seminary at Esopus. Father Landherr gave a most interesting talk on his work among the deaf and dumb people.

Mrs. Morschauser Dies Early Sunday

Mrs. Katherine W. Bauer Morschauser, 72, wife of former Supreme Court Justice Joseph J. Morschauser, died at her home, 13 Garfield Place, Poughkeepsie, early Sunday from a stroke suffered Thursday.

A native of Poughkeepsie, Mrs. Morschauser was the daughter of the late Joseph and Elizabeth Bauer, natives of Germany. Surviving in addition to her husband is a son, Joseph Morschauser. Judge and Mrs. Morschauser celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last January 22.

Funeral services Wednesday morning with a low Mass at the Nativity Church at 10 o'clock, the Rev. Augustine E. Asfalg, pastor, officiating. Burial in the family plot in Calvary cemetery.

Local Death Record

Howard S. Tuthill, 63, insurance broker and mortician and former president of the education board of Marlborough, died Saturday morning in Jefferson Memorial Hospital, Miami, Fla., after an illness of three months. Born in Westtown on April 24, 1876, a son of the late Richard and Melville Bennett Tuthill, he had lived in Marlborough for 36 years. A graduate of Middlebury Academy and Columbia University College of Pharmacy, he is survived by his wife, Sarah Christine Tuthill, two sons, Charles E. and Howard S. Tuthill, Jr., and two daughters, Mrs. M. J. Morschauser, of Marlborough, and Mrs. Stanley G. Harwood, of Boston. Mrs. Morschauser is a daughter of the late John N. Tuthill, of Suffolk, and the granddaughter of the late John N. Tuthill, of Suffolk. Funeral services on Wednesday at 10 o'clock in the home will be conducted by the Rev. Claude Macdonald of First Presbyterian Church of Marlborough. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

James F. Smith of 17 West Chester street for 15 years superintendent of Kingston Point Park died Saturday evening after a long illness. Mr. Smith was a native of Rhinebeck and prior to coming to Kingston had resided in Newburgh for several years. For many years he was a ferryboat captain in New York harbor for the Erie Railroad and he also was employed on the Mary Powell and other boats plying the Hudson river. Retiring from river duty about 15 years ago, he came to Kingston and had since then been in charge of the park at Kingston Point. Mr. Smith was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Fraternally he was a member of Newburgh Lodge, No. 309, I. O. O. F., and Highland Chapter, No. 52, R. A. M., and Hudson River Commandery K. T. No. 35, of Newburgh. In addition to his wife, who was Anna Meyers, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. T. M. Stokes, of this city; two sons, John, of Leonia, N. J., and Oliver J. Smith of New York city; one brother, John Q. Smith of Kingston; a sister, Mrs. M. Baer, of this city, and two grandchildren. The funeral will be held from the home Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with burial in the family plot in Montrose cemetery.

Will Go on Air

Bill Raible, lyric tenor, and Tom Crosby, pianist, both of this city, will broadcast from Station WGNV in Newburgh on Wednesday afternoon from 4:45 o'clock until 5 o'clock. Mr. Raible will sing a series of Indian love songs, including the Kashmiri Song, Nocturne, Dawn, Light and Bird Song, while Mr. Crosby will play Retro-spection by Lee Sims.

Auxiliary to Meet

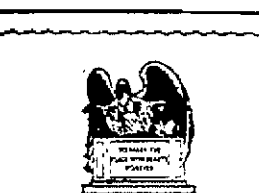

Members of Excelsior Hose Auxiliary who plan to take part in the Memorial Day parade Tuesday morning are requested to meet at the fire house that morning at 10 o'clock. An inspection meeting will be held this evening at 8 o'clock.

DIED

SMITH—Entered into rest Saturday, May 27, 1939, James P. Smith, beloved husband of Anna Meyers Smith, loving father of Mrs. T. M. Stokes, John and Oliver J. Smith and brother of John Q. Smith and Mrs. M. Baer. Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral from his late home, No. 17 West Chester street, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Interment in the family plot in Montrose cemetery.

Business Reported Better Last Week

Business conditions showed signs of improvement last week. There was an upturn in steel production after seven weeks of decline and rail movements were on the upturn by reason of the large rail movement of coal following the mine stoppage and the movement of miscellaneous traffic and a sustained volume of merchandise movement. The past week also saw an upturn in the weekly total of heavy construction contracts in which private undertakings were quite large. There was an upward movement in the retail marketing of automobiles and vigorous buying of cotton goods, all of which made for a good week. On the opposite side of the business ledger was a dropping off of motor car output due to labor difficulties and foreign trade returns for April reflected a somewhat serious decline in dollar value of total exports. From Washington came a new prospect of a renewed drive for a second spending-for-recovery campaign. This movement which seemed in the making, dimmed an otherwise encouraging outlook and the persistent official urging of a self-correcting and expensive farm aid program continued.

Steel in the Pittsburgh areas was up and the schedule for this week was 40 per cent up 4 points from the preceding Monday. Chicago district was up 6 1/2 points and Buffalo is scheduled for a 4 1/2 point rise. Improvement in earnings of A. T. & T. shown during the latter part of 1938 continued and business continues to run ahead of last year. Consolidated profits for first six months are expected to more than cover the $4.50 per share dividend requirements for the period.

Rural Residents Confused on Cut In State Money

Residents of rural districts sending students to Kingston schools in some instances, it was revealed today, have apparently misunderstood the statement which appeared in Saturday's Freeman relative to the city of Kingston losing state money through the cut of 10 per cent in the state aid money for the coming year.

While the tuition which the district pays for attendance at the Kingston schools by non-residents will remain the same the city of Kingston will lose a considerable sum from the so-called "attendance money" which the city annually receives.

Rural districts raise by local taxation a sum of money for school purposes, in addition the districts receive state aid. However the city of Kingston receives in addition to this flat rate tuition from the rural districts a small amount of money which is based on the attendance of all students in the Kingston schools. There will be a 10 per cent reduction in this state aid on city students and rural students alike. The figure is approximately $26,000. It is not contemplated raising the tuition of non-resident students at this time but the 10 per cent loss of state funds will be made up through a slightly higher tax rate here. It was stated that this tax increase now appears to be about $1.20 on last year's rate unless drastic economies can be made. Kingston will be the second largest loser in the state, Ithaca leading the list.

James S. Heavey To Retire June 1

James S. Heavey, of 73 Smith avenue, this city, a telegrapher for the New York Central, will retire June 1, on a pension, it was announced today by an official of the railroad.

Mr. Heavey was born May 21, 1871 at Mystic, Conn., and first entered the service of the New York Central as an extra telegrapher on April 19, 1893. He worked as an extra until July, 1894.

In August 1894 he was stationed at Marlborough and in 1900 went to Granton, N. J. Later in the same year he was stationed at Kingston and in 1907 was transferred to Newburgh. In December of 1908 he was made dispatcher and telegrapher at Kingston. On February 23, 1933 he was made yard master and agent at Rosendale and on March 30, 1933 he again became telegrapher at Kingston where he remained until pensioned.

Ask Insurance Ban

Jefferson City, Mo., May 29 (AP)—Attorney General Roy McKelvey asked the Supreme Court today to ban 142 fire insurance companies from business in Missouri until they repay $8,000,000 and surrender increased premiums obtained in the 1935 O'Malley-Pendergast compromise. The state's attorney termed the compromise a "cheat and fraud" on Missouri policyholders in his quo warranto proceedings.

Military Drill Is Gaining In American Universities

Although only 139 out of a total of 1,706 American colleges and universities offer military drill, and a still smaller percentage of public high schools provide such instruction, 135,794 college and high school students received military instruction under United States army officers in the 1937-38 school year, as compared with 35,091 such students who received army-supervised military instruction in 1916. Another 18,729 young men received such instruction in eight military colleges and 46 military academies qualifying under war department reserve officers training corps standards, making a total of 154,523.

R. O. T. C. trainees in the year 1937-38. A small increase in these totals is expected in the school year 1938-39. The training is generally approved by the vast majority of students, and as a result of its effectiveness, the U. S. now has a reserve of competent commissioned officers numbering just short of 100,000 men.

Of the 139 colleges and universities offering military training, 72 require attendance at military courses for two years by able-bodied male students, and offer an additional two years of training as an elective course; 87 schools offer either two or four years of military training purely on a voluntary basis.

Assails Eyebrow-Shaving As Detrimental to Vision

Don't shave your eyebrows, ladies, if you would see better as well as look better. This bit of beauty advice is offered by no less an authority than Mr. Perc Westmore, famous Hollywood make-up expert. According to Mr. Westmore, when too much of the eyebrow is plucked away, the eye is deprived of one method of protection against excess light from the sun or artificial illumination. It is thus more subject to eyestrain and defective sight due to glare.

About the Folks

Charles T. Hunt, manager of Eddy Brothers Circus, and Mrs. Hunt, formerly Carrie Tronson of Kingston, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Blanshan of 59 Johnston avenue. Concerning his circus business to date, Mr. Hunt said it has been good. Tonight Eddy Brothers play in Newburgh. Later in the season the circus will play Kingston.

May Register Bikes

Corning (AP)—Sergeant Charles G. Burnett of the state police and the Corning and Painted Post safety councils are considering registration of all bicycles in Steuben county. Under the plan, bicycle owners would sign a safety pledge and receive a numbered metal tag. A description of the vehicle and its number would be filed in a central office. Sergeant Burnett believes the plan would lead to increased safety and fewer bicycle thefts.

Army Planning Intensive Drive

its recruiting job is much simpler. It will add only 5,000 men in the next year, and there always are more applicants than vacancies. Better, as well as more, men are the army's prime objective. Of a prospective increase of 25,180 men in the air corps, officials hope to sign up at least 17,000 young recruits with a high school education, or its equivalent, to train as aviation mechanics.

To join the army, a man must be between 18 and 35 years old, in sound health, from 64 to 78 inches tall, and weigh between 128 and 211 pounds. He must be of good character and reputation, an American citizen, and—except in unusual circumstances—single. Enlistments are for three years.

As inducements, the army offers training in most major trades, travel, adventure, chance for advancement, and cash pay of from $21 to $137.50 a month in addition to "board and room" and clothing.

Officers estimate there will be about 76,000 vacancies in the regular service in the year starting July 1. About half of these will be taken care of by re-enlistments.

Approximately 37,000 recruits also will be taken on as a result of the army's expansion. Of this group, about 25,000 will go to the air corps, 6,400 will be assigned to the coast artillery to reinforce Panama Canal defenses, and 5,283 will be for other branches.

The field recruiting force has been increased by 34 officers and 164 enlisted men so that it totals 741.

Honor Students

The 25 high ranking girls and eight boys of each class have been selected again this year to carry the lanterns. These people are chosen from the freshman, junior and senior classes on the basis of their participation in school events, for their scholastic standing and extra curricular indulgence. The Misses Helen Bates and Mildred Ludwig, members of the senior and junior class respectively, are two of the selected lantern bearers. Miss Bates is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bates of Hurley, and is a member of this year's graduating class.

Miss Ludwig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ludwig, of Hurley, is a member of the present junior class and had the honor of being a lantern bearer during her freshman year also.

MEMORIAL DAY

Honoring the soldier dead on Memorial Day with impressive parades, church services, decoration of graves and by displaying the flag is a fitting custom, and its observance should arouse the patriotic spirit and enlist the active service of all genuine Americans.
 To those soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice on the field of battle and to those comrades who have died since, America owes its lasting respect. The observance each year emphasizes the dwindling ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic for new now remain to wear the Civil War uniforms. But the part they played in the history of our country never will be blotted from memory. That these soldiers who have answered the last roll call are not forgotten in this city is shown by the many organizations participating in the memorial exercises tomorrow.

LINDBERGH ON RUSSIA
 David Lloyd George, famous war prime minister of Britain, and now a vigorous member of "His Majesty's loyal opposition" in Parliament, was not much impressed with Col. Lindbergh's unfavorable report of Russian aviation. He tells the House of Commons:

"We shall never forget the Lindbergh episode. He was in Russia, I believe, about a fortnight. He had not seen any of the great leaders of Russia. He could not have seen much of the air force, and he came back and told us the Russian army was no good, that Russian factories were in an awful mess. And there were many people who believed it—except Hitler."

Lloyd George himself says he thinks Russia as "the finest air force in the world." Of course he might be wrong. The truth might be somewhere between him and Lindbergh. The very high standards of the "Lone Eagle" in aviation matters may have led him to over-emphasize technical imperfections in the Russian air force. He may also have underestimated the value of a large though imperfect air fleet and the great enthusiasm of the Russian people for aviation.

The Russians are poor mechanics, but astonishingly air-minded. Parachute-jumping is a national passion. Russia has developed, too, a type of air technique apparently not used by any other nation—landing behind the enemy's lines, in parachutes dropped by an air fleet, an armed invading force.

ENGINEERING
 A steel bridge, a mile and a half long, is being built across a river valley. The builders start from the ends and work toward the middle.
 The ironworkers are pushing forward from each end a great arc of structural steel several hundred feet long. Day by day, week by week, with men swarming over them like ants and great, movable derricks swinging heavy timbers into place, and the constant rat-a-tat-tat of pneumatic riveters, the ends of those two rising and extending steel arcs move toward each other. They will meet over the middle of the river, 150 feet below.
 Thousands of people gather and stare, day after day, as those great steel arms near each other. They reach out so far from their anchored bases that it seems as if they must collapse of their own weight and the weight of the derricks, but they do not.
 At last the big moment comes. It remains only to swing one steel beam into place, 20 feet long and weighing 15 tons. It will close the gap. But will the ends meet evenly and the bolts go home?
 The steam winches hiss and creak, and the beam sinks foot by foot. It is swung around and eased into position. It is three inches, sideways, from a perfect fit.
 Engineers and workmen are a little disappointed, but they are prepared. Hydraulic jacks can readily bend the structure that much without danger. Slowly the ends approach and the bolts are fitted and the electric welder completes the union, and the foremost workers lean across the closed gap and shake hands.
 Three inches off, in a mile and a half!

That looks like an error of about one part in 10,000. Great is engineering. If our political and economic specialists could only plan and build with one-hundredth as much accuracy, this would be a blessed civilization.

AUTOMATIC MAILING

The General Postoffice in New York City is trying out a new mailing device which appears to be both convenient and fascinating. It is an electrical machine in which the mailer inserts his money and his letter. When these have been deposited the machine automatically prints a stamp on the envelope and sets it on its way to its destination. Says the New York Times:

"The machine is almost as tall as a man and, crammed full of man's inventive ingenuity, is almost as useful. It will not only print any denomination of stamp up to 22 cents on your letter, but will also show date and city of deposit, making later delay for postmarking unnecessary. It will tell you how much of your original cash deposit is still unspent (you can insert as much as sixty cents at once in quarters, dimes, nickels and pennies). It will even toss back counterfeit coins to you as rapidly as you can put them in."

If the "mailomat" works as described and proves to be fool-proof and honest, it may revolutionize the mailing system. One can imagine these machines in office buildings and perhaps even replacing the old-style mail boxes on street corners. Certainly they would be used in the outside walls of postoffices to take care of mail after hours or on holidays.
 Mailing a letter under these conditions might be as much fun as playing a slot machine, but what would become of the stamp collectors' hobby?

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act. X-RAY HELPS SINUS INFECTION

I have spoken before of the successful treatment of the catarrhal form of deafness described by Dr. F. W. O'Brien, Boston, in Radiology. The treatment of other forms of deafness is not as yet reported.
 That a disturbance of another portion of the nose, throat and ear combination—the sinuses—can be corrected by X-ray treatment is reported by Drs. Frank E. Butler and Ivan M. Woolley, University of Oregon, in Radiology. They observed the effects of X-rays in chronic sinus disease and have studied the results in experimental animals and over 1,000 treatments.

The effect of the X-rays is to stimulate the usual reaction to infection and hasten repair. The patient usually notices an increase of his symptoms beginning a few days after the X-ray treatment and lasting for three or four days.
 Best results have been obtained in patients who have had symptoms of chronic infection for months or years and whose X-ray films showed a thickened lining of the sinus, thus lessening its air space. These patients usually respond to a single treatment and return in six or eight weeks with clear sinuses, no discharge, and no other symptoms due to sinus disturbance.

The effect upon the other symptoms so common in sinus infection—headache, nerve pains (neuritis) bronchitis—which have been traced to this sinus infection have, in almost every instance, cleared up even though the sinus condition itself was not entirely corrected.
 Drs. Butler and Woolley report that the greatest number of failures occurred in patients who failed to gain relief following surgical operations on nose and sinuses. Large masses of scar tissue—due to surgery—prevented the X-rays being effective. Efforts to relieve the dry form of catarrh, which is one cause of bad breath, were likewise a failure.
 Although it is true that other X-ray physicians have not obtained such good results in treating sinus infection, nevertheless before surgery is used, it would be well to remember that "when skillfully applied, X-ray does no harm and causes no serious reactions and there is no loss of time for the patient."

Even if X-ray fails to cure the condition, it in no way interferes with the surgical operation should it become desirable.

HIGHLAND

Eastern Star Meets

Highland, May 27.—The regular meeting of Highland Chapter 385, Order of Eastern Star, was held Tuesday evening with Matron Mrs. Helen Washington and Patron Thomas Washington presiding. All officers were present except Mrs. Lois Black, historian, with Mrs. Emma Kaiser as substitute and Mrs. Gertrude Coulter, pianist, for whom Mrs. Myrtle Jordan substituted. Minutes of the district meeting were read by Mrs. Olympia Cottine, secretary. Mrs. Florence Plass, treasurer, gave a quarterly report.

In keeping with the chapter custom, memorial exercises were held and the altar draped in memory of Mrs. Isabel Lent, a charter member of Highland Chapter, and Most Worthy F. Putnam, Most Worthy Elizabeth Renn, past grand matron, and Most Worthy John Heiserbother, past grand patron. Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Cotant sang a duet. Mrs. Grace Olmstead, Mrs. Alice Mellor, Mrs. Lois Black and Mrs. Carrie DuBois were reported ill.

The chapter voted to send a letter to Right Worthy David Boyd, who is seriously ill in Orthman's Sanitarium, Kingston. Mrs. Florence Cotant, associate matron, thanked all who assisted toward the success of the banquet held in the Methodist Church.

Invitations were received for the homecoming reception to Mrs. Rebecca McNabb, grand matron in Schenectady, Saturday evening, to Mountain Star Chapter, 237, Windham, for the homecoming of District Deputy Idolyn Gill Fuller, Tuesday evening, June 6, preceded by a banquet at "The Pines" at 6 o'clock. Reservations will be sent to Mrs. Harriet Campbell by Saturday, June 3.

Clinton Chapter, Kingston, invited the members to join them for the Masonic-Starg picnic at Forsyth Park, Wednesday, June 21. Baseball and other games will be featured in the afternoon and a cafeteria supper served at 5:30 o'clock.

The treasurer reported $20.95 realized from the recent card party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Finley, Tillson avenue.

The next meeting of the Officers' Club will be held Monday evening, June 5, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rathgeb, Tillson avenue, with Miss Rose Symes assisting hostess.

Matrons of the years 1932 through 1938, inclusive, were appointed a committee to secure the return of suspended members for the grand matron's project this year.

The 33rd anniversary of the chapter will be observed at the next meeting, June 13. A new flag also will be dedicated at that time. Refreshments are in charge of Mrs. Mary Veverka, Mrs. Hilda Ferguson, Mrs. Ada DuBois and Mrs. Helen DeGroat.

The annual Mother's meeting was celebrated and mothers were presented with carnations. Those taking part in the degree were Mrs. Florence Plass, Miss Rose Symes, Mrs. Myrtle Jordan, Mrs. Washington, Mrs. Mabel Yaeger and Mrs. Lillian Sheeley. Mrs. Anna Maynard gave two readings. Miss Symes and Mrs. Cotant gave two selections. The matron gave an appropriate greeting to mothers. Thomas Washington and Kenneth DuBois acted as escorts for the mothers.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Nettie Conn, Mrs. Florence Harris, Mrs. Bessie Hutchins, Mrs. Olive Johnson. Several guests were present from Port Ewen.

Women's Club Meets

Highland, May 27.—Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker of Stone Ridge was the speaker Tuesday afternoon for the Southern Ulster Women's Club. President's day was observed with representatives from other clubs present at the home of Mrs. A. Loren DeFevre, The Orchards, at Esopus.

Civil Liberties of Employers Have Been Obliterated by Latest Decision of National Labor Relations Board

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 29.—Civil liberties of the employers of America have just about been obliterated by the latest decision of the National Labor Relations Board. For, in effect, it has just been formally declared by the board:

"That an employer is guilty of an 'unfair labor practice' if he does not accede to the proposals of a union."

That an employer who refuses to reinstate employee participating in a strike which is illegal under state law is guilty of an "unfair labor practice."

That an employer has no right to communicate in any manner whatsoever in writing or orally with his employees even if he has reason to think the collective bargaining agents are misrepresenting his position to the employees.

The language used in each of the three foregoing points is not that of the board, but is easily to be derived from a reading of the decision covering many thousands of words, in the case of Reed & Prince Manufacturing Company and a C.I.O. union.

The facts show that the employer recognized the union, began negotiations in good faith, signed a preliminary agreement, that a strike was called while further negotiations were in progress and that the employer, during the strike, offered a contract, but that the terms were displeasing to the union and subsequently seemed to the labor board not to offer any concessions and hence constituted a "refusal to bargain" or an "unfair labor practice."

The declaration of the Supreme Court of the United States originally upholding the Wagner Act was that an employer is obliged to sit down and negotiate with his employees or their agents, but that he is not compelled to sign a contract. The labor board says under certain circumstances, to be judged as to their merits by the board itself, the employer can be made to sign.

The attitude of the Supreme Court of the United States in the so-called Fansteel case relating to sit-down strikes is also disregarded by the board which undertakes to say that the high court did not mean what it said at all, but meant to limit its references concerning participation of employees in illegal strikes only to those strikes involving physical violence. This means that the board does not accept the spirit or letter of the Fansteel case, but feels itself privileged to narrow the decision so that an employer who sees his employees arrested for alleged illegal action cannot use such action as a basis for dismissal.

That nothing in the Wagner law shall permit the board to deny the freedom of speech or of the press or the radio.

That nothing in the Wagner law shall permit the board to consider an "unfair labor practice" the free communication directly between employers and employees, once recognition has been extended and the collective bargaining process has begun.

The board is to select bargaining agents shall be held automatically, at the request of either employers or employees, within the first week in January or the first week in April or the first week in July, or the first week in October of any calendar year.

The club's president, Mrs. Fred Luther, presided and following the Lord's Prayer sung by Miss Helen Luther as the invocation all joined in singing America. The hostess welcome was given by Mrs. LeFevre, who is also past president of the club and then Mrs. Luther introduced the many guests present.

Mrs. Maxwell Taylor, of Kingston, Ulster county chairman of the third district; Mrs. Eugene Relyea of the New Paltz Study Club; Mrs. A. Noble Graham, Kingston, president of the Y. W. C. A.; Mrs. Arthur Frigot, former federation president of Kingston; Mrs. Harry Walker, third district representative of Education; Mrs. John Coleman, Dutchess county chairman; Miss Rhoda Hinkley, Poughkeepsie, ninth district director, who gave an interesting talk upon visits made to the various clubs in her district.

Mrs. Schenck spoke on "This Our World" and emphasized the part women played in the world. She contrasted the past when women had no expression outside of her household and how the change had been accomplished. She saw the need of the women coming to the front now to take a drastic stand for peace as they had in 1917 when they campaigned for suffrage. An open forum was held at the close of the talk and several took part in the expressions of opinions regarding public events.

President at the meeting aside from those mentioned were: Grace Marks, Mrs. Raymond E. Craft, Kingston; Mrs. M. Mott, Mrs. Charles Osberg, Mrs. A. R. Mott, Esopus; Mrs. Albert Kurdt, Mrs. Harold Story, Mrs. C. Chester DuMond, Mrs. H. M. Cameron, Ulster Park; Mrs. Jesse Alexander, Mrs. Elmer Randall, Mrs. James Callahan, Mrs. Fred B. Schmidt, Mrs. Troy M. Cook, Mrs. William Russell, Mrs. John J. Gaffney, Mrs. U. Parker Decker, Mrs. Clarence Tompkins, Mrs. Charles Schmidt, Miss Eliza Raymond, Highland. Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon by the hostess.

Miss Rose Symes was hostess to the Queen Esther Club Wednesday and in the absence of the president, Mrs. W. H. Maynard, the vice president, Mrs. Clarence Tompkins, presided, and heard the reports of the various committees. Mrs. C. W. Rathgeb had provided some problems and a quiz for entertainment. In the former, Mrs. Ethel Bradshaw was the winner and Mrs. Jacob Schuhle in the latter. Members who attended were Mrs. M. Tompkins, Mrs. Bradshaw, Mrs. Victor Salvatore, Mrs. Schuhle, Mrs. A. H. Campbell, Misses Mattie Schantz, Edith and Hattie Dickinson, Ruth Martin, Mrs. Rathgeb, Mrs. Fred Schneider, Mrs. Ralph Lyons, Mrs. William Russell, Mrs. Parker Decker, Mrs. D. Cowdin, Mrs. Charles DuBois and Miss Symes who served refreshments.

PORT EWEN NEWS

Boy Scouts to Mark Grave
Port Ewen, May 29—Boy Scouts of Troop 26 have placed a bronze Boy Scouts marker on the grave of the late Richard E. Sleight, who died while in active service as a troop committeeman. The marker bears in raised letters Mr. Sleight's name, his title and the date of his birth and death. Mr. Sleight was deeply interested in Boy Scout work and much beloved by the boys of Troop 26. The scouts will blow "taps" at the grave on Memorial Day.

Parade Plans for Tomorrow
Port Ewen, May 29—The Memorial Day parade will form at 8:45 a. m. tomorrow at School No. 13. Major O. R. Hiltbrant, marshal of the parade, has announced the following lineup: School trustees, guests, Boy Scouts of Troop 26, Port Ewen Drum Corps, flag bearers, school children of Districts 13 and 14, Port Ewen fire department, Ladies' Auxiliary of the fire department. The line of march will be South on Broadway to the Riverview Cemetery where the memorial services will be held.

Village Notes
Port Ewen, March 29—It is requested that every scout that is planning to parade Memorial Day be present tonight promptly at 6 p. m. in the troop room.
The Port Ewen Drum Corps will hold its usual practice tonight. This is especially important in rehearsal for tomorrow's parades.

SUBMARINE SCHOOL: How Germany Trains Men To Go Under Sea

1. ON DECK of training ships young Germans go about their duties at the "Unterseebootsschule" Germany has established at Neustadt, on the Baltic.

2. IN THE CLASSROOM, two pupils try to keep this model of a submarine's navigation room straight. Officer keeps moving it out of position to simulate operating conditions. Those indicators show how well the beginners are doing.

3. CHECK UP before diving shows everything is okay with the buoy, which would be sent to the top if boat didn't come up. "Submarine sunk here," it reads. "Don't leave this buoy." Similar buoy helped navy spot Squalus quickly in recent disaster.

4. JUST IN CASE of accident, students learn how to use this lung. U. S. has similar equipment, but Squalus rescues were made by diving bell.

Saw Green Lights

Alfred Prien (above), machinist's mate on the submarine Squalus, was at the signal board when the sub started its tragic dive off Portsmouth, N. H., and he said all lights on the board indicated the sub was ready to dive safely. He's shown as he left Portsmouth navy hospital.

Three Arrests Made

Three arrests were made here over the week-end on charges of public intoxication, and all three men were fined $3 each when arraigned today before Judge Cahill in police court. They were George Leonard, 23, of 315 Fair street, George L. Smith, 48, of 80 Green street, and James P. McKivitt, 46, of Troy. Frank Cashara, 27, of Glasco, was fined $2 for failing to observe a full stop sign.

Fruit In Summer Prints

Paris (AP)—Cool looking summer frocks have luscious fruits printed over them. Red apples, green plums and yellow pears appear appetizing. Following the fruit, the next in line is a pattern of cigarettes printed in white on navy blue crepe. The cigarettes have the effect of being scattered over the crepe, and each one bears a brand mark, covering well-nigh every brand in the market.

BIGGEST SUB SALVAGE JOB

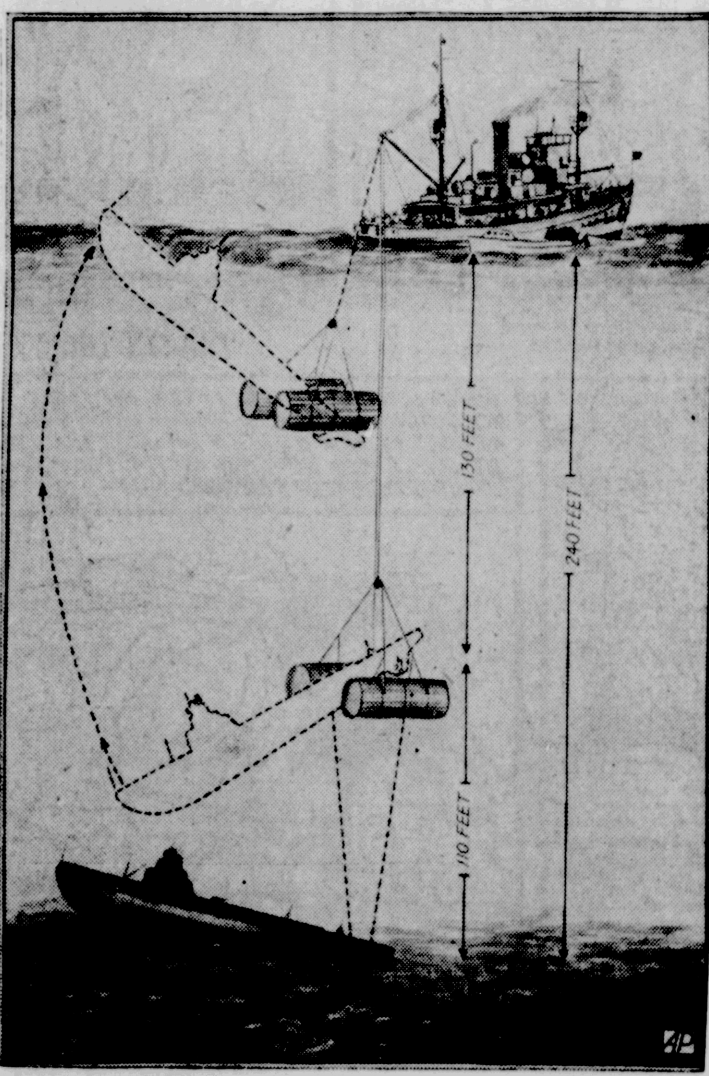

Diagram shows how the Navy plans to raise the sunken submarine Squalus from 240 feet of water off New Hampshire coast. A delicate balance will be kept between air pumped into the sub and the buoyancy of the huge pontoons. The sub's stern will be raised to 130 feet from the surface, where pontoons will be attached. Then the bow will be floated to the surface, after which the pontoons will lift the stern.

Says Dog Bit Him

Meyer Brumer of 108 Hone street, reported to the police department Sunday evening that while riding his bicycle on Hasbrouck, near Newkirk avenue, he had been bitten in the leg by a dog.

GIRL TACKLES MAD CONVICT IN TAVERN

College Education Pays, Alumni Show

Find Better Jobs, Quicker, Survey Finds.

WASHINGTON.—Proof that a college education pays dividends has been found in a survey of 46,000 alumni graduated from 31 colleges and universities in the United States. The report was announced by John W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education.

The survey covered graduates from 1928 to 1935.

The survey showed that 96 per cent of all the men and 93 per cent of all the women were employed either temporarily or permanently. Their average age upon graduation was 22 years.

Among the 46,000 who replied to questionnaires, only 2 per cent of the men and 1 per cent of the women have been on relief.

Salaries paid to college men generally were higher than paid to women, although older college women earn more than young college men. The typical salary of a male college graduate the second year out of school was found to be $25 a week, while the average woman graduate two years out of school could command only $21.

Salaries paid to men were found to increase about $150 a year until they were earning about $45 a week eight years after graduation, while women's salaries increased only $9 a week to $30 after eight years.

Sixty-five per cent of the alumni reported themselves in the professional groups. Teaching attracted 17 per cent of the men; engineering, 13 per cent; law, 9 per cent, and medicine, 6 per cent.

Forty-eight per cent of women graduates found teaching positions, while 29 per cent had general occupations, including 16 per cent in domestic work.

Damages Asked of City

For the Effects of 'Flu'
SEMINOLE, OKLA.—Mrs. Addie Womack thinks the city of Seminole should pay her $5,075 damages, because, she says, it is the cause of her being susceptible to colds.

She filed a damage suit for that amount against the city, and cited the following events to "prove my claim":

Municipal workmen dug a ditch across the back lot of her home. She alleges the workers broke a gas line running to her home and that she was without heat for 2½ days.

Mrs. Womack, 44, contends that she contracted influenza during the period the gas line was broken. This caused her, she alleges, to become susceptible to "exposure."

Texas Co-eds Slender;
Weight Below Average
AUSTIN, TEXAS.—Texas college girls are more slender than co-eds of the "corn belt" and the North, Miss Leah Gregg, physical education director at the University of Texas, has revealed.

Average weight for college girls in America is 121 pounds, Miss Gregg said, based on average height of 5 feet 4 inches. The average University of Texas freshman co-ed is 17 years old and weighs 115 pounds, at least six pounds under the average poumpage for girls in Middle West and Northern colleges. Sixty-one per cent of Texas girls are five pounds or more underweight and 42 per cent 10 pounds or more under 121 pounds.

Average Typist Expects More Energy Than Digger

CLEVELAND.—The average typist, by actual scientific tests, does more work than a ditch-digger, according to Frank M. Slough, Cleveland patent attorney.

"When the effort required to strike a typewriter key is multiplied by the thousands of key-depressions, per day," said Slough, "the total effort actually is greater than that required in eight hours of ditch digging."

Slough said that a young Cleveland man had invented a revolutionary electrical typewriter, "simpler, cheaper to manufacture, easier to operate—with interchangeable typeface, and many other advantages."

Future Home Life Revealed

NEW YORK.—"Tomorrow Town" at the New York World's fair reveals how the community of the future will function. The "Town" covers five acres. Fifteen homes are being erected to give spectators an idea of what to expect for prices ranging from $3,000 to $17,000.

Pacific Trees Famous

The trees of Oregon have been used not only in the construction of great edifices and in the building of ships, but in counsels of war, in treaties, in judiciary proceedings, in courtships, in death; they even have been used as safety deposit vaults. Romance attaches to the ornamental and orchard trees, brought to Oregon by the saga-making pioneers in covered-wagon days. Science has been interested in Oregon's age-old trees, prehistoric giants, submerged beneath the waters of lakes and rivers; the fossilized trees of primordial forests.

Two Unrelated Girls Can Qualify as Twins

KEARNEY, NEB.—Miss Maxine Samuelson of Wilcox, Neb., and Miss Maxine Samuelson of Elm Creek, Neb., aren't related, but they could be twins.

Both were born February 21, 1921; both are blondes; both are seniors in high school; both are of Swedish descent and both live on farms. Added to that, the middle name of their fathers is Theodore and the initials of their mothers are E. M. S.

The girls live within a 25-mile radius of Kearney and have corresponded for three years, but did not meet until recently.

Fire Destroys Shack at O. & W.

About 10:30 o'clock Saturday night fire destroyed an old shack near the O. & W. Railroad station, which the fire department said was evidently used by hoboes as a hang-out.

The shack, a one-story frame structure, was gutted by the fire, which started on the floor and burned up the interior siding of the walls.

Deputy Fire Chief Fred M. Leverich said the fire was apparently caused by the dropping of a lighted match or cigarette in old papers that littered the floor.

Two men, James Casey of Chester and James Reilly, who said he had no home, were arrested about an hour after the fire when discovered asleep in a barn on the lowlands across the railroad tracks from the burned shack. The arrest was made by Officer Sammons, who charged the pair with vagrancy.

The two men were held in the county jail for a hearing today before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court, at which time they were sentenced to six months and serving of sentence was suspended provided they left town at once.

"Scientific" Baseball Is Yellow

The astonished batter who sees yellow pots before his eyes will not be the victim of a hallucination. He will simply be looking at one of the latest examples of Twentieth century progress—the "scientific" baseball, which is a bright, lemon-yellow in color. According to its sponsors, this new baseball has greater visibility when soaring through the air. Future "Caseys," they claim, will be in a better position to get the "first whack" instead of being "whacked" by speed balls. A yellow object moving through the air is more easily discerned than is a white object. The color also affords greater contrast with the ball-field background. Reports received by the Better Vision Institute state that the new baseball may be used in this season's games upon the agreement of the ball clubs.

Traffic Reported As Purely 'Local' By State Troopers

Travel over the week-end was reported light by State Police, who paroled the highways, and much of the traffic was called "local." Memorial Day coming on Tuesday, it was said, did not hold out the inducement which it did last year when a long week-end was the result of the holiday falling on Monday.

Traffic was pronounced only normal for a week-end. As a result of comparatively light travel there were few accidents along the main highways, a series of accidents being reported Sunday on Route 28 in the Catskills. Some of these crashes were due to numerous showers which made the highway slippery.

The heaviest traffic in this locality was along route 28 from Kingston to the Catskills where State Trooper Ray Dunn and Trooper Maish were kept on the jump all day Sunday. Traffic was flowing steadily over this route throughout the day and several accidents were reported. At each accident traffic stalled and gave the officers considerable trouble with traffic.

Memorial Mass at St. Mary's Cemetery

Weather permitting, the annual Memorial Day Mass will be offered in St. Mary's Cemetery Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. In order to facilitate the passage of traffic, into and through the cemetery, all cars will enter by way of the Foxhall avenue gate, and leave through the exit on Flatbush avenue.

In the event of rain, the Mass will be offered in St. Mary's Church at the same hour.

Deaths among Americans from diabetes have increased by 400 per cent since 1900; over 30,000 deaths in the U. S. estimated from this disease in 1938. The American death rate from diabetes was 9.7 per 100,000 population in 1900; estimated to exceed 23 per 100,000 in 1938. The U. S. has more cases of diabetes and more deaths from this cause per 100,000 of population than any other nation because diabetes is essentially a "prosperity" disease, flourishing in countries where living standards are highest. The death rate varies widely among the different states, but parallels per capita income with surprising exactness. Alabama with a per capita income of $189 in 1935, 56 per cent below the national average of $432, had a diabetes death rate of 9.1, 59 per cent below the 1935 national average of 22.2.

Atmosphere Affects Tea

English Cooperative Wholesale society, famous importer and exporter of fine teas, has discovered that tea tasters have keener palate perception in the clear cool atmosphere of an air-conditioned room. So a product might have that certain something in the cool comfort of your private office and still be sipped in the lunch basket of a steel-mill worker.

Miniature Cathedral

Thomas Jacobsen, a cement finisher of Tacoma, Wash., in his spare hours, has carved with the aid of a magnifying glass, a 3 1/2-foot replica of famed Rheims cathedral out of alder, birch, and walnut wood, reveals the American Magazine. The miniature contains more than 250 statues.

MRS. ROOSEVELT HANDS OUT DIPLOMAS

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt stands with boy and girl graduates of the high school in Arthurdale, W. Va., a resettlement community which she helped to found. Mrs. Roosevelt handed diplomas to the graduates, urging them to be peacemakers in a troubled world. Homesteaders crowded the commencement hall.

Stone Ridge to Have Day On WGN in Newburgh

It will be Stone Ridge Day next Tuesday, May 30, at Radio Station WGN in Newburgh. Matthew Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge will be guest speaker with Miss Eva Purdy on the "For Women Only Hour" at 11 a. m.

Following this at 11:30 o'clock, Harry Harris, accordion player, of Stone Ridge, will be heard on Hudson Valley Varieties, in a program of old-time songs. Crosswell Sheeley and Stockell Gray, also of Stone Ridge, will appear with Charles Graham in Hudson Valley drama.

Newman Club Communion Sun.

Sunday morning more than 125 members of the Newman Club, an organization of Catholic high school students, received Holy Communion at the eight o'clock Mass in St. Peter's Church. Following the corporate communion, all journeyed to the Governor Clinton Hotel, where a communion breakfast was served for 130.

At the speakers' table were the officers of the club, John Weisaupt, president; Katherine McConnell, vice-president; Mary Martin, secretary, and Thomas McNierney, treasurer, along with the members of the communion breakfast committee, the Rev. Benjamin C. Roth, moderator, and the Rev. Stephen Landherr, C. S. R. from Mount Saint Alphonsus Seminary at Esopus. Father Landherr gave a most interesting talk on his work among the deaf and dumb people.

Flashes of Life
Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Wise Bird

Richmond, Va. — A brown thrasher assumed herself and brood of a cool summer home by building a nest and hatching a family in the cab of an ice truck.

G. L. Wagner said he watched the mother bird, worm in bill, hover over his truck for a half mile before he stopped and discovered the nest.

Mistaken Identity

New York — A near-sighted customer in the Indian bazaar at the New York World's Fair dropped a quarter into the hand of a dignified lady in rich Hindu garb.

"Tell my fortune," he said, "and no silly stuff."

The lady stiffened. So did the dark, distinguished man with her. They handed back the quarter and stalked out.

They were the Maharajah and Maharanee of Nepal.

Iron Man

Quillayute, Wash. — It took more than study to earn a high school diploma for Alvin Fletcher. Alvin traveled 52 miles a day, 180 days a year—more than 37,000 miles—over Olympic Peninsula wilderness roads to school.

Wonderful Weather—It's Raining

Kintyre, N. D. — Governor John Moses was delivering a serious commencement address at high school graduation exercises here. Suddenly he stopped, lifted a finger, a hush came.

"Listen," he murmured. "Hear that? Isn't it wonderful?"

His audience listened. It was raining.

Quick Results

North Loup, Neb. — An advertisement in the North Loup Enterprise read: "Wanted a good drenching rain for the North Loup valley. Will trade dry weather. Next day 1.42 inches rain fell."

Depend Upon Yourself

Train yourself to make your own decisions about everything. Sooner or later, there comes a time in your life, when you will have to use your own judgment. A crisis will come. You will be in doubt about what to do. There will be not one to whom you can turn for advice. YOU must find a solution to your problem, unaided.

Unless you have learned to stand on your own two feet, you will be puzzled about what course to take. For the timid soul who is often tempted to "ask John's advice"—your judgment may be even better than his, so why not FOLLOW YOUR OWN JUDGMENT?

Try to develop the habit of not worrying, no matter what troubles may come. Worry undermines the health. It prevents you from doing your work well. Moreover, it steals the ability to concentrate upon your tasks. In all the important decisions of your life, YOU are the only one who can decide which course to follow. Learn to be self-reliant!

With confidence in your ability, faith in your judgment and hope in your heart, you will be prepared to meet the emergencies of life.

When the sun in the skies of our world is blotted out by the clouds of fear, pessimism, worry and despair, we must depend upon the sun within ourselves. We must generate our own sunshine. We must carry it with us, to light the way through the darkness of defeat, to burn down obstacles.

How create such inner-sunshine? Close your mind to negative thoughts as you would lock the door to robbers. Fill your mind with positive, constructive, cheerful, hopeful thoughts. Tell yourself that you can succeed, at the part of a winner. Dispel the clouds in the lives of others with the sunshine of service.

We who carries his sunshine with him on the journey of life has learned the master-secret of triumphant living.

It is said that "Life is what you make it." Let us try to create a pleasant one. Be self-reliant!

Tommy was listening to some of his sailor uncle's adventures: "You see, sonny, I always believe in fighting the enemy with his own weapons."

"Really?" gasped Tommy. "How long does it take to sting a wasp?"

Playfoot — Do you know how far apart your ears are?

Pancake — No. I haven't the slightest idea. How far would you say it is?

Playfoot — Well, in your case I'd say one block.

Zeigler — I suppose you want to marry a girl as near like your mother as possible.

Jimmie — No, I'm going to marry an old-fashioned girl.

The secretary put his head into the office of the business magnate: "A man has just called, sir," he announced. "He wishes you to tell him the secret of your success in business."

"Just a minute," said the businessman, cautiously. "Before you show him in, tell me, is he a reporter or a detective?"

A city on a hill cannot be hidden, neither can it be sheltered from the wind.

Frump — What is your favorite book?

Goldbeck — It has always been my bank book, but even that doesn't rate much interest now.

TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Frances Hanna

The Characters

Jocelyn Russell, beautiful heiress.
Tally Mack, young farmer whose family has inherited half the Russell estate, Seaciff.

Yesterday: Thorn closes the deal on what he thinks is oil land.

Chapter 25

The Rosewood Cabinet

THE casts were removed from old Mack's legs on the fifteenth of October and he was allowed to hobble about a short while each day with the support of crutches. The doctor expressed wonder at the swiftness with which his bones had knitted, but Gramp insisted:

"Fiddlesticks! I'm tough and jest in the prime of life! I got years ahead of me to pester folks and get 'em in trouble and out of it."

However, now that he was more self-sufficient, Jocelyn could think of no excuse to postpone her wedding again. Not that she really wished to, she reflected, but she hated to leave Seaciff, torn up as it was, and all the dear, familiar things she had always known. Nevertheless, Geoffrey was impatient, and she felt further delay would be most unfair to him.

The nights and mornings now were nippy and only in the middle of the day could she dive into the surf or the swimming pool. This particular day, coming out from a rigorous ten lengths in the pool, she saw Tally approaching her, a frown on his face.

Without preface he said: "I promised you long ago to give you first chance at buying that rosewood cabinet I had to sell. Well, it has to be sold."

"Why?" she asked, pulling the rubber cap from her head and shaking out her hair. "Isn't your farm making money?"

"Yes, I did have a small savings account, but it went for the doctor's bill. Now the semi-annual taxes are due on this place and I must pay them. Your brother paid the first half last spring; now it's my turn and the only way I can raise enough money is on that cabinet. This antique dealer offered me five hundred."

Jocelyn picked up a thick Turkish towel and began wiping the water from her face and arms. Her legs felt cold. Why did Tally always approach her and speak to her as if he had a chip on his shoulder and hoped and expected she would knock it off?

"I'll ask Thorn for the money as soon as he comes home," she promised. "He hasn't given me my allowance yet this month and I need it. I—I have a lot of clothes to buy for my—my marriage."

Tally stiffened. "At least you'll never have to work for a living. It might have done you some good; still, you might have found out you couldn't take it."

"Do you have to be insulting?" "I didn't mean it that way. Sorry. I'll call for the money tonight."

"Don't bother," she called after his retreating back. "I'll bring it over when I come to see your grandfather."

She went slowly into the house and up to her room. She was so lonely these days. She missed Bob terribly. She had come to dread the ritual of dinner because she had to face Thorn across the long empty expanse of table. Thorn had changed so since Nola's departure. He had certainly become a person of paradoxical moods. He was, by turn, morose or genial; silent or over-talkative. When she had inquired as to his sudden interest in Gramp he had put her off with an evasive answer.

Wild-Cat Scheme

LIFE, which up until the Mack's advent, had flowed serenely and peacefully, had now become complicated and unpredictable. Even her own mind and emotions were tangled up in disturbing complexities.

Hearing Thorn go into his room, she drew on a robe and knocked on his door. Her appearance seemed to startle him. He looked as if his clothes were full of pins sticking into him.

"Thorn, what on earth is the matter with you?" she demanded. "You're as jittery and jumpy as a racehorse."

"Oh, it's nothing. Nerves, I guess. I'll take a run in to the doctor's tomorrow and have him take a look at me."

She told him about the taxes and the rosewood cabinet, finishing: "So be a darling and write me a check for five hundred, will you? And while you're at it give me my allowance. You might spare a hundred or so extra for clothes because I'll be driving to San Francisco in the next day or so."

Thorn slumped into a chair as if his legs had suddenly refused to support him. He moistened his dry lips with the tip of his tongue.

"Lyn—the truth is—I can't give you any money at all. Not a penny. You see I—I have invested our money. I expect to triple it any day now."

"You mean you put every cent of our inheritance into some wild-cat scheme?"

"It isn't wild-cat," he defended.

The Characters

Jocelyn Russell, beautiful heiress.
Tally Mack, young farmer whose family has inherited half the Russell estate, Seaciff.

Yesterday: Thorn tells Jocelyn their money is tied up when she asks for enough to buy the rosewood cabinet. Tally relents, says Jocelyn can have the cabinet.

Chapter 26

Jinx

GRAMP hitched himself up higher on his pillows; reached underneath them for his tin-foil-wrapped tobacco; leisurely peeled back a corner of tin-foil and bit off a piece of tobacco. "The taxes is paid," he informed Jocelyn. "Don't know where in tarnation Tally got the cash 'cause he won't tell. Anyhow, he's been a runnin' into the city every day o' the week, and off he went agin this mornin'. Said somethin' about gettin' a job with some law folks in Santa Barbary. Guess he's aimin' to be a lawyer. Heard him and Bob fixin' it up for Bob to take keer o' this place."

Jocelyn's eyes shone with inner delight as her lips parted in a smile. "Oh, that's the most wonderful news I've heard in years. Gramp! It—it doesn't seem possible that Tally is a lawyer. I know he'll be a good one."

"You bet. Kinda like him, don't you, Josie?"

"Kinda," she laughed, "although he's the stubbornest, contrariest man I ever saw. He ought to win all his cases!"

"Say," Gramp asked in an off-hand manner, "what about this wedding o' yours? Aint it sposed to come off mighty soon?"

"In a little more than a week," she answered, her eyes sobering. "I—I hate to leave Seaciff."

"Humph," Gramp turned to observe the unhappy cat whose great amber eyes were dilated with indignation. "Take those clothes off o' him, Betsy," he ordered crossly. "He's been tormented long enough. Then you run down and see if you can help Grampa."

When Betsy had obeyed, the old man again regarded Jocelyn. "Don't see what you want to marry that fellow for, Josie. You ain't in love with him."

Jocelyn carefully inspected the belt of her woolly green dress. So, she thought, a little frightened by the man's perspicacity, old Mack had penetrated with his sage old eyes a secret which she thought to be hers alone. Even she had not suspected this truth until that time a few days ago when Tally had held her in his arms and wiped the tears from her cheeks. Since then she had known that her feeling for Geoff was only a deep friendship resulting from habit; that love, deep and thrilling and real, possessed her heart for Tally. Still, what good to admit to anyone, even herself, Tally merely tolerated her. He disliked everything she stood for; everything she said and did. And Geoffrey . . . she just couldn't let him down. He loved her. He was kind and thoughtful and faithful. If only she could control her impetuous emotions she needed to control them now.

"I'd rather not talk about it, Gramp," she said at last.

"Sure," he nodded. "But I got to say this, Josie, even if it makes you mad, it's Tally you ought to have an' you know it. If he wasn't such a stubborn young fool he'd carry you off and make you marry him. But he won't. I always heard about history repeatin' itself and that's what I figure is happenin' right now. Your Grampa should've married me 'stead of Homer Russell, an' you know it. Mebbe he'd never had much —" his voice thinned and softened—"but there ain't need of much if you got love inside o' you, Josie. Life is kind o' long an' sort o' empty if you don't have it, an' somehow you have to fill it up with things like kids an' money an' fancy clothes an' duty. Never fills it up, though. Katie was a good girl and a good wife an' mother. Still I never cared much 'bout anything after Josie run away. Sixty years is a long time for the two of us to live with just memories inside—"

Urged by an emotion beyond her control, Jocelyn knelt beside the bed and laid her shining red head against the old man's hand.

Softly, his tired old voice a little wavery with unshed tears, he said: "I jest don't want you to make the same mistake we made sixty years ago, honey. Don't try sayin' an' figure things out for yourself, an' remember this, if you don't owe nobody your lifetime, promise or no promise!"

Promise Me

GEOFFREY, driving Jocelyn to a party at Ruth Benton's that night, said: "Why so gloomy, Lyn? We're going to a party, not a funeral. It's to be a gale celebration in honor of our coming wedding. I hope you aren't depressed because Thorn is short of cash and you aren't able to buy new clothes? I still can't see why you won't at least borrow the money from me. After all, you will be my wife in eight more days."

Jocelyn shivered; drew her long

Although smiling, Lester Dircks, 7, (above), of South Bend, Ind., doesn't know it, this may be his last year of life. Lester's skin is turning to leather, due to a rare disease, and doctors say they have little hope of saving his life.

Expert Praises Work of Players

Interest in the experimental productions of the Town Players in reviving melodramas at the Town Music Hall in Port Ewen, was expressed by Norman Brace, prominent New York theatrical director and teacher of many radio and Hollywood stars.

The director of the Theatre School of Dramatic Art at Carnegie Hall, Mr. Brace visited the Town Music Hall Saturday night in a professional criticism of the production, he told the cast that melodrama revivals offer the only opportunity in the theatre today for over-acting. Without exception, he said, the acting of the Town Players in "Silas, the Chorbey," is beyond criticism.

The New York director who has coached such famous personalities as Lanny Ross and Constance Bennett, made special note of the performance of John Brophy who plays the title role, and Dan Whiteley, the villain in the current production. Their success in their individual roles, Mr. Brace said, is due to their over-acting, to pantomiming the presentation rather than relying solely upon the spoken word for effect.

Several professional suggestions made by Mr. Brace will be incorporated in a special performance of "Silas, the Chorbey," which is to be given tonight at 9 o'clock.

Breakfast has more casualties than any other meal. Grapefruit in the eye, egg yolk on the chin, and hot coffee to scald the throat.

Carnival to Open At Powell's Field

The O. C. Buck Exposition will open a week's engagement tonight at Powell's Field just over the Washington avenue viaduct under the auspices of the Excelsior Hose Co.

A free circus program will be staged at 10:30 o'clock each night and will feature the "Fearless Falcons," a troupe which performs on 150-foot aerial rigging without benefit of nets.

The O. C. Buck exposition has been re-organized and modernized following a disastrous winter quarters fire in November. The latest riding "thrillers" have been added to the amusement division of the carnival.

Knowledge adds to the pleasure of life. Take for instance the people who know and appreciate flowers.

Shady Woman Shares Estate of Educator

New York, May 27 (Special)—Florence E. B. Davis of Shady will inherit one fourth the residuary estate left by the late Miss Emma J. Carr of Brooklyn, under the terms of the will filed for probate in Surrogate's Court here. The legatee is a niece. The remainder of the estate is divided among other nieces and nephews. Miss Carr died May 9. She was a teacher in the academy when it was founded by John Lockwood. Later, 60 years ago, the testatrix and her sister, Miss Mary Carr, bought the school from Mr. Lockwood and ran it until Miss Carr's retirement 10 years ago. Her estate, not yet appraised, is formally declared "more than $20,000."

MEMORIAL DAY
Honoring the soldier dead on Memorial Day with impressive parades, church services, decoration of graves and by displaying the flag is a fitting custom, and its observance should arouse the patriotic spirit and enlist the active service of all genuine Americans.

To those soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice on the field of battle and to those comrades who have died since, America owes its lasting respect. The observance each year emphasizes the dwindling ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic for few now remain to wear the Civil War uniforms. But the part they played in the history of our country never will be blotted from memory. That these soldiers who have answered the last roll call are not forgotten in this city is shown by the many organizations participating in the memorial exercises tomorrow.

LINDBERGH ON RUSSIA

David Lloyd George, famous war prime minister of Britain, and now a vigorous member of "His Majesty's loyal opposition" in Parliament, was not much impressed with Col. Lindbergh's unfavorable report of Russian aviation. He tells the House of Commons:

"We shall never forget the Lindbergh episode. He was in Russia, I believe, about a fortnight. He had not seen any of the great leaders of Russia. He could not have seen much of the air force, and he came back and told us the Russian army was no good, that Russian factories were in an awful mess. And there were many people who believed it—except Hitler."

Lloyd George himself says he thinks Russia has "the finest air force in the world." Of course he might be wrong. The truth might be somewhere between him and Lindbergh. The very high standards of the "Lone Eagle" in aviation matters may have led him to over-emphasize technical imperfections in the Russian air force. He may also have underestimated the value of a large though imperfect air fleet and the great enthusiasm of the Russian people for aviation.

The Russians are poor mechanics, but astonishingly air-minded. Parachute-jumping is a national passion. Russia has developed, too, a type of air technique apparently not used by any other nation—landing behind the enemy's lines, in parachutes dropped by an air fleet, an armed invading force.

ENGINEERING

A steel bridge, a mile and a half long, is being built across a river valley. The builders start from the ends and work toward the middle.

The ironworkers are pushing forward from each end a great arc of structural steel several hundred feet long. Day by day, week by week, with men swarming over them like ants and great, movable derricks swinging heavy timbers into place, and the constant rat-a-tat-tat of pneumatic riveters, the ends of those two rising and extending steel arcs move toward each other. They will meet over the middle of the river, 150 feet below.

Thousands of people gather and stare, day after day, as those great steel arms near each other. They reach out so far from their anchored bases that it seems as if they must collapse of their own weight and the weight of the derricks, but they do not.

At last the big moment comes. It remains only to swing one steel beam into place, 20 feet long and weighing 15 tons. It will close the gap. But will the ends meet evenly and the bolts go home?

The steam winches hiss and creak, and the beam sinks foot by foot. It is swung around and eased into position. It is three inches, sideways, from a perfect fit.

Engineers and workmen are a little disappointed, but they are prepared. Hydraulic jacks can readily bend the structure that much without danger. Slowly the ends approach and the bolts are fitted and the electric welder completes the union, and the fore-most workers lean across the closed gap and shake hands.

Three inches off, in a mile and a half!

That looks like an error of about one part in 10,000. Great is engineering. If our political and economic specialists could only plan and build with one-hundredth as much accuracy, this would be a blessed civilization.

AUTOMATIC MAILING

The General Postoffice in New York City is trying out a new mailing device which appears to be both convenient and fascinating. It is an electrical machine in which the mailer inserts his money and his letter. When these have been deposited the machine automatically prints a stamp on the envelope and sets it on its way to its destination. Says the New York Times:

"The machine is almost as tall as a man and, crammed full of man's inventive ingenuity, is almost as useful. It will not only print any denomination of stamp up to 22 cents on your letter, but will also show date and city of deposit, making later delay for postmarking unnecessary. It will tell you how much of your original cash deposit is still unspent (you can insert as much as sixty cents at once in quarters, dimes, nickels and pennies). It will even toss back counterfeit coins to you as rapidly as you can put them in."

If the "mailomat" works as described and proves to be fool-proof and honest, it may revolutionize the mailing system. One can imagine these machines in office buildings and perhaps even replacing the old-style mail boxes on street corners. Certainly they would be used in the outside walls of postoffices to take care of mail after hours or on holidays.

Mailing a letter under these conditions might be as much fun as playing a slot machine, but what would become of the stamp collectors' hobby?

X-RAY HELPS SINUS INFECTION

I have spoken before of the successful treatment of the catarrhal form of deafness described by Dr. F. W. O'Brien, Boston, in Radiology. The treatment of other forms of deafness is not as yet reported. That a disturbance of another portion of the nose, throat and ear combination—the sinuses—can be corrected by X-ray treatment is reported by Drs. Frank E. Butler and Ivan M. Woolley, University of Oregon, in Radiology. They observed the effects of X-rays in chronic sinus disease and have studied the results in experimental animals and over 1,000 treatments.

The effect of the X-rays is to stimulate the usual reaction to infection and hasten repair. The patient usually notices an increase of his symptoms beginning a few days after the X-ray treatment and lasting for three or four days.

"Best results have been obtained in patients who have had symptoms of chronic infection for months or years and whose X-ray films showed a thickened lining of the sinuses, thus lessening its air space. These patients usually respond to a single treatment and return in six or eight weeks with clear sinuses, no discharge, and no other symptoms due to sinus disturbance."

The effect upon the other symptoms so common in sinus infection—headache, nerve pains (neuritis) bronchitis—which have been traced to this sinus infection have, in almost every instance, cleared up even though the sinus condition itself was not entirely corrected.

Drs. Butler and Woolley report that the greatest number of failures occurred in patients who failed to gain relief following surgical operations on nose and sinuses. Large masses of scar tissue—due to surgery—prevented the X-rays being effective. Efforts to relieve the dry form of catarrh, which is one cause of bad breath, were likewise a failure.

Although it is true that other X-ray physicians have not obtained such good results in treating sinus infection, nevertheless before surgery is used, it would be well to remember that "when skillfully applied, X-ray does no harm and causes no serious reactions and there is no loss of time for the patient."

Even if X-ray fails to cure the condition, it in no ways interferes with the surgical operation should it become desirable.

HIGHLAND

Eastern Star Meets

Highland, May 27—The regular meeting of Highland Chapter 385, Order of Eastern Star, was held Tuesday evening with Matron Mrs. Helen Washington presiding. All officers were present except Mrs. Lois Black, historian, with Mrs. Emma Kaiser as substitute and Mrs. Gertrude Coulter, pianist, for whom Mrs. Myrtle Jordan substituted. Minutes of the district meeting were read by Mrs. Olympia Cottine, secretary. Mrs. Florence Plass, treasurer, gave a quarterly report.

In keeping with the chapter custom, memorial exercises were held and the altar draped in memory of Mrs. Isabel Lent, a charter member of Highland Chapter, and Most Worthy F. Putnam, Most Worthy Elizabeth Renn, past grand matron, and Most Worthy John Heiserbother, past grand patron. Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Cotant sang a duet.

Mrs. Grace Olree, Mrs. Alice Mellor, Mrs. Lois Black and Mrs. Carrie DuBois were reported ill. The chapter voted to send a letter to Right Worthy David Boyd, who is seriously ill in Orthman's Sanitarium, Kingston. Mrs. Florence Cotant, associate matron, thanked all who assisted toward the success of the banquet held in the Methodist Church.

Invitations were received for the homecoming reception to Mrs. Rebecca McNabb, grand matron in Schenectady, Saturday evening, to Mountain Star Chapter, 237, Windham, for the homecoming of District Deputy Idolly Gill Fuller, Tuesday evening, June 6, preceded by a banquet at "The Pines" at 6 o'clock. Reservations will be sent to Mrs. Harriet Campbell by Saturday, June 3. Clinton Chapter, Kingston, invited the members to join them for the Masonic-Star picnic at Forsyth Park, Wednesday, June 21. Baseball and other games will be featured in the afternoon and a cafeteria supper served at 5:30 o'clock.

The treasurer reported $20.95 realized from the recent card party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Finley, Tilton avenue.

The next meeting of the Officers' Club will be held Monday evening, June 5, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rathgeb, Tilton avenue, with Miss Rose Symes assisting hostess.

Matrons of the years 1932 through 1938, inclusive, were appointed a committee to secure the return of suspended members for the grand matron's project this year.

The 33rd anniversary of the chapter will be observed at the next meeting, June 13. A new flag also will be dedicated at that time. Refreshments will be in charge of Mrs. Mary Veverka, Mrs. Hilda Ferguson, Mrs. Ada DuBois and Mrs. Helen DeGroat.

The annual Mother's meeting was celebrated and mothers were presented with carnations. Those taking part in the degree were Mrs. Florence Plass, Miss Rose Symes, Mrs. Myrtle Jordan, Mrs. Washington, Mrs. Mabel Yaeger and Mrs. Lillian Sheeley. Mrs. Anna Maynard gave two readings. Miss Symes and Mrs. Cotant sang two selections. The matron gave an appropriate greeting to mothers. Thomas Washington and Kenneth DuBois acted as escorts for the mothers.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Nettie Conn, Mrs. Florence Harris, Mrs. Bessie Hutchins, Mrs. Olive Johnson. Several guests were present from Port Ewen.

Women's Club Meets

Highland, May 27—Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker of Stone Ridge was the speaker Tuesday afternoon for the guests and members of the Southern Ulster Women's Club. President's day was observed with representatives from other clubs present at the home of Mrs. A. Loren DeFevre, The Orchards, at Esopus.

Today in Washington
Civil Liberties of Employers Have Been Obliterated by Latest Decision of National Labor Relations Board
By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 29—Civil liberties of the employers of America have just about been obliterated by the latest decision of the National Labor Relations Board. For, in effect, it has just been formally declared by the board: That an employer is guilty of an "unfair labor practice" if he does not accede to the proposals of a union.

That an employer who refuses to reinstate employee participating in a strike which is illegal under state law is guilty of an "unfair labor practice."

That an employer has no right to communicate in any manner whatsoever with his employees even if he has reasons to think the collective bargaining agents are misrepresenting his position to the employees.

The language used in each of the three foregoing points is not that of the board, but is easily to be derived from a reading of the decision, covering many thousands of words, in the case of Reed & Prince Manufacturing Company and a C.I.O. union.

The facts show that the employer recognized the union, began negotiations in good faith, signed a preliminary agreement, that a strike was called while further negotiations were in progress and that the employer, during the strike, offered a contract, but that the terms were displeasing to the union and subsequently seemed to the labor board not to offer any concessions and hence constituted a "refusal to bargain" or an "unfair labor practice." This curtails freedom of contract, hitherto safeguarded by centuries of common law.

The declaration of the Supreme Court of the United States originally upholding the Wagner Act was that an employer is obliged to sit down and negotiate with his employees or their agents, but that he is not compelled to sign a contract. The labor board says under certain circumstances, to be judged as to their merits by the board itself, the employer can be made to sign.

The attitude of the Supreme Court of the United States in the so-called Fansteel case relating to sit-down strikes is also disregarded by the board, which undertakes to say that the high court did not mean what it said at all, but meant to limit its references concerning participation of employees in illegal strikes only to those strikes involving physical violence.

This means that the board does not accept the spirit or letter of the Fansteel case, but feels itself privileged to narrow the decision so that an employer who sees his employees arrested for alleged illegal action cannot use such action as a basis for discharge.

The club's president, Mrs. Fred Luther, presided and following the Lord's Prayer sung by Miss Helen Luther as the invocation all joined in singing America. The hostess welcome was given by Mrs. LeFevre, who is also past president of the club and then Mrs. Luther introduced the many guests present. Mrs. Maxwell Taylor, of Kingston, Ulster county chairman of the third district; Mrs. Eugene Relyea of the New Paltz Study Club; Mrs. A. Noble Graham, Kingston, president of the Y. W. C. A.; Mrs. Arthur Frigo, former federation president of Kingston; Mrs. Harry Walker, third district representative of Education; Mrs. John Coleman, Dutchess county chairman; Miss Rhoda Hinkley, Poughkeepsie, ninth district director, who gave an interesting talk upon visits made to the various clubs in her district.

Mrs. Schoonmaker spoke on "This Our World" and emphasized the part women played in the world. She contrasted the past when women had no expression outside of her household and how the change had been accomplished. She saw the need of the women coming to the front now to take a drastic stand for peace as they had in 1917 when they campaigned for suffrage. An open forum was held at the close of the talk and several took part in the expressions of opinions regarding public events.

President at the meeting aside from those mentioned were: Grace Marks, Mrs. Raymond E. Craft, Kingston; Mrs. P. M. Mott, Mrs. Charles Osberg, Mrs. A. R. Mott, Esopus; Mrs. Albert Kurdt, Mrs. Harold Story, Mrs. C. Chester Du Mond, Mrs. H. M. Cameron, Ulster Park; Mrs. Jesse Alexander, Mrs. Elmer Randall, Mrs. James Callahan, Mrs. Fred B. Schmidt, Esopus; Mrs. John J. Gaffney, Mrs. U. Parker Decker, Mrs. Clarence Tompkins, Mrs. Charles Schmidt, Miss Eliza Raymond, Highland. Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon by the hostess.

The state of Oregon recently experienced an invasion of Mormon crickets, resulting in considerable damage to crops. One of the interesting sights of Salt Lake City is a monument erected to the sea gulls that devoured the crickets in the early days of Mormon immigration, preventing the destruction of the settlers' crops and saving them from starvation.

Kingston Daily Freeman Keeps Peace In The Family

or the Story of How Mary and John "Kissed and Made Up"
---and Bought a Car!

No Doubt These Five Scenes from the Daily Life of a Typical Kingston Couple Will Strike Home! Read All About Their First Quarrel - - - which the Kingston Daily Freeman Will See to It Is Also Their Last!

The story of John and Mary is not all fiction! It's true to life—the sort of thing that happens every day in some home; some time in every home. It is the purpose of our Classified Section to play an important part in the daily life of this community—to help people get more out of their earnings—to make necessities available to every family, and to bring little luxuries within their range. The Classified Section has so many classifications: Used Cars, (that settled Mary's quarrel with John); Furniture; Electrical Appliances; Carpets and Floor Coverings; For Sale; Wanted to Purchase; Toys for the children, Furs; Clothing; and many more. On which will you call to show you the way to better living? Once you use the Classifieds, you will know added joys . . . new possessions . . . and you will be bringing happiness to others while you economize!

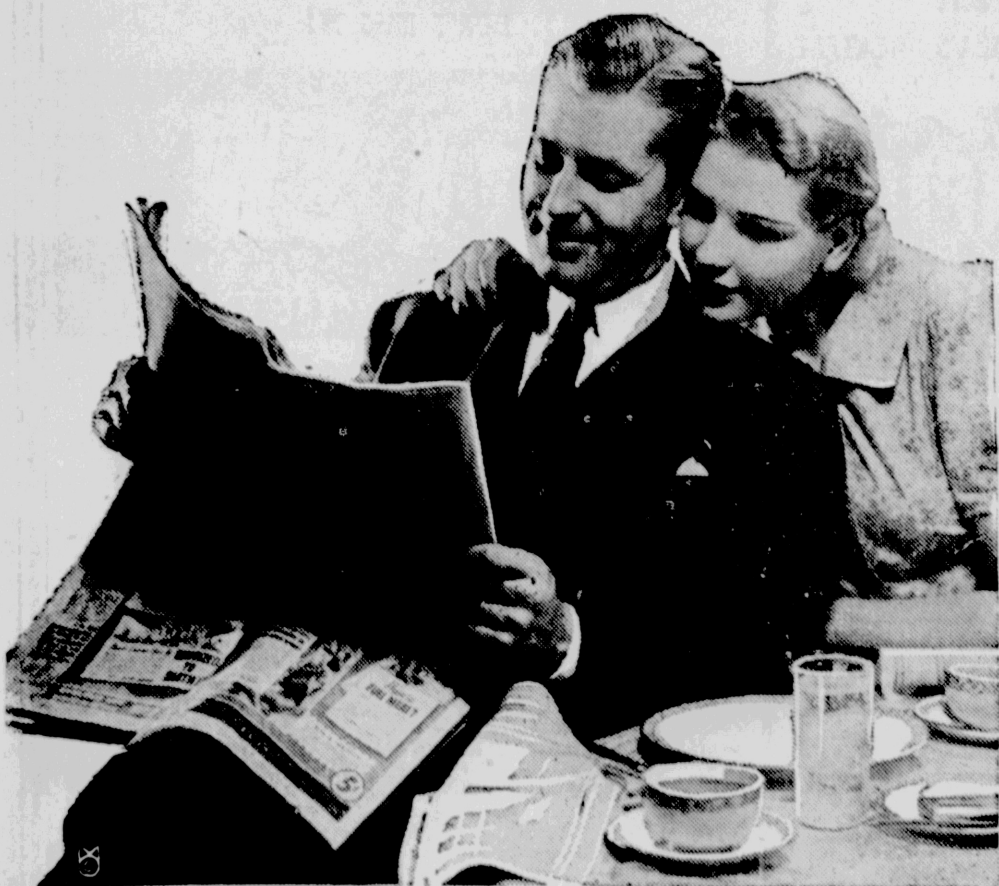

1 JOHN: WHY SO GLUM? LET'S TAKE A WALK.
MARY: I'M TOO TIRED—WISH WE HAD A CAR!

Poor young wife! The housework and long days in a hot house have got her! John is right in calling her "glum"—but Mary's right in complaining because she knows that if they had a car . . . and went for a long, cool ride . . . she'd be her sweet self again. That copy of the Kingston Daily Freeman in John's hands is getting nervous listening to the quarrel!

2 JOHN: YOU KNOW I CAN'T AFFORD ONE . . .
MARY: THE JONES ARE NO RICHER THAN WE.

They never acted like this before! But again Mary is right! Bill Jones doesn't earn any more than John does, and they just bought an excellent used car! Tears in her eyes, Mary remembers "Jane said it was easy finding an inexpensive car in the Classified Columns!" That copy of the Kingston Daily Freeman is now puffing out its chest in helpful pride!

3 JOHN: WELL, LET'S SEE THE CLASSIFIED.
MARY: LOOK AT THAT GRAND COUPE BUY!

Looks as though the fireworks are over! Mary's arm goes around John, and he's smiling. They're both smiling—because a coupe is just what they want, and that price fits into their budget, slim as it is. And that's not the only good used car value in the Classified! That copy of the Kingston Daily Freeman chuckles while Mary and John read the long list!

5 JOHN: HAPPY NOW, DEAR?
MARY: THANKS TO THE CLASSIFIED

The home of Mary and John is happy again! And back of Mary's wise little head is the thought that she can use the Classified Section for so many wonderful purposes! Up in her own attic are several useful things she no longer needs! She's going to phone the Kingston Daily Freeman tomorrow morning, and put her ad in the For Sale Column! And there are several things she's been wanting: a bicycle, to join her friends' cycling club; a new refrigerator; an electric shaver for John—it will be wonderful buying them through the Classified Section at prices that could not be lower. Now Mary's beginning to understand why so many young couples seem to maintain a higher standard of living than their incomes would indicate—and they save money too! The Kingston Daily Freeman is so happy now—it's made another family in town realize the value of the Classified Section—everybody's happy!

4 JOHN: O. K., WE'LL LOOK AT THE CAR NOW.
MARY: WHAT A GRAND SUMMER WE'LL HAVE!

No more sitting around, wishing for something to do, or for a friend who has a car to pick them up and take them for a ride! Mary and John will have their own car this summer! Every evening will be fun—every week-end will be a thrifty vacation—That copy of the Kingston Daily Freeman with its value-filled Classified Section has kept peace in the family!

Receives Degree

MISS ETHELMAE JONES

Miss Ethelmae Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart A. Jones of 74 Wall street, received her Bachelor of Arts degree today at the commencement exercises at Limestone College, Gaffney, S. C., where she majored in English and education.

Miss Jones has been active during her four years of college. She has been freshman class reporter, society editor and associate editor, in turn of the school paper, has been a member of the Baptist Student Union council, a member of the National Honorary literary society, Chi Delta Phi, business manager of the school year book, The Calcutti, and a member of the tennis doubles team.

At the Class Day exercises, Miss Jones was Class Historian. She will spend the summer on Knappa Plantation, at Marian, S. C.

F. Charles Adler

To Present Concert

F. Charles Adler, conductor of the Albany Federal Orchestra, will present two programs in the municipal auditorium Wednesday afternoon and evening, May 31. The concerts are being sponsored by St. John's Episcopal Church.

Mr. Adler was born in London of German parentage. He has been successively conductor of the State Opera in Dresden and of the Munich, Hamburg and German Opera Company when it toured the United States during the 1930-1931 season. In 1937 he was Music Director of the Musical Festival at Saratoga Springs. He is also publisher in Berlin of the "Edition Adler" which includes compositions by numerous modern American composers.

Mr. Adler comes well recommended by music critics in leading cities where the Albany Federal Orchestra has presented programs. The two programs in Kingston have been especially arranged by the music committee of St. John's Church and include an all-request program.

The first concert will be at 4 o'clock for the children of the city and will be one hour in length. The evening will be for adults, commencing at 8 o'clock and will last an hour and a half.

Tickets are selling rapidly for the evening concert and may be obtained from any member of the parish. There are no tickets for the children's concert but admissions will be received at the door.

A SLIMLINE SHIRTWAISTER

MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9777

Every woman with "weighty" problems has a picture in her own mind of a slimmer self. A dream that can easily come to life for you—if you set your needle to work on this slenderizing shirtwaister, expertly designed by Marian Martin. Such a simple dress-making job, with its few seams and the ever-helpful Sew-chart. The full, eight-gored skirt gives those grand up-and-down lines you need, while the softly fitting bodice is lapped over from back to front to look like a yoke. For a final slimming touch, the graceful collar continues down the front in a scalloped buttoned opening.

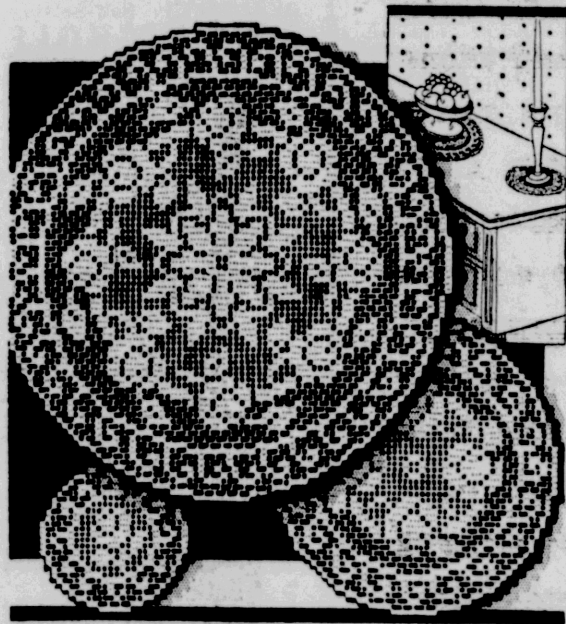

Pattern 9777 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3½ yards 39 inch fabric. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coin for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Swing into summer in a light-hearted mood with a wardrobe full of new clothes. Even if your budget won't "budge," you can find a way by ordering MARIAN MARTIN'S NEW PATTERN BOOK and stitching up your summer things at home. You'll find a be-frilled street frock... a glamorous evening wear. The new basque and "little girl" trends! Sportswear, sea-and-sun styles, housefrocks, bridal finery! The latest cottons, sheers and prints. Clothes for tiny tots, teens and twenties; slimming styles for matrons. Order a copy NOW! BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. PATTERN FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Learn Gay Tap Steps In Easy Home Course

Applause for Sue! Her peppy tap routine goes over big with the crowd at the summer camp.

"She must have taken lessons from a professional," everybody insists. "Wouldn't they be surprised to know she learned her tapping right at home, with diagrams and easy instructions?"

Really, the most complicated show routines are made up of a few simple steps you can pick up in one short evening's practice. Try these four routines.

BALL TAP—Raise foot off floor, stamp on ball of foot only.

HEEL TAP—Stand on ball of foot and lower heel to floor—making a clear tap sound.

TOE TAP—Hold foot back off floor, strike sharply with tip of toe only.

FLAT TAP—Stamp on floor, using entire flat surface of foot. Fun to try these taps to music.

And when you learn the other simple basic steps, add a few frills, you're ready for real show routines.

Our 32-page booklet gives diagrams and directions for the basic tap steps, shows how to combine them in easy practice routines. Gives full-length waltz, military, dance routines that make you a hit at shows, parties, outings.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of TAP DANCING SIMPLIFIED to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Man In The Iron Lung Will Pray At Shrine Noted For Wonder Cures

LOURDES SHRINE:

One of the strangest pilgrimages ever made to the world-famous shrine at Lourdes, France, left New York May 17. It was that of Fred Snite, Jr., 28-year-old Chicagoan who was stricken with infantile paralysis three years ago and ever since has lain in an iron lung. What Lourdes is and what he could hope to find there during his nine-day stay are told in the following story.

By The AP Feature Service

A riverside grotto at Lourdes, France, has become one of the most cherished of Catholic shrines since a young shepherdess 81 years ago told of visions in which the Virgin Mary came to her there.

Millions have visited the grotto and its miraculous spring for physical and spiritual healing. Many who came helplessly lame have walked away reporting themselves cured and leaving behind as votive offerings the crutches which line the wall of the grotto.

It is to that shrine that Fred Snite, 28-year-old Chicagoan who has breathed with an iron lung since infantile paralysis struck him three years ago, has gone.

More than three-quarters of a century ago Bernadette Soubirous, a 14-year-old peasant girl, told skeptical clergy of her visions at the grotto on the banks of the Gave de Pau in the Pyrenees. She had seen, she said, a beautiful lady "jovelier than I have ever seen," in a hollow of the rocks. She told of 18 visions within six months. The last, she informed priests, had ordered her to have the church build a chapel on the spot and have processions come there.

Four years later the diocese recognized justification "in believing the reality of the apparition." In 1873 the first of the great national French pilgrimages visited the 15-foot square grotto, and a basilica was constructed on the hillside above it.

FRED SNITE Sees World Through Iron Lung Mirror

Increasing pilgrimages—they now average an estimated 600,000 a year—made the building inadequate, and the Church of the Rosary was built directly above the spring.

In the grotto itself visitors now see Bernadette's vision—depicted by a great statue of the Virgin in a hollow of the rocks to the right of the spring.

Water Piped In

The spring has been walled off and the water is piped into basins below. Pilgrims bathe there or drink the water from taps in the walls. Chemists have reported it has no chemical properties to account for the cures. In fact, the remarkable coldness of the water makes its application dangerous for certain ailments.

But the Bureau of Medical Authentication of the grotto reports 4,000 cures, partial or complete, were effected in the first 50 years of the shrine. Cures have been claimed for nervous diseases, lameness, tuberculosis, tumors, sores, cancers, deafness, and blindness.

Snite hopes to find "spiritual and mental" betterment but says he will not be too disappointed if there is no physical improvement.

He adds: "I will make an earnest plea to Him and to the Blessed Mother to help me, knowing that He can cure me if He should so desire. But if it is not His will, and He surely knows best, then it is not mine."

Six Countries Eye Antarctica

Germany Latest to Claim Part of Ice-Covered Continent.

WASHINGTON.—With Germany now making claim to 230,000 square miles of Antarctica, explored from one of her whaling ships, five nations and Australia have set up claims for the division of the vast continent that lies under a thick layer of ice at the "bottom" of the world.

"The claims on behalf of Norway, Great Britain, France, the United States, and Australia have sliced the Antarctic continent like a huge pie; but little to some of the slices is by no means clear and uncontested," says the National Geographic society.

How Claims Rest.

"When Amundsen, first man to reach the South pole, arrived there in December, 1911, he claimed for Norway a relatively small circular area of land around the pole with a radius of about 110 miles. Since then explorers who have cruised the Antarctic coast, penetrated the continent a few miles, or flown over certain previously unexplored regions have claimed for their countries all the land between certain longitudes extending all the way to the poles.

"The so-called Australian claim is the largest single slice of the Antarctic 'pie.' It extends from 45 degrees east longitude to 160 degrees east longitude. France, however, insists that the region from Adelaide Land between 136 and 143 degrees east longitude, wholly within the Australian claim, is hers; and in January Lincoln Ellsworth looked down from an airplane in the same Australian area on 80,000 square miles 'never before seen by man,' and announced his claim for the United States. The Ellsworth area lies between 74 and 85 degrees east longitude, and 79 and 75 degrees south latitude. Thus, it does not reach the edge of the continent.

Claimed for U. S.

"Besides the Australian claims there are two other pie-shaped slices claimed by Great Britain: the Ross Dependency between 160 degrees east and 150 degrees west longitude; and a large area between 20 and 80 degrees west longitude. Between these slices claimed by Great Britain are Marie Byrd Land between 120 and 150 degrees west longitude, which was explored by Admiral Richard E. Byrd; and James W. Ellsworth Land, the area from 80 to 120 degrees west longitude which Lincoln Ellsworth claimed for the United States when he traversed the region by airplane in 1935.

"The Norwegian claims are not as definite as some of the others, but are understood to cover the sector extending from 20 degrees west longitude to 45 degrees east longitude. It is inside this latter sector that the new German claim has been set up."

'Napoleon' Brings Peace

WARSAW, POLAND.—Warsaw's newest movie palace has opened as the "Cinema Napoleon" and not the "Paris Cinema," the name chosen originally.

The theater is in a building owned by an Italian insurance company and was leased by a French-Polish concern, which chose the name "Paris Cinema." The Italians objected to a French name. A compromise was effected on "Cinema Napoleon." The French are pleased because Napoleon was French and the Italians because "Napoleon was Italian anyway because he was a Corsican and Italy will get Corsica back some day."

Pheasants Seem to Know All About Their Rights

GILROY, CALIF.—Golden pheasants, rigidly protected under California game laws, cause considerable embarrassment to a municipality when they calmly walked up the main street.

Two have done so here recently. The last one, caught by three small boys, was gracefully turned over to Judge Leon Thomas. He could find no legal precedents for such a case, but called in a game warden, instructed him to take the bird outside the city limits and give it a good start for somewhere else.

Buck Scorns Wild Life

AFTER TASTING COMFORTS SEQUOIA NATIONAL PARK, CALIF.—If the public doesn't quit feeding wild animals, there soon won't be any more wild animals—they'll be tame—park officials here think. A fine three-point buck which used to come to Lon Oldham's blacksmith shop for a daily handout was removed from the park last spring.

The buck, however, apparently had lost its hankering for the wild life and six months later showed up again at the blacksmith shop for its daily manna.

Albany Lad Hurt At Kingston Point

Edward Smith, 6, of 61 Brookline avenue, Albany, suffered a broken arm Sunday in a fall from a railing enclosing the picnic tables in Kingston Point Park. The arm was set at the Kingston Hospital.

The boy with three other Smith children and two friends, escorted by Mrs. M. Stanley of 65 Brookline avenue, Albany, had arrived at Kingston Point on the Day Line steamer, planning to return to Albany on the upriver steamer.

The party were enjoying their lunch when the boy fell off the railing. Officers Murphy and Reardon in one of the police radio cars, rushed the lad to the hospital, and after the arm had been set the boy was returned to Albany by train.

The other children in the party were placed aboard the Albany steamer by Officer Cramer.

The Ulster Park Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. Etta Corbett, 9 Warren street, this city, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Leader, Mrs. Chester Wells. Word for roll call will be "Love."

Petrified Trees

Petrified trees are numerous throughout Oregon, being found in the Columbia river gorge, along the John Day, the Deschutes and the Ochoco rivers. The fossil remains of a ginkgo, popular as a temple tree in northern China, have been found near Tanner creek, which empties into the Columbia gorge. Within a few miles of the town of Prineville, is a petrified forest of giant sequoia trees that, according to some scientists, were overthrown by a cataclysm of nature in bygone ages.

PORT EWEN NEWS

Boy Scouts to Mark Grave
Port Ewen, May 29.—Boy Scouts of Troop 26 have placed a bronze Boy Scouts marker on the grave of the late Richard E. Sleight, who died while in active service as a troop committeeman. The marker bears in raised letters Mr. Sleight's name, his title and the date of his birth and death. Mr. Sleight was deeply interested in Boy Scout work and much beloved by the boys of Troop 26. The scouts will blow "taps" at the grave on Memorial Day.

Parade Plans for Tomorrow
Port Ewen, May 29.—The Memorial Day parade will form at 8:45 a. m. tomorrow at School No. 13. Major O. R. Hiltibrant, marshal of the parade, has announced the following lineup: School trustees, guests, Boy Scouts of Troop 26, Port Ewen Drum Corps, flag bearers, school children of Districts 13 and 14, Port Ewen fire department, Ladies' Auxiliary of the fire department. The line of march will be South on Broadway to the Riverview Cemetery where the memorial services will be held.

Village Notes
Port Ewen, March 29.—It is requested that every scout that is planning to parade Memorial Day be present tonight promptly at 8 p. m. in the troop room. The Port Ewen Drum Corps will hold its usual practice tonight. This is especially important in rehearsal for tomorrow's parades. The "True Blue" junior class of the Reformed Church Sunday school was entertained at the home of Ruth Webster Friday evening. After the devotionals and class business, at which time a mother and daughter picnic was planned for June, games and refreshments were enjoyed.

Miss Cleon Elsworth of Mt. Vernon is spending the holiday week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Elsworth of Broadway.

Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth attended the annual Memorial Day service at the First Dutch Church in Kingston at which Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., attended in a body.

Mrs. Kathryn Van Wageningen of Poughkeepsie is a house guest of Mrs. Edward H. Bishop and Miss Mary F. Bishop of Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Galoway and Mrs. Anna Galoway, Sr., of Poughkeepsie, were Sunday evening callers of Mrs. Edward H. Bishop and Miss Mary F. Bishop.

The Ulster Park-Port Ewen W. C. T. U. will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Etta Corbett.

The choir of the Reformed Church is planning another of its services of music on Sunday evening, June 4, at 8 o'clock.

Water rent for the first quarter is now due. After tomorrow, May 30, 10 per cent of the bill will be added to it.

Miss DeWitt Is Hurt in Accident
Miss Elizabeth DeWitt of Hurley, a member of the teaching staff at School No. 7, suffered a broken kneecap Saturday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock when the auto she was driving was in collision with a car driven by John Belsito of Glasco.

The two cars collided at the intersection of Smith avenue and Elmendorf street.

Following the crash Miss DeWitt was removed to the Kingston Hospital where her condition is reported as fair.

Miss DeWitt, who has been a teacher in the city's schools for many years, submitted her resignation last Friday at a meeting of the Board of Education. The resignation becomes effective at the close of the present school year.

Five Millionth Visitor Rules as King of Fair
New York, May 29 (AP).—Twelve-year-old Douglas McMahon of Stamford, Conn., the 5,000,000th person to pass through the New York World's Fair turnstiles, enjoyed a one-day reign as king of the exposition Sunday.

Outfitted in cowboy costumes, Douglas and his pal, Teddy Donahue, 13, led the grand parade and were given a free sponsored trip through the educational exhibits and the amusement area.

Sunny skies drew 291,953 persons, one of the largest throngs since the opening four weeks ago.

Coney Island continued to draw the fair. Police estimated 500,000 crowded the beach resort.

SUBMARINE SCHOOL:

How Germany Trains Men To Go Under Sea

1. ON DECK of training ships young Germans go about their duties at the "unterseebootsschule" Germany has established at Neustadt, on the Baltic.

2. IN THE CLASSROOM, two pupils try to keep this model of a submarine's navigation room straight. Officer keeps moving it out of position to simulate operating conditions. Those indicators show how well the beginners are doing.

3. CHECK UP before diving shows everything is okay with the buoy, which would be sent to the top if boat didn't come up. "Submarine sunk here," it reads. "Don't leave this buoy." Similar buoy helped navy spot Squallus quickly in recent disaster.

4. JUST IN CASE of accident, students learn how to use this lung. U. S. has similar equipment, but Squallus rescues were made by diving bell.

Saw Green Lights

Alfred Prien (above), machine gunner on the submarine Squallus, was at the signal board when the sub started its tragic dive off Portsmouth, N. H., and he said all lights on the board indicated the sub was ready to dive safely. He's shown as he left Portsmouth navy hospital.

Three Arrests Made

Three arrests were made here over the week-end on charges of public intoxication, and all three men were fined $3 each when arraigned today before Judge Cahill in police court. They were George Leonard, 23, of 316 Fair street, George L. Smith, 48, of 80 Green street, and James P. McKivitt, 46, of Troy. Frank Cashara, 27, of Glasco, was fined $2 for failing to observe a full stop sign.

Fruit In Summer Prints

Paris (AP)—Cool looking summer frocks have luscious fruits printed over them. Red apples, green plums and yellow pears appear appetizing. Following the fruit, the next in line is a pattern of cigarettes printed in white on navy blue crepe. The cigarettes have the effect of being scattered over the crepe, and each one bears a brand mark, covering well-nigh every brand in the market.

BIGGEST SUB SALVAGE JOB

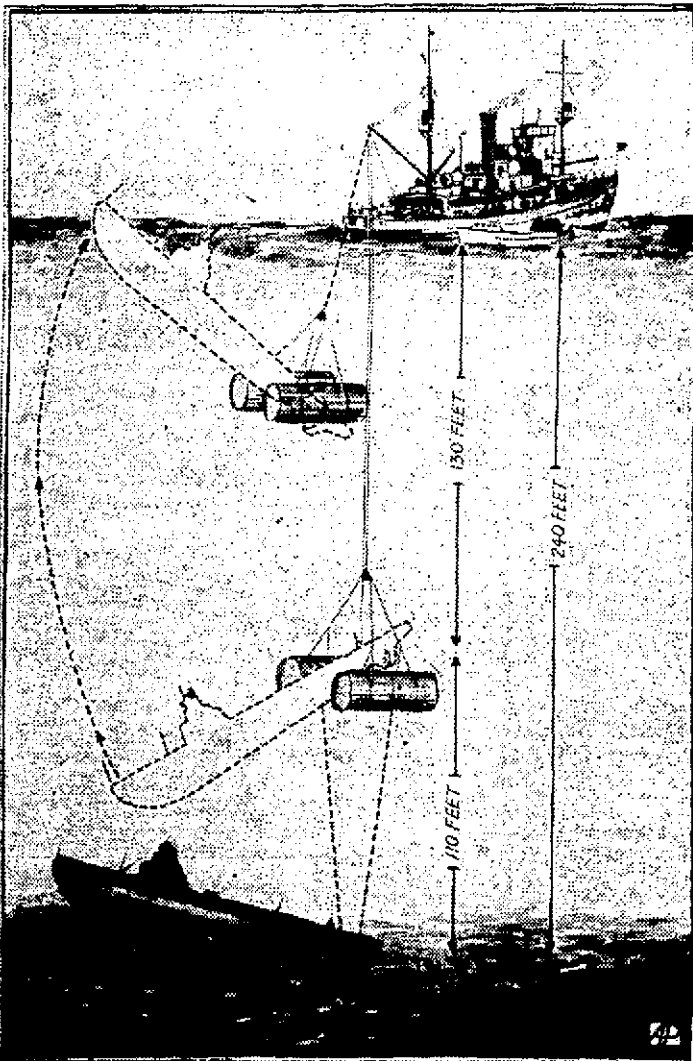

Diagram shows how the Navy plans to raise the sunken submarine Squallus from 240 feet of water off New Hampshire coast. A delicate balance will be kept between air pumped into the sub and the buoyancy of the huge pontoons. The sub's stern will be raised to 130 feet from the surface, where pontoons will be attached. Then the bow will be floated to the surface, after which the pontoons will lift the stern.

Says Dog Bit Him

Meyer Brumer of 108 Hone street, reported to the police department Sunday evening that while riding his bicycle on Hasbrouck, near Newkirk avenue, he had been bitten in the leg by a dog.

GIRL TACKLES MAD CONVICT IN TAVERN

College Education Pays, Alumni Show

Find Better Jobs, Quicker, Survey Finds.

WASHINGTON.—Proof that a college education pays dividends has been found in a survey of 46,000 alumni graduated from 31 colleges and universities in the United States. The report was announced by John W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education.

The survey covered graduates from 1928 to 1935. The survey showed that 96 per cent of all the men and 93 per cent of all the women were employed either temporarily or permanently. Their average age upon graduation was 22 years.

Among the 46,000 who replied to questionnaires, only 2 per cent of the men and 1 per cent of the women have been on relief.

Salaries paid to college men generally were higher than paid to women, although older college women earn more than young college men. The typical salary of a male college graduate the second year out of school was found to be $25 a week, while the average woman graduate two years out of school could command only $21.

Salaries paid to men were found to increase about $150 a year until they were earning about $45 a week eight years after graduation, while women's salaries increased only $9 a week to $30 after eight years.

Sixty-five per cent of the alumni reported themselves in the professional groups. Teaching attracted 17 per cent of the men; engineering, 13 per cent; law, 9 per cent, and medicine, 6 per cent.

Forty-eight per cent of women graduates found teaching positions, while 29 per cent had general occupations, including 16 per cent in domestic work.

Damages Asked of City

For the Effects of 'Flu'
SEMINOLE, OKLA.—Mrs. Addie Womack thinks the city of Seminole should pay her $5,075 damages, because, she says, it is the cause of her being susceptible to colds.

She filed a damage suit for that amount against the city, and cited the following events to "prove my claim":

Municipal workmen dug a ditch across the back lot of her home. She alleges the workers broke a gas line running to her home and that she was without heat for 2½ days.

Mrs. Womack, 44, contends that she contracted influenza during the period the gas line was broken. This caused her, she alleges, to become susceptible to "exposure."

Texas Co-eds Slender; Weight Below Average
AUSTIN, TEXAS.—Texas college girls are more slender than co-eds of the "corn belt" and the North, Miss Leah Gregg, physical education director at the University of Texas, has revealed.

Average weight for college girls in America is 121 pounds, Miss Gregg said, based on average height of 5 feet 4 inches. The average University of Texas freshman co-ed is 17 years old and weighs 115 pounds, at least six pounds under the average poumance for girls in Middle West and Northern colleges. Sixty-one per cent of Texas girls are five pounds or more underweight and 42 per cent 10 pounds or more under 121 pounds.

Average Typist Expende More Energy Than Digger

CLEVELAND.—The average typist, by actual scientific tests, does more work than a ditch-digger, according to Frank M. Slough, Cleveland patent attorney.

"When the effort required to strike a typewriter key is multiplied by the thousands of key-depressions, per day," said Slough, "the total effort actually is greater than that required in eight hours of ditch digging."

Slough said that a young Cleveland man had invented a revolutionary electrical typewriter, "simpler, cheaper to manufacture, easier to operate—with interchangeable typeface, and many other advantages."

Future Home Life Revealed

NEW YORK.—"Tomorrow Town" at the New York World's fair reveals how the community of the future will function. The "Town" covers five acres. Fifteen homes are being erected to give spectators an idea of what to expect for prices ranging from $3,000 to $17,000.

Pacific Trees Famous

The trees of Oregon have been used not only in the construction of great edifices and in the building of ships, but in counsels of war, in treaties, in judiciary proceedings, in courtships, in death; they even have been used as safety deposit vaults. Romance attaches to the ornamental and orchard trees, brought to Oregon by the saga-making pioneers in covered-wagon days. Science has been interested in Oregon's age-old trees, prehistoric giants, submerged beneath the waters of lakes and rivers; the fossilized trees of primordial forests.

Two Unrelated Girls

Can Qualify as Twins
KEARNEY, NEB.—Miss Maxine Samuelson of Wilcox, Neb., and Miss Maxine Samuelson of Elmcreek, Neb., aren't related, but they could be twins.

Both were born February 21, 1921; both are blondes; both are seniors in high school; both are of Swedish descent and both live on farms. Ascent to that, the middle name of their fathers is Theodore and the initials of their mothers are E. M. S.

The girls live within a 25-mile radius of Kearney and have corresponded for three years, but did not meet until recently.

Fire Destroys Shack at O. & W.

About 10:30 o'clock Saturday night fire destroyed an old shack near the O. & W. Railroad station, which the fire department said was evidently used by hoboes as a hang-out.

The shack, a one-story frame structure, was gutted by the fire, which started on the floor and burned up the interior siding of the walls.

Deputy Fire Chief Fred M. Leverich said the fire was apparently caused by the dropping of a lighted match or cigarette in old papers that littered the floor.

Two men, James Casey of Chichester and James Reilly, who said he had no home, were arrested about an hour after the fire when discovered asleep in a barn on the lowlands across the railroad tracks from the burned shack. The arrest was made by Officer Sammons, who charged the pair with vagrancy.

The two men were held in the county jail for a hearing today before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court, at which time they were sentenced to six months and serving of sentence was suspended provided they left town at once.

'Scientific' Baseball Is Yellow

The astonished batter who sees yellow pots before his eyes will not be the victim of a hallucination. He will simply be looking at one of the latest examples of Twentieth century progress—the "scientific" baseball, which is a bright, lemon-yellow in color. According to its sponsors, this new baseball has greater visibility when soaring through the air. Future "Caseys," they claim, will be in a better position to get the "first whack" instead of being "whacked" by speed balls. A yellow object moving through the air is more easily discerned than is a white object. The color also affords greater contrast with the ball-field background. Reports received by the Better Vision institute state that the new baseball may be used in this season's games upon the agreement of the ball clubs.

Junior Softies

This year marks the first of an organized City Junior Softball League in Kingston. The league was organized in the spring with six teams: Barmann's Flashes, Browns, Mountainers, Roosa's Grocery, Texas Lunch, and the Windsor. The recreation department is awarding a trophy to the champions of the playoff. The league made its official opening last Saturday with the Texas lunch and Grocer boys taking the spotlight. John Quigley of Roosa's pitched superb ball by holding the powerful Texans scoreless to give his mates a 9-0 win. At the same

WOODRUFF TAKES DOUBLE HONORS IN IC4A MEET

Week-End Sports In Brief Review

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Southern California and Pitt's John Y. Woodruff walked off with honors at the I.C.-4 A. meet. Southern Cal won team title and Woodruff set mile mark and tied 440 record in winning his third straight double.

Columbus, O.—John Linta of Mansfield, set national scholastic pole vault mark with leap of 13 feet 9 1/2 inches.

New York—Johnstown, Kentucky Derby winner, captured Withers mile at Belmont, beating Hash by 10 lengths. Cockerell nosed out Now What in 63rd round of Juvenile Stakes.

Dean—Sassy Lady, from Snow White stables, topped favored Ariel Toy by length and half in $5,000 added Commonwealth Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

San Mateo, Cal.—Galapas, owned by C. S. Howard, captured $2,500 Oakland Handicap as Bay Meadows meeting closed.

Ithaca, N. Y.—Cornell defeated Harvard's great varsity crew for first time in three years in winning two mile Spring Day regatta. Harvard and Syracuse in dead heat for second place, with Pennsylvania last as wind storm swept course.

Runyan, Picard Tie

White Plains, N. Y.—Paul Runyan, PGA champion, and Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., tied with 70 in Sunday's play-off of Metropolitan Open golf championship. Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., tied with them at 283 at end of 72 holes was eliminated when he shot a 77.

Auto Racing

Indianapolis—Full field of 33 cars, fastest in history, qualified for 500-mile motor speedway race Tuesday.

Best Cocker

Madison, N. J.—Champion My Own Bruce, cocker spaniel, acclaimed as best in show of 4,456 entries at Morris and Essex Kennel Club dog show.

Indianapolis, May 29 (AP)—Thirty-three guys—just ordinary fellows like your next door neighbor, but who picked a tougher way of earning a living—will take off tomorrow in the 27th annual Indianapolis motor speedway race, shooting for a two-fisted wad of cash.

Fastest in the history of the race, the 33 starters averaged 123.547 miles an hour in qualifying as compared with last year's 120.032 miles an hour.

Both one lap and qualifying records were broken in the trials and Jimmy Snyder, one-time Chicago milkman, was the fellow who performed both feats. He wheeled a six-cylinder creation, entered by Joel Thorne, near Rochelle, (N. Y.) millionaire, around the track for 10 miles at 130.138 miles an hour for the qualifying record and one lap was at 130.757 miles an hour.

The first 28 qualifiers made the starting lineup at a speed of 120 miles an hour or better and one of them—Babe Stapp of Los Angeles—hit 125 miles an hour.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

The happiness boys are riding side up again.

If you don't remember the happiness boys, they're the fellows who get fun out of baseball—which is a bitter business for a lot of their associates.

That makes it easy to single them out of Sunday's big major league show:

Johnny Allen, the temperamental right-hander whose tattered shirt caused a furore in the American League and ended up in a department store window (the shirt, not Allen).

Dizzy Dean, the ex (?) popoff whose $185,000 pitching arm has been the most debated wing in all baseball.

Van Lingle Mungo, the lean Carolinian who probably has had more fights, fines and suspensions than any current big leaguer and who set some kind of a record last year by drawing a salary of approximately $1,000 an inning.

Buck Newsom, much-traded, much-misunderstood mound maestro, who once undertook to pitch both games of a doubleheader and in six seasons has played with four different American League clubs, not counting the St. Louis Browns.

For further details see back copies of your favorite newspaper.

Allen Kayoes Sox

Allen went the route yesterday for the first time this spring to give the Cleveland Indians a 6-0 shutout over the Chicago White Sox on three hits. Naturally this was the most encouraging to the Cleveland people because Allen, who won 15 games in a row in 1937 only to lose his finale, had a bad year last season and an operation on his arm during the winter hadn't helped his previously.

Similarly Newsom's seven-hit 6-2 performance against his recent teammates, the Browns, gave the Detroit folks something to cheer for, too. It was Newsom's second triumph within a week and came on top of good showings by

Tommy Bridges, Paul Trout and Schoolboy Rowe.

Back in Streak

The New York Yankees, who saw a winning streak broken at 12 games only last week, already have built themselves another five-game string. They beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 9-5, Sunday in a hitting session featured by George Selkirk's two homers—which came off Bob Joyce the same as the two he hit in one game the day before.

The Boston Red Sox also snatched a free-hitting game—their fourth in a row—in a 12-7 affair victimizing the Washington Senators.

Dean had his string of shutout innings broken at 18, but he held the Pirates to eight hits to give the Chicago Cubs a 6-2 victory and lift them back into third place in the National League.

Mungo was bombed out of the box, just like a lot of others, in the Brooklyn Dodgers' 16-12 marathon triumph over the Boston Bees. Each team used four pitchers and Mungo not only stood up well in his four and fraction innings of service, but contributed two timely doubles.

Reds Split

Cincinnati retained its lead in the National League by splitting a doubleheader at St. Louis, 6-5 and 8-4. Curt Davis bested Johnny Vander Meer in the first game to end the Reds' victory chain at an even dozen, but Paul Derringer was as steady as ever in taking the nightcap.

The New York Giants crowded five runs into the eighth inning to beat the last place Phillies, 7 to 2.

Ronald Sickler Detained

In accordance with a teletype message State Troopers Dunn and Maish on Sunday picked up Ronald Sickler of Phoenicia and turned him over to Catskill officers. The message said Sickler was wanted in Greene county on a check charge.

Weldon McCluskey of Elmira To Succeed Henke at Y.M.C.A.

Weldon McCluskey has been chosen by the personnel and physical committees and board of directors of the local Y. M. C. A. to succeed Charles Henke as physical director and will begin his duties September 1.

Mr. McCluskey has served the Elmira Y. M. C. A. since his graduation from Springfield in 1935 as assistant physical director and upon the promotion of Dean Temple, now general secretary at Poughkeepsie, Mr. McCluskey has been physical director.

While in Elmira Mr. McCluskey has coached the following teams: Central New York swimming champions, junior division in 1936-1937-1938; basketball junior teams which competed in the district tourney in 1936.

He has been assistant football coach of the Elmira High School teams. In 1936 he organized the Elmira Auto Club softball team which, during the first year, reached the finals in the Central playoffs and the same year Mr. McCluskey was appointed by Tex Irwin, of the Amateur Softball Association, as commissioner of the softball for southern New York.

In 1937 he organized Y. M. C. A. life saving corps in conjunction with the Red Cross. At the present time he is president of the Physical Director's Society of Central New York state.

This past winter Mr. McCluskey was responsible for running the state basketball tournament in which 14 teams competed.

He is a native of North Adams, Mass., where he attended Drury High School and then graduated from Springfield College. He is

WELDON MCCLUSKEY

26 years old, unmarried and a member of the Baptist Church of Elmira.

While at Springfield he played varsity football for three years, was on the varsity boxing team and also played la crosse. While in his last year in college he won the wrestling championship in the 155 pound class.

Mr. McCluskey has carefully gone over the field here in Kingston and is eager to begin his work in the fall.

Phoenicia Opens Season Trimming Wiltwycks 13-5

Bud Swarthout, Kingston southpaw, pitched the inaugural game for Phoenicians and bested the Wiltwycks A. C. of the Kingston City League in Sunday's slugfest.

The game was a lopsided affair with both teams collecting 14 hits but the mountaineers capitalized on their wallop at every turn and shoved 13 runs across the platter to their opponents. Lou Glenn pitched for the visitors and managed to struggle through the nine inning route. Turk, Bock and Winchell each collected three hits off his offerings.

Although Swarthout was tagged for 14 hits he allowed but five runs and set down 11 by the strikeout route.

The Wiltwycks drew first blood, collecting one run in the opening inning on a single by Toddy and a double by Paul Joyce. Phoenicia came right back in their half of the inning to shove across two tallies and take the lead which they never relinquished. Turk drew a base on balls, Bock was safe on an error and Van Etten and Minasian singled for two tallies.

Phoenicia produced four tallies in the fourth and four more in the eighth to put the game on ice.

Reinhardt collected three hits on five trips to the platter to lead the hitting attack for the visitors. The game started under threatening clouds interspersed with occasional showers. For a long time it looked as if the game would be called but the skies cleared, the sun shone bright and the game went the entire nine innings.

Grunies Next

Next Sunday Phoenicia will play host to the Grunwalds of the City League. Boy "Scoop" Bush will draw the starting assignment for the mountain club.

Central Park, Schenectady, still haunts the Kingston Colonials. Last night they dropped another game there, the second of the season to Schenectady by the score of 7 to 4. In the afternoon game the Colonials whipped the league-leading Troy Bearcats 6 to 4. Joe Brown hurled winning ball in the first, while Charlie Neff winged them over in the nightcap.

As a result of yesterday's tussles the Davymen are now launched in a two-way tie for third place, playing at a 500 clip. The Mohawk Giants are second.

Kingston didn't take long in serving notice on Norm Hepp that business was open. Husta, Finger, Tiano, DuBois and Schatzel rammed out base knocks right in the first session to muster four runs on five bingles. Mac Tiano's hefty clout rode for a triple while DuBois and Finger socked out doubles.

Flashes of Life
Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Wise Bird

Richmond, Va.—A brown thrasher assured herself and brood of a cool summer home by building a nest and hatching a family in the cab of an ice truck.

G. L. Wagner said he watched the mother bird, worm in bill, hover over his truck for a half mile before he stopped and discovered the nest.

Mistaken Identity

New York—A near-sighted customer in the Indian bazaar at the New York World's Fair dropped a quarter into the hand of a dignified lady in rich Hindu garb. "Tell my fortune," he said, "and no silly stuff."

The lady stiffened. So did the dark, distinguished man with her. They handed back the quarter and stalked out.

Iron Man

Quillayute, Wash.—It took more than study to earn a high school diploma for Alvin Fletcher. Alvin traveled 52 miles a day, 180 days a year—more than 37,000 miles—over Olympic Peninsula wilderness roads to school.

Wonderful Weather—It's Raining

Kintyre, N. D.—Governor John Moses was delivering a serious commencement address at high school graduation exercises here. Suddenly he stopped, lifted a finger, a hush came.

"Listen," he murmured. "Hear that? Isn't it wonderful?"

Quick Results

North Loup, Neb.—An advertisement in the North Loup Enterprise read: "Wanted a good wrenching rain for the North Loup valley. Will trade dry weather. Next day 1.42 inches rain fell."

Depend Upon Yourself

Train yourself to make your own decisions about everything. Sooner or later, they come a time in your life when you will have to use your own judgment. A crisis will come. You will be in doubt about what to do. There will be not one to whom you can turn for advice. YOU must find a solution to your problem, unaided.

Unless you have learned to stand on your own two feet, you will be puzzled about what course to take. For the timid soul who is often tempted to "ask John's advice"—your judgment may be even better than his. So why not FOLLOW YOUR OWN JUDGMENT?

Try to develop the habit of not worrying, no matter what troubles may come. Worry undermines the health. It prevents you from doing your work well. Moreover, it steals the ability to concentrate upon your tasks. In all the important decisions of your life, YOU are the only one who can decide which course to follow. Learn to be self-reliant!

With confidence in your ability, faith in your judgment and hope in your heart, you will be prepared to meet the emergencies of life.

When the sun in the skies of our world is blotted out by the clouds of fear, pessimism, worry and despair, we must depend upon the sun within ourselves. We must generate our own sunshine. We must carry it with us, to light the way through the darkness of defeat, to burn down obstacles.

How create such inner-sunshine? Close your mind to negative thoughts as you would lock the door to robbers. Fill your mind with positive, constructive, cheerful, hopeful thoughts. Tell yourself that you can succeed, act the part of a winner. Dispel the clouds in the lives of others with the sunshine of service.

We who carries his sunshine with him on the journey of life has learned the master-secret of triumphant living.

It is said that "Life is what you make it." Let us try to create a pleasant one. Be self-reliant!

Tommy was listening to some of his sailor uncle's adventures: "You see, sonny, I always believe in fighting the enemy with his own weapons."

"Really?" gasped Tommy.

"How long does it take to sting a wasp?"

Playfoot—Do you know how far apart your ears are?

Pancake—No I haven't the slightest idea. How far would you say it is?

Playfoot—Well, in your case I'd say one block.

Zeigler—I suppose you want to marry a girl as near like your mother as possible.

Jimmie—No, I'm going to marry an old-fashioned girl.

The secretary put his head in to the office of the business magnate:

"A man has just called, sir," he announced. "He wishes you to tell him the secret of your success in business."

"Just a minute," said the businessman, cautiously. "Before you show him in, tell me, is he a reporter or a detective?"

A city on a hill cannot be hidden, neither can it be sheltered from the wind.

Frump—What is your favorite book?

Goldreck—It has always been my bank book, but even that doesn't rate much interest now.

Humiston Delays Verdict in Death Of W. B. Oakley

Coroner Howard B. Humiston of Kerhonkson is withholding his verdict pending further investigation of the death of William B. Oakley, 55, of The Vly, who was found dead Saturday morning at the home of Thomas Russell. Oakley was found shot through the temple with a .22 calibre rifle which lay near the body.

While the shooting gives every indication of suicide the officials are continuing their investigation. There was no apparent reason for the act and so far as is known he was not in ill health or any difficulty which would prompt the rash act.

The body was found Saturday morning about 10:45 o'clock in the bedroom of the Russell house by two girls, Hazel Pippel and Agatha Schutz, both of West New York, who occupy a cottage near the premises. Mr. Russell had gone to West New York, N. J., Friday to bring his wife to The Vly and left Oakley alone in charge of the premises. The girls not seeing a light in the house Friday evening and no activity about the premises on Saturday morning went to the house to investigate and on entering the house found the body in the bedroom.

Notice of the tragedy was given to R. F. D. Carrier Donnelly who notified Sheriff Abram F. Molyneux and Deputy Arthur Brown was sent to the house to make an investigation. Dr. Edward F. Shea of Stone Ridge was summoned and he called Coroner Humiston who found the man had been dead about 18 hours. This fixed the time of death as early evening on Friday.

The bullet had entered the right temple and came out on the opposite side of the head. The bullet belonged to Russell. Oakley was found slumped on the floor in a sitting position in one corner. He was fully clothed and wore his hat.

Mr. Russell had left about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon and returned to the house Saturday afternoon with his wife.

Oakley owned a bungalow colony at The Vly and so far as is known was in no financial trouble and apparently was in good health. The lack of motive caused the officers to make an extended investigation. No autopsy was ordered.

Coroner Humiston took charge of the remains and funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. Chester Grossman of Kerhonkson will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery at Stone Ridge.

One sister, Mrs. Millie Hendricks of Stone Ridge, and a brother, LeRoy Oakley of Bearsville, survive.

Navy Officials Scan Reports

Portsmouth, N. H., May 29 (AP)—While divers renewed operations today preparatory to salvaging the sunken submarine Squalus and its 26 dead, navy officials scanned written reports of the 33 survivors in an attempt to ascertain what happened on the fatal dive last Tuesday.

Each one of the men rescued with the escape bell has written his story. Lieutenant Commander John B. Longstaff said "the purpose of these written statements is to get a permanent record of the men's versions of the disaster early before minor events are forgotten."

"Sometimes these minor events are the key to the solution. The commanding officer is also preparing his official report to the navy department."

Longstaff, aide to the commandant of the navy yard here and one of those rescued when the submarine S-5 sank in 1920, said all the Squalus survivors were back in active duty.

After the sinking of the Squalus was discovered, navy officials expressed the belief the sea rushed into the submarine through an open air induction valve, plunging the undersea craft 240 feet to the ocean floor. Later, however, a rescued crew member said warning lights indicated all valves were closed when the craft submerged.

Officials were confident that once the $4,000,000 Squalus was raised from its bed of mud and put in dry dock, the cause of the accident would be learned.

Divers yesterday attached air lines to the forward section of the Squalus, increasing the air pressure in water-free compartments to guard against leakage and to bring the pressure within the craft nearer to that outside.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Saugerties, May 29—Miss Ella Longendyke of Schenectady spent Friday with relatives and friends in this place.

The senior ball of the Saugerties High School was held Friday evening in the school auditorium and was successful. The decorations were two colorful garden settings and formed the background for the gorgeous gowns worn at this affair. Roger Baer's orchestra was in charge of the musical selections and the committee in charge of decorations was: Earl Van Ethen, Louise Althier, Virginia Shackett, Richard Ransom, Fred Russell and June Myers.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mayone of this place, who have been spending the winter months in Florida, have returned home. Mr. and Mrs. Mayone had the misfortune to have an automobile accident at Baltimore, Md., in which both were injured. Mrs. Mayone is a patient in the Kingston Hospital and Mr. Mayone was treated for bruises and shock.

The stewards of the Methodist churches of the Kingston district will hold a meeting in Bigelow hall at Malden Tuesday, June 13. Over 200 are expected to be present.

Saugerties has organized a softball league with the following teams taking active part, Malden, Saugerties, Western Auto Supply, Glasco, Service Center, Quarryville and the Amherst Bears. Albert Perke was named president and Charles Riccardi chosen as secretary and treasurer. These games will be played at the Cantine Memorial field on Washington avenue.

The annual Parent-Teacher Association picnic will be held at Mink Hollow on Wednesday, June 7. The men will have charge of refreshments.

Superintendent of Schools Grant D. Morse of this place attended the farewell dinner of schoolmaster which was held at Port Jervis on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Utter of Washington avenue have returned from spending a few days in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Scudder, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Schutt of Kingston were among those attending the glee club concert Wednesday evening.

Miss Anna Willerson of North Attleboro, Mass., visited Mrs. John Gordel recently.

W. Hoyt Overbush, president of the Saugerties Chamber of Commerce has announced that all members of the Chamber of Commerce and Lions Club that will take part in the Memorial Day services be at the corner of First street on Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock.

Miss Anna Thode of Lafayette street underwent an X-ray examination in the Benedictine Hospital on Thursday.

Miss Gertrude Lerner of the Columbia University, New York city, is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lerner, on John street.

Donald Playford of Montgomery street has accepted a position with relatives in New York city.

Robert LaFrenz of Elm street has accepted a position on the Johnson estate on Barclay Heights.

Invitations have been issued for the 25th anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. John Neander, pastor of the Reformed Dutch Church of this village. The service will be held in the church on Friday evening, June 2, at 7:30 o'clock, with the Rev. Frank B. Seeley, D.D., of Kingston, being the speaker. A reception will follow in the church banquet hall.

The Men's Club of the Katsbaan Church are planning to hold a ladies' night on Tuesday evening, June 20. Arthur Moore of Tappan, magician and ventriloquist, will provide the entertainment.

Plague Deaths Halved
Amsterdam (AP)—Plague deaths in the Netherlands East Indies have been almost halved through the use of a vaccine invented by Dr. L. Otten and used since 1935. In 1938 the number of plague cases was only 2,108 with a death toll of 2,083, a reduction of 43 per cent compared with 1937.

Major Callan Makes Plea For Protection of Democracy

"We who love and honor and cherish our form of Democracy, resent and shall protest any attempt to set up any other form of government here," declared Major Albert S. Callan of Chatham, a past commander of the American Legion in the state, speaking Sunday evening at the patriotic meeting held in the Municipal Auditorium under the auspices of the United Veterans' Association, Inc.

Major Callan said the American Democracy is the best form of government under which men and women can live. It had been thoroughly tested for over 150 years. Because of their belief in it men and women have gladly given of their lives that our government may continue.

Must Fight Vigorously
Americans must wage a vigorous fight to preserve the principles on which this country is founded or else those who have died have died in vain.

Major Callan pointed out that there are only two forms of government in the world today, our own form and the other form that is either Communistic, Nazi or Fascistic. If democracy is discarded there are only two alternatives, he declared, Communism or Nazi-Fascism.

Mayor C. J. Heiselman presided at the meeting which was opened with the invocation by Dr. James Cantine of Stone Ridge, a former missionary to Arabia, and closed with the Benediction by the Rev. Arthur S. Cole of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, after which Taps were sounded by Frank Sass.

Augustus Cole Present
Augustus Cole of Ulster Park, one of Ulster county's two surviving veterans of the Civil War, was present and was introduced by the mayor. Jules Viglino, recited the Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and Miss Maxine Taylor read the poem "In Flanders Fields."

Sunday afternoon at Kingston Point the annual tribute of strewing flowers on the waters of the Hudson river in memory of the soldier and sailor dead was observed by the Rev. William J. McVey of the First Presbyterian Church, Mayor C. J. Heiselman and Surrogate Harry H. Flemming.

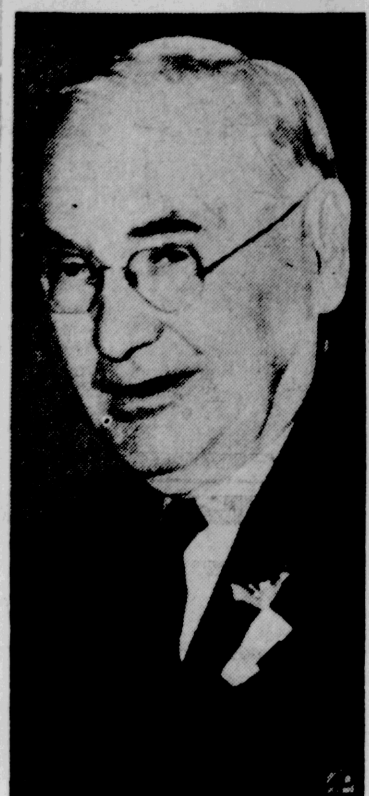

Services at Point
Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 53, of Tappan Camp, No. 1, of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, members of Kingston Post of the American Legion, Boy Scouts, members of the Joyce-Schirick Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and city officials and citizens assembled at Kingston Point to participate in this annual service.

The Salvation Army Band rendered a musical program and Raymond DuBois sang several solos, accompanied by Harold Canfield on the violin. Recitations were given by the Misses Dolores, Gloria and Shirley Miller, Miss Catherine Bush, Mrs. Minetta Barton, Mrs. Harry Sills and Mrs. Edna Jennings.

Commander Joseph Sills of Kingston Post, Commander Charles B. Skane of Joyce-Schirick Post, and Russell Broughton, scoutmaster of Troop 6, also spoke briefly.

The firing squad at the services were: Kingston Post of American Legion, Nelson W. Snyder, August Paulson, Albert Messenger, Sergeant Abe Singer, Joyce-Schirick Post, Henry Diehl, Patrick Bohon, Joseph Perry and Martin O'Brien. Frank Sass, bugler, sounded taps at the close of the service, which had been arranged by Mrs. Eugene A. Flicker, of Tappan Auxiliary, who introduced the speakers of the afternoon, and James Krom, of Tappan Camp.

Alaskan Volcano Is in Eruption

Unalaska, Alaska, May 29 (AP)—Mount Veniaminof, about 350 miles northwest of here, was reported in violent eruption today.

Strong earth shocks, felt here at 9:15 p. m. (Pacific Standard Time) Sunday, were believed traceable to the eruption, which has been in progress since May 25 but was first reported today.

The eruption was described as the greatest and most spectacular on the Alaska Peninsula in more than a decade. Flashes and ashes spurted from the volcano at regular intervals.

Residents of the district were prepared to flee should the eruption become more serious.

But there was no serious damage.

Find O. Henry Maps
Lubbock, Tex. (AP)—Survey maps prepared by the author, O. Henry, have been obtained by President Clifford Jones for the library of Texas Technological College. The maps, made when O. Henry was an employee of the Texas General Land office, contain evidence of the artistic handiwork of the writer. One bears a drawing of a coiled rattlesnake, another a jack-rabbit and a third shows a cowboy twirling a lariat.

Vandenberg Ready To Accept Party's Bid, if It Is Desired

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) announced today he would seek re-election to the Senate in 1940, but added that "if there are subsequent responsibilities of a broader nature, I shall meet them to the best of my ability."

Vandenberg's statement was made in a letter replying to a request from Michigan Republican officials that he be drafted for the party's presidential nomination next year.

Vandenberg's Senate term expires in 1941, and thus he would have to choose between seeking re-election to the Senate and running for the presidency.

Vandenberg's statement today said the next Republican convention "must first set down clear-cut, constructive courageous principles which dependably promise to save the American system of free enterprise under the renewed spirit of constitutional democracy, and to recapture prosperity for our whole people under a government restored to solvency."

Should Fit Nominations
"Then it should fit its nominations to its principles," the senator said.

The Michigan Republican added that the convention should strive "to create common ground upon which all like-thinkers may unite to produce an administration for all Americans."

In such an administration, Vandenberg said, the President should be "a pre-pledged, one-term president" who would be "manifestly free of all incentive but the one job of saving America." The senator added:

"In my view, the nominations should flow from the deliberative judgment of a convention wholly free to search out the wisest, surest answers to these critical problems."

"Holding this deep conviction, it would be wholly out of character for me personally to pursue the nomination for myself. It is for the people themselves to speak. No man understanding its difficulties and responsibilities could covet the presidency; and no American could decline it if chosen."

Vandenberg expressed gratitude for the statement by Michigan Republicans, and said that he hoped "to proceed with whatever responsibilities lie ahead in a manner that may justify these general opinions." he added, "these responsibilities require me to announce that I shall be a candidate to succeed myself in the United States Senate."

"If there are subsequent responsibilities of a broader nature, I shall meet them to the best of my ability."

The Characters

Jocelyn Russell, beautiful heiress.
Tally Mack, young farmer whose family has inherited half the Russell estate, Seaciff.

Yesterday: Thorn closes the deal on what he thinks is oil land.

Chapter 25

The Rosewood Cabinet

THE casts were removed from old Mack's legs on the fifteenth of October and he was allowed to hobble about a short while each day with the support of crutches. The doctor expressed wonder at the swiftness with which his bones had knitted, but Gramp insisted:

"Fiddlesticks! I'm tough and jist in the prime o' life! I got years ahead o' me to pester folks and git 'em in trouble and out o' it."

However, now that he was more self-sufficient, Jocelyn could think of no excuse to postpone her wedding. Not that she really wished to, she reflected, but she hated to leave Seaciff, torn up as it was, and all the dear, familiar things she had always known. Nevertheless, Geoffrey was impatient, and she felt further delay would be most unfair to him.

The nights and mornings now were nippy and only in the middle of the day could she dive into the surf or the swimming pool. This particular day, coming out from a rigorous ten lengths in the pool, she saw Tally approaching her, a frown on his face.

Without preface he said: "I promised you long ago to give you first chance at buying that rosewood cabinet if I had to sell. Well, it has to be sold."

"Why?" she asked, pulling the rubber cap from her head and shaking out her hair. "Isn't your farm making money?"

"Yes, I did have a small savings account but it went for the doctor's bill. Now the semi-annual taxes are due on this place and I must pay them. Your brother paid the first half last spring; now it's my turn and the only way I can raise enough money is on that cabinet. This antique dealer offered me five hundred."

Jocelyn picked up a thick Turkish towel and began wiping the water from her face and arms. Her legs felt cold. Why did Tally always approach her and speak to her as if he had a chip on his shoulder and hoped and expected she would knock it off?

"I'll ask Thorn for the money as soon as he comes home," she promised. "He hasn't given me my allowance yet this month and I need it. I—I have a lot of clothes to buy for my—my marriage."

Tally stiffened. "At least you'll never have to work for a living. I might have done you some good, but you might have found out you couldn't take it."

"Do you have to be insulting?" "I didn't mean it that way. Sorry, I'll call for the money tonight."

"Don't bother," she called after his retreating back. "I'll bring it over when I come to see your grandfather."

She went slowly into the house and up to her room. She was so lonely these days. She missed Bob terribly. She had come to dread the ritual of dinner because she had to face Thorn across the long empty expanse of table. Thorn had changed so since Nola's departure. He had certainly become a person of paradoxical moods. He was, by turn, morose or genial; silent or over-talking; when you were good, he seemed to startle him. He looked as if his clothes were full of pins sticking into him.

"Thorn, what on earth is the matter with you?" she demanded. "You're as jittery and jumpy as a racehorse."

"Oh, it's nothing. Nerves, I guess. I'll take a run in to the doctor's tomorrow and have him take a look at me."

She told him about the taxes and the rosewood cabinet, finishing: "So be a darling and write me a check for five hundred, will you? And while you're at it give me my allowance. You might spare a hundred or so extra for clothes because I'll be driving to San Francisco in the next day or so."

Thorn slumped into a chair as if his legs had suddenly refused to support him. He moistened his dry lips with the tip of his tongue.

"Lyn—the truth is—I can't give you any money at all. Not a penny. You see I—I have invested our money. I expect to triple it any day now."

"You mean you put every cent of our inheritance into some wild-cat scheme?"

"It isn't wild-cat," he defended.

"It must be if you can triple money! Even I know that much! Thorn, you're planning to do it without consulting Bob and me. We have as much say about that money as you have!"

"Now don't get excited, Lyn. You know nothing about big business deals."

"Neither do you! You never handled a nickel in your life outside of the money Grandma gave you! What did you invest the money in, anyhow?"

"I refuse to discuss it with you. As soon as I make my own-up-over I'll tell you and not before."

"What about the cabinet?" she cried. "I won't have a dealer getting it. And it isn't Tally's fault. Those taxes have to be paid and you know it. Why didn't you think of that before you took all of our money?"

"Ask Geoffrey to buy the cabinet for you," he suggested wearily. "Five hundred dollars should mean nothing to him when he has close to a million."

"I won't ask Geoff for money. I won't do it, I tell you!"

"Oh, Lyn, for goodness' sake, leave me alone. I have no money and that's the end of it."

On the verge of tears Lyn went in search of Tally; found him out in the stables picking hay to the cows. She scolded over straw-covered cement floor, clenching her teeth to keep back the tears.

"Tally—Tally, I—"

Looking up, he saw how lovely she was with the coldness and arrogance gone from her face. At this moment she reminded him of a forlorn, disappointed child. There were tears behind her lashes and her mouth quivered with the effort to keep her voice steady.

"What's the trouble?" he queried in the exact tone he used to Betsy.

"I—I can't raise the money. Thorn has invested everything and—and I guess you'll have to sell the cabinet."

"I hate you!"

IN SILENCE he regarded her a long time; said finally: "If that old piece of wood means so darned much to you, Jocelyn, I'll get the money some other way. And I guess Gramp won't object to your having it. We don't need it."

Her hands dropped limply to her sides. Tears spilled from her eyes and ran down her flushed cheeks. "This—is the nicest thing anybody ever did for me," she stammered.

Tally, unwillingly answering the helpless appeal of her attitude, patted her shoulder. She kept on weeping. He dabbed at her eyes with his big soapy-smelling handkerchief. Her head drooped to his shoulder.

"I love him," she thought, and cried harder.

"I always was a sucker for women's tears," he deprecated. Then abruptly he remembered the time she had begged him to stop him from building the fence. The softness in his eyes was replaced by grim self-mockery. "Jocelyn Russell, you're a minx! You figured you could get around me with tears, didn't you? Well, the cabinet is yours. I never go back on my word—but you needn't play-act any more."

Her fists clenched, raised as if she were going to strike him. All the color drained from her face.

"How can you say that to me?" she choked. "Oh, I hate you—I hate you!"

With a jerk she freed herself of his detaining hand and ran out of the stables.

Tally picked up the fork and resumed pitching hay into the stalls. "Maybe she wasn't pretending," he said to the nearest cow. "Anyhow, I don't hate her. I wish I did. I'd be a sight better off!"

Meanwhile, Betsy sat, tailor-fashion, on the bed beside Gramp attempting to push Tex's forelegs into the sleeves of a doll's dress which was twisted about his recalcitrant middle. His plume-like tail swished angrily.

"Steady, steady," soothed Gramp. "If Betsy wants you for a doll she's got to fix you like one!"

Betsy, succeeding in drawing the white paws through the sleeves, proceeded to button the neck of the dress around Tex's throat. "Now, Tex, you be a good girl and mind Mama," she scolded, her small face intent with make-believe.

Gramp snorted. "He ain't no girl. Think a struttin' male like him wants to be a wearin' women's duds?"

"I don't care," Betsy pouted. "Daddy promised me a doll like Josie's, but now I can't have it 'cause there isn't no money. Uncle Tally said so. Why isn't there money, Gramp?"

"On account o' me, I reckon, honey. These here busted legs o' mine cost a pretty penny. Mebbe I ain't worth it—"

"Shame on you!" Jocelyn smiled, coming into the room. "Where's your vanity?"

"Busted," Gramp deplored. "Say, Josie, did Tally take that cabinet of your grandma's into your place?"

Gramp nodded. "It's in my room. Gramp, I'm worried. How is he going to pay the taxes?"

Chapter 26

Jinx

GRAMP hitched himself up higher on his pillows; reached underneath them for his tin-foil-wrapped tobacco; leisurely peeled back a corner of tin-foil and bit off a piece of tobacco. "The taxes is paid," he informed Jocelyn. "Don't know where in tarnation Tally got the cash 'cause he won't tell. Anyhow, he's been a runnin' into the city every day o' the week, and off he went again this mornin'."

Jocelyn's eyes shone with inner delight as her lips parted in a smile. "Oh, that's the most wonderful news I've heard in years. Gramp! It—it doesn't seem possible that Tally is a lawyer. I know he'll be a good one."

"You bet. Kinda like him, don't you, Josie?"

"Kinda," she laughed, "although he's the stubbornest, contrariest man I ever saw. He ought to win all of his cases!"

"Say," Gramp asked in an off-hand manner, "what about this wedding o' yours? Ain't it s'posed to come off mighty soon?"

"In a little more than a week," she answered, her eyes sobering. "I—I hate to leave Seaciff."

"Humph," Gramp turned to observe the unhappy cat whose great amber eyes were dilated with indignation. "Take those clothes off o' him, Betsy," he ordered crustily. "He's been tormented long enough. Then you run down and see if you can help Gramma."

When Betsy obeyed, the old man again regarded Jocelyn. "Don't see what you want to marry that fellow for, Josie. You ain't in love with him."

Jocelyn carefully inspected the belt of her woolly green dress. So, she thought, a little frightened by the man's perspicacity, old Mack had penetrated with his sage old eyes a secret which she thought to be his alone. Even she had not suspected this truth until that time a few days ago when Tally had held her in his arms and wiped the tears from her cheeks. Since then she had known that her feeling for Geoff was only a deep friendship resulting from habit; that love, deep and thrilling and true, passed her heart for Tally. Still, what good to admit it to anyone, even herself? Tally merely tolerated her. He disliked everything she stood for; everything she said and did. And Geoffrey—she just couldn't let him down. He loved her. He was kind and thoughtful and faithful. If ever she needed to control her impetuous emotions she needed to control them now.

"I'd rather not talk about it, Gramp," she said at last.

"Sure," he nodded. "But I got to say this, Josie, even if it makes you mad. It's Tally you ought to have an' you know it. If he wasn't carryin' you off and make you marry him, but he won't. I always heard about history repeatin' itself and that's what I figure is happenin' right now. Your Gramma should've married me 'stead of Homer Russell, an' you know it. Mebbe she'd never had much—" his voice thinned and softened—but there ain't need of much if you got love inside o' you, Josie. Life is kind o' long an' sort o' empty if you don't have it, an' somehow you have to fill it up with things like kids an' money an' fancy clothes an' duty. Never fills it up, though. Katie was a good girl and a good wife an' mother. Still I never cared much 'bout anything after Josie run away. Sixty years is a long time for two of us to live with just memories inside—"

Urged by an emotion beyond her control, Jocelyn knelt beside the bed and laid her shining red head against the old man's hand.

Softly, his tired old voice a little wavery with unshed tears, he said: "I jest don't want you to make the same mistake we made sixty years ago, honey. Don't try sayin' anything now. Go off alone some place and figure things out for yourself, an' remember this—"

you don't owe nobody your lifetime, promise or no promise!"

"Promise Me!"

GEORGE, driving Jocelyn to a party at Ruth Benton's that night, said: "Why so gloomy, Lyn? We're going to a party, not a funeral. It's to be a gala celebration in honor of our coming wedding. I hope you aren't depressed because Thorn is short of cash and you aren't able to buy new clothes? I still can't see why you won't at least borrow the money from me. After all, you will be my wife in eight more days."

Jocelyn shivered; drew her long

Turns To Leather

Although smiling, Lester Drexler, 7, (above), of South Bend, Ind., doesn't know it, this may be his last year of life. Lester's skin is turning to leather, due to a rare disease, and doctors say they have little hope of saving his life.

Expert Praises Work of Players

Interest in the experimental productions of the Town Players in reviving melodramas at the Town Music Hall in Port Jervis, was expressed by Norman Brace, prominent New York theatrical director and teacher of many radio and Hollywood stars.

"The director of the Theatre School of Dramatic Art at Carnegie Hall, Mr. Brace visited the Town Music Hall Saturday night. In a professional criticism of the production, he told the cast that melodrama revivals offer the only opportunity in the theatre today for over-acting. Without exception, he said, the acting of the Town Players in 'Silas, the Chorbey,' is beyond criticism."

The New York director who has coached such famous personalities as Laury Ross and Constance Bennett, made special note of the performance of John Brophy who plays the title role, and Dan Whiteley, the villain in the current production. Their success in their individual roles, Mr. Brace said, is due to their over-acting, to pantomiming the presentation rather than relying solely upon the spoken word for effect.

Several professional suggestions made by Mr. Brace will be incorporated in a special performance of 'Silas, the Chorbey,' which is to be given tonight at 9 o'clock.

Breakfast has more casualties than any other meal. Grapefruit in the eye, egg yolk on the chin, and hot coffee to scald the throat.

Carnival to Open At Powell's Field

The O. C. Buck Exposition will open a week's engagement tonight at Powell's Field just over the Washington avenue viaduct under the auspices of the Excelsior Hose Co.

A free circus program will be staged at 10:30 o'clock each night and will feature the "Fearless Falcons," a troupe which performs on 150-foot aerial rigging without benefit of nets.

The O. C. Buck exposition has been re-organized and modernized following a disastrous winter quarters in November. The latest riding in "thrillers" have been added to the amusement division of the carnival.

Knowledge adds to the pleasure of life. Take for instance the people who know and appreciate flowers.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the undersigned, pursuant to the authority conferred upon him by the Public Welfare Law of the State of New York, Chapter 385 of the Laws of 1929 as amended, will offer for sale at public auction to be held at the premises at 12 o'clock noon, on the 10th day of June, 1939, the following described parcel of real estate, located in the Village of Connelly, in the County of Ulster, New York, to-wit:

BEGINNING, at a point on the northerly side of Plantavia Avenue in South Hornet, being the south-westerly corner of Lot No. 3, and running thence southerly along the northerly side of Plantavia Avenue forty feet to Lot No. 5, formerly purchased by Charles Macdonald, thence in an easterly course one hundred and fifty feet more or less along the northerly bounds of Lot No. 2, thence in a westerly course one hundred and fifty feet more or less to Plantavia Avenue, the point of beginning being the corner of the intersection of the lands of F.

Stephan and by Clark Chatfield Incorporated, 1937.

Being the same premises conveyed by Katherine E. Helton to Henry V. Old Age Relief of Ulster County by deed dated June 13, 1936 and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office Book 1366 in Book 582 of Deeds at page 273.

The said premises will be sold subject to the lien of a bond and mortgage held and owned by the Rondout Savings Bank of the City of Kingston, N. Y., upon which said bond and mortgage there is due and unpaid the principal sum of $450 with interest from October 1, 1937.

The bidder to whom the premises are struck down will be required to pay twenty per cent (20%) of the amount of his bid at the time of sale and the balance thereof within ten (10) days after the date of sale to the undersigned, at the office of the County Clerk, 53 John Street, Kingston, N. Y., upon the payment of which said sum the County of Ulster County, N. Y., upon the payment of which said sum the County of Ulster County will execute and deliver a deed without covenants of warranty, to the purchaser.

The right is reserved by the undersigned to withdraw the said premises from such sale at any time before the same are struck down and to make further or different terms or conditions of sale to be announced at a time thereof.

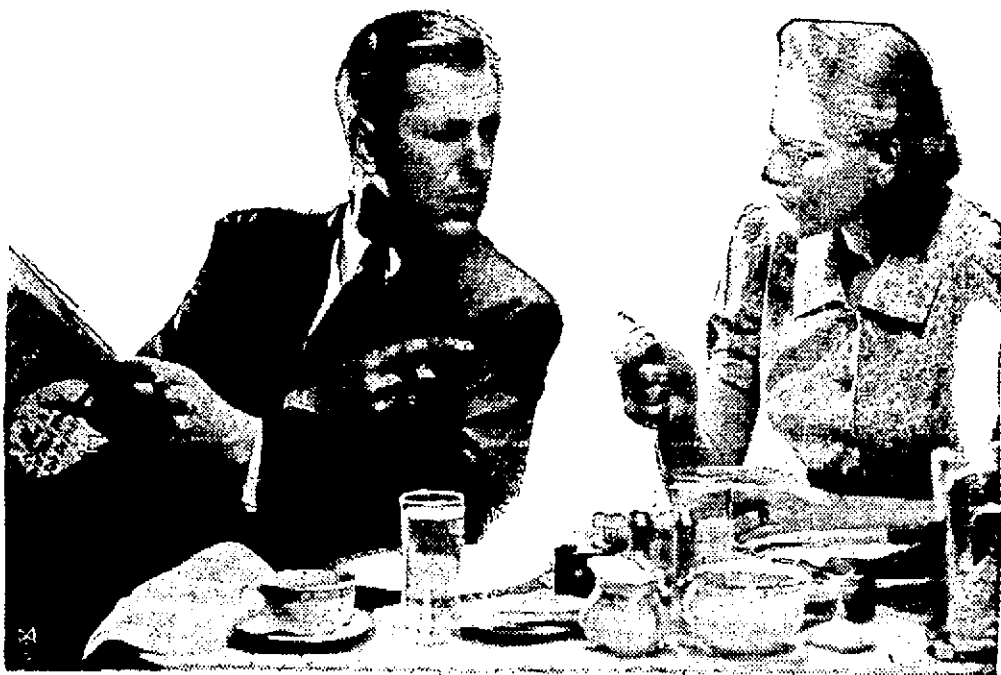

The holder upon the above described premises will be open for public inspection on the day of the same from 10 o'clock A. M. to the hour of 4 o'clock P. M. Dated, Seaguard, N. Y., May 17, 1939.

HENRY A. LANOUVE, Deputy Commissioner of Old Age Relief of Ulster County

1 JOHN: WHY SO GLUM? LET'S TAKE A WALK.
MARY: I'M TOO TIRED—WISH WE HAD A CAR!

Poor young wife! The housework and long days in a hot house have got her! John is right in calling her "glum"—but Mary's right in complaining because she knows that if they had a car . . . and went for a long, cool ride . . . she'd be her sweet self again. That copy of the Kingston Daily Freeman in John's hands is getting nervous listening to the quarrel!

2 JOHN: YOU KNOW I CAN'T AFFORD ONE . . .
MARY: THE JONES ARE NO RICHER THAN WE.

They never acted like this before! But again Mary is right! Bill Jones doesn't earn any more than John does, and they just bought an excellent used car! Tears in her eyes, Mary remembers "Jane said it was easy finding an inexpensive car in the Classified Columns!" That copy of the Kingston Daily Freeman is now puffing out its chest in helpful pride!

3 JOHN: WELL, LET'S SEE THE CLASSIFIED.
MARY: LOOK AT THAT GRAND COUPE BUY!

Looks as though the fireworks are over! Mary's arm goes around John, and he's smiling. They're both smiling—because a coupe is just what they want, and that price fits into their budget, slim as it is. And that's not the only good used car value in the Classified! That copy of the Kingston Daily Freeman chuckles while Mary and John read the long list!

Kingston Daily Freeman Keeps Peace In The Family

or the Story of How Mary and John "Kissed and Made Up"
—and Bought a Car!

No Doubt These Five Scenes from the Daily Life of a Typical Kingston Couple Will Strike Home! Read All About Their First Quarrel - - - which the Kingston Daily Freeman Will See to It Is Also Their Last!

The story of John and Mary is not all fiction! It's true to life—the sort of thing that happens every day in some home; some time in every home. It is the purpose of our Classified Section to play an important part in the daily life of this community—to help people get more out of their earnings—to make necessities available to every family, and to bring little luxuries within their range. The Classified Section has so many classifications: Used Cars, (that settled Mary's quarrel with John); Furniture; Electrical Appliances; Carpets and Floor Coverings; For Sale; Wanted to Purchase; Toys for the children, Furs; Clothing; and many more. On which will you call to show you the way to better living? Once you use the Classifieds, you will know added joys . . . new possessions . . . and you will be bringing happiness to others while you economize!

4 JOHN: O. K., WE'LL LOOK AT THE CAR NOW.
MARY: WHAT A GRAND SUMMER WE'LL HAVE!

No more sitting around, wishing for something to do, or for a friend who has a car to pick them up and take them for a ride! Mary and John will have their own car this summer! Every evening will be fun—every week-end will be a thrifty vacation—That copy of the Kingston Daily Freeman with its value-filled Classified Section has kept peace in the family!

5 JOHN: HAPPY NOW, DEAR?
MARY: THANKS TO THE CLASSIFIED

The home of Mary and John is happy again! And back of Mary's wise little head is the thought that she can use the Classified Section for so many wonderful purposes! Up in her own attic are several useful things she no longer needs! She's going to phone the Kingston Daily Freeman tomorrow morning, and put her ad in the For Sale Column! And there are several things she's been wanting: a bicycle, to join her friends' cycling club; a new refrigerator; an electric shaver for John—it will be wonderful buying them through the Classified Section at prices that could not be lower. Now Mary's beginning to understand why so many young couples seem to maintain a higher standard of living than their incomes would indicate—and they save money too! The Kingston Daily Freeman is so happy now—it's made another family in town realize the value of the Classified Section—everybody's happy!

Receives Degree

MISS ETHELMAE JONES

Miss Ethelmae Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart A. Jones of 74 Wall street, received her Bachelor of Arts degree today at the commencement exercises at Limestone College, Gaffney, S. C., where she majored in English and education.

Miss Jones has been active during her four years of college. She has been freshman class reporter, society editor and associate editor, in turn of the school paper, has been a member of the Baptist Student Union council, a member of the National Honorary literary society, Chi Delta Phi, business manager of the school year book, The Colloid, and a member of the tennis doubles team.

At the Class Day exercises, Miss Jones was Class Historian. She will spend the summer on Knappa Plantation, at Marian, S. C.

a cottage of sweet peas. She was attended by Mrs. Kenneth Geary, her sister-in-law, who wore charreuse crepe with matching turban and a corsage of sweet peas. George Keller acted as best man for the groom. Following a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's mother, the couple left on a wedding trip to New York city. They will reside at 69 West Union street.

Couples Club Picnic

The fourth annual picnic of the Y. M. C. A. Couples Club was held Saturday at the Y. M. camp at Glenrie and was attended by 35 members. During the afternoon outdoor games were enjoyed and a camp fire in the evening completed the day. Arrangements were in charge of Edward DeWitt, president of the club, who was assisted by the other officers.

Russell H. Broughton was in charge of the camp fire and explained the old Indian customs of camp fires.

Engagement Announced at Tea

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Phyllis Babcock, daughter of Mrs. Viola C. Babcock of 75 Florence street, to George Silkworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Silkworth of 219 Clifton avenue, was made Sunday at a tea given by Mrs. Babcock at her home, and which was attended by some 60 guests. Mrs. Babcock and her daughter received Mrs. Peter Keresman, Mrs. Edward Fitzgerald and Mrs. William Mellett assisted by pouring and Miss Jessie Kaprielian and Miss Jean Babcock assisted in serving.

Miss Babcock, a graduate of the Academy of St. Ursula, attended Beaver College and Pratt Institute. Her fiancé attended St. John's College and is completing his course at Rider College. The wedding will take place in the early fall.

F. Charles Adler To Present Concert

F. Charles Adler, conductor of the Albany Federal Orchestra, will present two programs in the municipal auditorium Wednesday afternoon and evening, May 31. The concert is being sponsored by St. John's Episcopal Church.

Mr. Adler was born in London of German parentage. He has been successively conductor of the State Opera in Dresden and of the Munich, Hamburg and German Opera Company when it toured the United States during the 1930-1931 season. In 1937 he was Music Director of the Musical Festival at Saratoga Springs. He is also publisher in Berlin of the "Edition Adler," which includes compositions by numerous modern American composers.

Mr. Adler comes well recommended by music critics in leading cities where the Albany Federal Orchestra has presented programs. The two programs in Kingston have been especially arranged by the music committee of St. John's Church and include an all-English program.

The first concert will be at 4 o'clock for the children of the city and will be one hour in length. The evening will be for adults, commencing at 8 o'clock and will last an hour and a half.

Tickets are selling rapidly for the evening concert and may be obtained from any member of the parish. There are no tickets for the children's concert but admissions will be received at the door.

A SLIMLINE SHIRT-WAIST

MARIAN MARTIN

Every woman with "weighty" problems has a picture in her own mind of a slimmer self. A dream that can easily come to life for you—if you set your needle to work on this slenderizing shirt-waist, expertly designed by Marian Martin. Such a simple dress-making job, with its few seams and the ever-helpful Sew-chart. The full, eight-gored skirt gives those grand up-and-down lines you need, while the softly fitting bodice is lapped over from back to front to look like a yoke. For a final slimming touch, the graceful collar continues down the front in a scalloped buttoned opening.

Pattern 9777 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3½ yards 39 inch fabric.

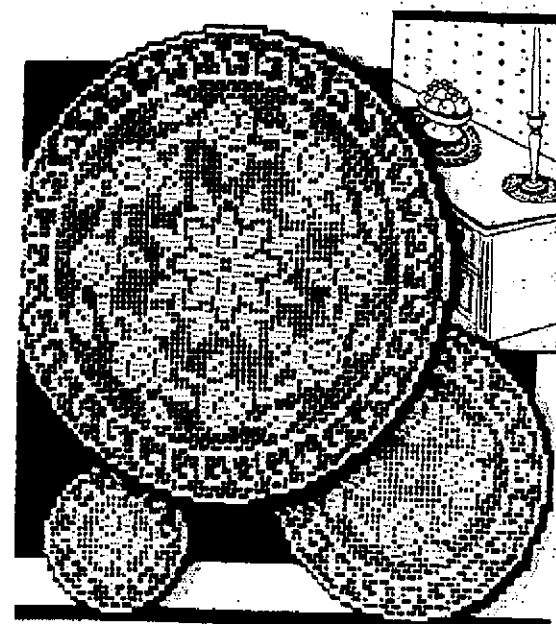

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coin for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Swing into summer in a light-hearted mood with a wardrobe-full of new clothes. Even if your budget won't "budge," you can find a way by ordering MARIAN MARTIN'S NEW PATTERN BOOK, and stitching up your summer things at home. You'll find be-fitted street frocks... be-glamored evening wear. The new basque and "little girl" trends! Sportswear, sea-and-sun styles, housefrocks, bridal finery! Man In The Iron Lung Will Pray At Shrine Noted For Wonder Cures

One of the strangest pilgrimages ever made to the world-famous shrine at Lourdes, France, left New York May 17. It was that of Fred Snite, Jr., 28-year-old Chicagoan who was stricken with infantile paralysis three years ago and ever since has lain in an iron lung. What Lourdes is and what he could hope to find there during his nine-day stay are told in the following story.

By The AP Feature Service

A riverside grotto at Lourdes, France, has become one of the most cherished of Catholic shrines since a young shepherdess 61 years ago told of visions in which the Virgin Mary came to her there.

Millions have visited the grotto and its miraculous spring for physical and spiritual healing. Many who came helplessly lame have walked away reporting themselves cured and leaving behind as votive offerings the crutches which line the wall of the grotto.

It is to that shrine that Fred Snite, 28-year-old Chicagoan who has breathed with an iron lung since infantile paralysis struck him three years ago, has gone.

More than three-quarters of a century ago Bernadette Soubirous, a 14-year-old peasant girl, told skeptical clergy of her visions at the grotto on the banks of the Gave de Pau in the Pyrenees.

She had seen, she said, a beautiful lady "lovelier than I have ever seen," in a hollow of the rocks. She told of 18 visions within six months. The last, she informed priests, had ordered her to have the church build a chapel on the spot and have processions come there.

Four years later the diocese recognized justification "in believing the reality of the apparition." In 1873 the first of the great national French pilgrimages visited the 15-foot square grotto, and a basilica was constructed on the hillside above it.

FRED SNITE Sees World Through Iron Lung Mirror

Increasing pilgrimages — they now average an estimated 600,000 a year — made the building inadequate, and the Church of the Rosary was built directly above the spring.

In the grotto itself visitors now see Bernadette's vision—depicted by a great statue of the Virgin in a hollow of the rocks to the right of the spring.

Water Piped In

The spring has been walled off and the water is piped into basins below. Pilgrims bathe there or drink the water from taps in the walls. Chemists have reported it has no chemical properties to account for the cures. In fact, the remarkable coldness of the water makes its application dangerous for certain ailments.

But the Bureau of Medical Authentication of the grotto reports 4,000 cures, partial or complete, were effected in the first 50 years of the shrine. Cures have been claimed for nervous diseases, lameness, tuberculosis, tumors, sores, cancers, deafness, and blindness.

Snite hopes to find "spiritual and mental" betterment but says he will not be too disappointed if there is no physical improvement.

He adds:

"I will make an earnest plea to Him and to the Blessed Mother to help me, knowing that He can cure me if He should so desire. But if it is not His will, and He surely knows best, then it is not mine."

Six Countries Eye Antarctica

Germany Latest to Claim Part of Ice-Covered Continent.

WASHINGTON. — With Germany now making claim to 230,000 square miles of Antarctica, explored from one of her whaling ships, five nations and Australia have set up claims for the division of the vast continent that lies under a thick layer of ice at the "bottom" of the world.

"The claims on behalf of Norway, Great Britain, France, the United States, and Australia have sliced the Antarctic continent like a huge pie; but little to some of the slices is by no means clear and uncontented," says the National Geographic society.

How Claims Rest.

"When Amundsen, first man to reach the South pole, arrived there in December, 1911, he claimed for Norway a relatively small circular area of land around the pole with a radius of about 110 miles. Since then explorers who have cruised the Antarctic coast, penetrated the continent a few miles, or flown over certain previously unexplored regions have claimed for their countries all the land between certain longitudes extending all the way to the poles.

"The so-called Australian claim is the largest single slice of the Antarctic 'pie.' It extends from 45 degrees east longitude to 160 degrees east longitude, France, however, insists that the region from Adelaide Land between 136 and 143 degrees east longitude, wholly within the Australian claim, is hers; and in January Lincoln Ellsworth looked down from an airplane in the same Australian area, 80,000 square miles 'never before seen by man,' and announced his claim for the United States. The Ellsworth area lies between 74 and 85 degrees east longitude, and 70 and 75 degrees south latitude. Thus, it does not reach the edge of the continent.

Claimed for U. S.

"Besides the Australian claims there are two other pie-shaped slices claimed by Great Britain: the Ross Dependency between 160 degrees east and 150 degrees west longitude; and a large area between 20 and 80 degrees west longitude. Between these slices claimed by Great Britain are Marie Byrd Land between 120 and 150 degrees west longitude, which was explored by Admiral Richard E. Byrd, and James W. Ellsworth Land, the area from 80 to 120 degrees west longitude which Lincoln Ellsworth claimed for the United States when he traversed the region by airplane in 1935.

"The Norwegian claims are not as definite as some of the others, but are understood to cover the sector extending from 20 degrees west longitude to 45 degrees east longitude. It is inside this latter sector that the new German claim has been set up."

'A Good Guy'

WARSAW, POLAND.—Warsaw's newest movie palace has opened as the "Cinema Napoleon" and not the "Paris Cinema," the name chosen originally.

The theater is in a building owned by an Italian insurance company and was leased by a French-Polish concern, which chose the name "Paris Cinema." The Italians objected to a French name. A compromise was effected on "Cinema Napoleon." The French are pleased because Napoleon was French and the Italians because "Napoleon was Italian anyway because he was a Corsican and Italy will get Corsica back some day."

Pheasants Seem to Know All About Their Rights

GILROY, CALIF.—Golden pheasants, rigidly protected under California game laws, cause considerable embarrassment to a municipality when they calmly walked up the main street.

Two have done so here recently. The last one, caught by three small boys, was gracefully turned over to Judge Leon Thomas. He could find no legal precedents for such a case, but called in a game warden, instructed him to take the bird outside the city limits and give it a good start for somewhere else.

Buck Scorns Wild Life

After Tasting Comforts SEQUOIA NATIONAL PARK, CALIF.—If the public doesn't quit feeding wild animals, there soon won't be any more wild animals—they'll be tame—park officials here think. A fine three-point buck which used to come to Lon Oldham's blacksmith shop for a daily handout was removed from the park last spring.

The buck, however, apparently had lost its banking for the wild life and six months later showed up again at the blacksmith shop for its daily manna.

Albany Lad Hurt At Kingston Point

Edward Smith, 6, of 61 Brookline avenue, Albany, suffered a broken arm Sunday in a fall from a railing enclosing the picnic tables in Kingston Point Park. The arm was set at the Kingston Hospital.

The boy with three other Smith children and two friends, escorted by Mrs. M. Stanley of 65 Brookline avenue, Albany, had arrived at Kingston Point on the Day Line steamer, planning to return to Albany on the upriver steamer.

The party were enjoying their lunch when the boy fell off the railing. Officers Murphy and Reardon in one of the police radio cars rushed the lad to the hospital, and after the arm had been set the boy was returned to Albany by train.

The other children in the party were placed aboard the Albany steamer by Officer Cramer.

Petrified Trees

Petrified trees are numerous throughout Oregon, being found in the Columbia river gorge, along the John Day, the Deschutes and the Ochoco rivers. The fossil remains of a ginkgo, popular as a temple tree in northern China, have been found near Tanner creek, which empties into the Columbia gorge. Within a few miles of the town of Prineville, is a petrified forest of giant sequoia trees that, according to some scientists, were overthrown by a cataclysm of nature in bygone ages.

Junior Softies

This year marks the first of an organized City Junior Softball League in Kingston. The league was organized in the spring with six teams: Barnham's Flashes, Bruins, Mountaineers, Roosa's Grocery, Texas Lunch, and the Windsores. The recreation department is awarding a trophy to the champions of the playoff. The league made its official opening last Saturday with the Texas lunch and Grocer boys taking the spotlight. John Quigley of Roosa's pitched superb ball by holding the powerful Texans scoreless to give his mates a 3-0 win. At the same

WOODRUFF TAKES DOUBLE HONORS IN IC4A MEET

Week-End Sports In Brief Review

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Southern California and Pitt's John Y. Woodruff walked off with honors at the I.C. 4 A. meet. Southern Cal. won team title and Woodruff set mile mark and tied 440 record in winning his third straight double.

Columbus, O.—John Linta of Mansfield, set national scholastic pole vault mark with leap of 13 feet 9 1/2 inches.

New York—Johnstown, Kentucky Derby winner, captured Withers mile at Belmont, beating Hush by 10 lengths. Cockerell nosed out Now What in 63rd running of Juvenile Stakes.

Hutcheson's team finished second in the team event, however, getting 483 to the Buffalo Tray and Field Club's 487.

Indianapolis Race Tomorrow

Indianapolis, May 29 (AP)—Thirty-three guys—just ordinary fellows like your next door neighbor, but who picked a tougher way of earning a living—will take off tomorrow in the 27th annual Indianapolis motor speedway race, shooting for a two-fisted wad of cash.

Fastest in the history of the race, the 33 starters averaged 123.547 miles an hour in qualifying as compared with last year's 120.032 miles an hour.

Both one lap and qualifying records were broken in the trials and Jimmy Snyder, one-time Chicago milkman, was the fellow who performed both feats. He wheeled a six-cylinder creation, entered by Joel Thorne, near Rochelle, (N. J.) millionaire, around the track for 10 miles at 130.138 miles an hour for the qualifying record and one lap was at 130.757 miles an hour.

The first 28 qualifiers made the starting lineup at a speed of 120 miles an hour or better and one of them—Babe Stapp of Los Angeles—hit 125 miles an hour.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

The happiness boys are riding side up again.

If you don't remember the happiness boys, they're the fellows who get fun out of baseball—which is a bitter business for a lot of their associates.

That makes it easy to single them out of Sunday's big major league show:

Johnny Allen, the temperamental right-hander whose tattered shirt caused a furore in the American League and ended up in the department store window (the shirt, not Allen).

Dizzy Dean, the ex (?) popoff whose $185,000 pitching arm has been the most debated wing in all baseball.

Van Lingle Mungo, the lean Carolinian who probably has had more fights, fines and suspensions than any current big leaguer and who set some kind of a record last year by drawing a salary of approximately $1,000 an inning.

Buck Newsom, much-traded, much-misunderstood mound maestro, who once undertook to pitch both games of a doubleheader and in six seasons has played with four different American League clubs, not counting the St. Louis Browns.

For further details see back copies of your favorite newspaper.

Allen Kayesox
Allen went the route yesterday for the first time this spring to give the Cleveland Indians a 6-0 shutout over the Chicago White Sox on three hits. Naturally this was the most encouraging to the Cleveland people because Allen, who won 15 games in a row in 1937 only to lose his finale, had a bad year last season and an operation on his arm during the winter hadn't helped his previously.

Similarly Newsom's seven-hit 6-2 performance against his recent teammates, the Browns, gave the Detroit folks something to cheer for, too. It was Newsom's second triumph within a week and came on top of good showings by

Tommy Bridges, Paul Trout and Schoolboy Rowe.

Back in Streak

The New York Yankees, who saw a winning streak broken at 13 games only last week, already have built themselves another five-game string. They beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 9-5, Sunday in a hitting session featured by George Selkirk's two homers—which came off Bob Joyce the same as the two he hit in one game the day before.

The Boston Red Sox also snatched a free-hitting game—their fourth in a row—in a 12-7 affair victimizing the Washington Senators.

Dean had his string of shutout innings broken at 18, but he held the Pirates to eight hits to give the Chicago Cubs a 6-2 victory and lift them back into third place in the National League.

Mungo was bombed out of the box, just like a lot of others, in the Brooklyn Dodgers' 16-12 marathon triumph over the Boston Bees. Each team used four pitchers and Mungo not only stood up well in his four and a fraction innings of service, but contributed two timely doubles.

Reds Split
Cincinnati retained its lead in the National League by splitting a doubleheader at St. Louis, 6-5 and 8-4. Curt Davis bested Johnny Vander Meer in the first game to end the Reds' victory chain at an even dozen, but Paul Derringer was as steady as ever in taking the nightcap.

The New York Giants crowded five runs into the eighth inning to beat the last place Phillies, 7 to 2.

Ronald Sickler Detained
In accordance with a teletype message State Troopers Dunn and Maish on Sunday picked up Ronald Sickler of Phoenicia and turned him over to Catskill officers. The message said Sickler was wanted in Greene county on a check charge.

Weldon McCluskey has been chosen by the personnel and physical committees and board of directors of the local Y. M. C. A. to succeed Charles Henke as physical director and will begin his duties September 1.

Mr. McCluskey has served the Elmira Y. M. C. A. since his graduation from Springfield in 1935 as assistant physical director and upon the promotion of Dean Temple, now general secretary at Poughkeepsie, Mr. McCluskey has been physical director.

While in Elmira Mr. McCluskey has coached the following teams: Central New York swimming champions, junior division in 1936-1937; basketball, junior teams which competed in the district tourney in 1936.

He has been assistant football coach of the Elmira High School teams. In 1936 he organized the Elmira Auto Club softball team which, during the first year, reached the finals in the Central playoffs and the same year Mr. McCluskey was appointed by Tex Irwin, of the Amateur Softball Association, as commissioner of the softball for southern New York.

In 1937 he organized Y. M. C. A. life saving corps in conjunction with the Red Cross. At the present time he is president of the Physical Director's Society of Central New York state.

This past winter Mr. McCluskey was responsible for running the state basketball tournament in which 14 teams competed.

Mr. McCluskey has carefully gone over the field here in Kingston and is eager to begin his work in the fall.

WELDON MCCLUSKEY

25 years old, unmarried and a member of the Baptist Church of Elmira.

While at Springfield he played varsity football for three years, was on the varsity boxing team and also played la crosse. While in his last year in college he won the wrestling championship in the 155 pound class.

Mr. McCluskey has carefully gone over the field here in Kingston and is eager to begin his work in the fall.

Phoenicia Opens Season Trimming Wiltwycks 13-5

Bud Swarthout, Kingston southpaw, pitched the inaugural game for Phoenicians and bested the Wiltwyck A. C. of the Kingston City League in Sunday's slugfest.

The game was a lopsided affair with both teams collecting 14 hits but the mountaineers capitalized on their wallop at every turn and shoved 13 runs across the platter to their opponents 5. Lou Glenn pitched for the visitors and managed to struggle through the nine inning route. Turk, Bock and Winchell each collected three hits off his offerings.

Although Swarthout was tagged for 14 hits he allowed but five runs and set down 11 by the strikeout route.

The Wiltwycks drew first blood, collecting one run in the opening inning on a single by Toddy and a double by Paul Joyce. Phoenicia came right back in their half of the inning to shove across two tallies and take the lead which they never relinquished. Turk drew a base on balls. Bock was safe on an error and Van Etten and Minasian singled for two tallies.

Phoenicia produced four tallies in the fourth and four more in the eighth to put the game on ice. Reinhardt collected three hits on five trips to the platter to lead the hitting attack for the visitors. The game started under threatening clouds interspersed with occasional showers. For a long time it looked as if the game would be called but the skies cleared, the sun shone bright and the game went the entire nine innings.

Grunies Next
Next Sunday Phoenicia will play host to the Grunewalds of the City League. Boy "Schoolboy" Bush will draw the starting assignment for the mountain club.

Humiston Delays Verdict in Death Of W. B. Oakley

Coroner Howard B. Humiston of Kerhonkson is withholding his verdict pending further investigation of the death of William B. Oakley, 55, of The Vly, who was found dead Saturday morning at the home of Thomas Russell. Oakley was found shot through the temple with a .22 calibre rifle which lay near the body.

While the shooting gives every indication the suicide the officials are continuing their investigation. There was no apparent reason for the act and so far as is known he was not in ill health or any difficulty which would prompt the rash act.

The body was found Saturday morning about 10:45 o'clock in the bedroom of the Russell house by two girls, Hazel Pippel and Agatha Schutz, both of West New York, who occupy a cottage near the premises. Mr. Russell had gone to West New York, N. J., Friday to bring his wife to The Vly and left Oakley alone in charge of the premises. The girls not seeing a light in the house Friday evening and no activity about the premises on Saturday morning went to the house to investigate and on entering the house found the body in the bedroom.

Notice of the tragedy was given to R. F. D. Carrier Donnelly who notified Sheriff Abram F. Molyneux and Deputy Arthur Brown was sent to the house to make an investigation. Dr. Edward F. Shea of Stone Ridge was summoned and he called Coroner Humiston who found the man had been dead about 18 hours. This fixed the time of death as early evening on Friday.

The bullet had entered the right temple and came out on the opposite side of the head. The rifle belonged to Russell. Oakley was found slumped on the floor in a sitting position in one corner. He was fully clothed and wore his hat.

Mr. Russell had left about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon and returned to the house Saturday about noon with his wife.

Oakley owned a bungalow colony at The Vly and so far as is known was in no financial trouble and apparently was in good health. The lack of motive caused the officers to make an extended investigation. No autopsy was ordered.

Coroner Humiston took charge of the remains and funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. Chester Grossman of Kerhonkson will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery at Stone Ridge.

One sister, Mrs. Millie Hendricks of Stone Ridge, and a brother, LeRoy Oakley of Bearsville, survive.

Navy Officials Scan Reports

Portsmouth, N. H., May 29 (AP)—While divers renewed operations today preparatory to salvaging the sunken submarine Squalus and its 26 dead, navy officials scanned written reports of the 33 survivors in an attempt to ascertain what happened on the fatal dive last Tuesday.

Each one of the men rescued with the escape bell has written his story. Lieutenant Commander John B. Longstaff said "the purpose of these written statements is to get a permanent record of the men's versions of the disaster early before minor events are forgotten."

"Sometimes these minor events are the key to the solution. The commanding officer is also preparing his official report to the navy department."

Longstaff, aide to the commandant of the navy yard here and one of those rescued when the submarine S-5 sank in 1920, said all the Squalus survivors were back in active duty.

After the sinking of the Squalus was discovered, navy officials expressed the belief the sea rushed into the submarine through an open air induction valve, plunging the undersea craft 240 feet to the ocean floor. Later, however, a rescued crew member said warning lights indicated all valves were closed when the craft submerged.

Officials were confident that once the $4,000,000 Squalus was raised from its bed of mud and put in dry dock, the cause of the accident would be learned. Divers yesterday attached air lines to the forward section of the Squalus, increasing the air pressure in water-tight compartments to guard against leakage and to bring the pressure within the craft nearer to that outside.

Major Callan Makes Plea For Protection of Democracy

"We who love and honor and cherish our form of Democracy, resent and shall protest any attempt to set up any other form of government here," declared Major Albert S. Callan of Chatham, a past commander of the American Legion in the state, speaking Sunday evening at the patriotic meeting held in the Municipal Auditorium under the auspices of the United Veterans' Association, Inc.

Major Callan said the American Democracy is the best form of government under which men and women can live. It had been thoroughly tested for over 150 years. Because of their belief in it men and women have gladly given of their lives that our government may continue.

Must Fight Vigorously
Americans must wage a vigorous fight to preserve the principles on which this country is founded or else those who have died have died in vain.

Major Callan pointed out that there are only two forms of government in the world today, our own form and the other form that is either Communist, Nazi or Fascist. If democracy is discarded there are only two alternatives, he declared, Communism or Nazi-Fascism.

Mayor C. J. Heiselman presided at the meeting which was opened with the invocation by Dr. James Cantline of Stone Ridge, a former missionary to Arabia, and closed with the Benediction by the Rev. Arthur S. Cole of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church after which Taps were sounded by Frank Sass.

Augustus Cole Present

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and Miss Maxine Taylor read the poem "In Flanders Fields."

Sunday afternoon at Kingston Point the annual tribute of strewing flowers on the waters of the Hudson river in memory of the soldier and sailor dead was observed by the Rev. William J. McVey of the First Presbyterian Church, Mayor C. J. Heiselman and Surrogate Harry H. Fleming.

Services at Point
Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 53, of Tappan Camp, No. 1, of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, members of Kingston Post of the American Legion, Boy Scouts, members of the Joyce-Schirick Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and city officials and citizens assembled at Kingston Point to participate in this annual service.

The Salvation Army Band rendered a musical program and Raymond DuBois sang several solos, accompanied by Harold Cantfield on the violin. Recitations were given by the Misses Dolores, Gloria and Shirley Miller, Miss Catherine Bush, Miss Minetta Barton, Mrs. Harry Sills and Mrs. Edna Jennings.

Commander Joseph Sills of Kingston Post, Commander Charles B. Skane of Joyce-Schirick Post, and Russell Broughton, scoutmaster of Troop 6, also spoke briefly.

The firing squad at the services were: Kingston Post of American Legion, Nelson W. Snyder, August Paulsen, Albert Messinger, Sergeant Abe Singer, Joyce-Schirick Post, Henry Diehl, Patrick Bohon, Joseph Perry and Martin O'Brien. Frank Sass, bugler, sounded taps at the close of the service, which had been arranged by Mrs. Eugenie A. Flicker, of Tappan Auxiliary, who introduced the speakers of the afternoon, and James Krom, of Tappan Camp.

In Trouble, Too

Cells in Leavenworth penitentiary were prepared for R. Emmet O'Malley (above), ousted Missouri insurance superintendent, and his political boss, Tom Pendergast, who pleaded guilty of income tax evasion on what a judge said was $377,500 in "bribe money." O'Malley is shown as he was sentenced to a year and a day. Pendergast had been sentenced to a year, three months.

Alaskan Volcano Is in Eruption
Unalaska, Alaska, May 29 (AP)—Mount Veniaminof, about 350 miles northwest of here, was reported in violent eruption today.

Strong earth shocks, felt here at 9:15 p. m. (Pacific Standard Time) Sunday, were believed traceable to the eruption, which has been in progress since May 25 but was first reported today.

The eruption was described as the greatest and most spectacular on the Alaska Peninsula in more than a decade. Flames and ashes spurted from the volcano at regular intervals.

Residents of the district were prepared to flee should the eruption become more serious. But there was no serious damage.

Find O. Henry Maps
Lubbock, Tex. (AP)—Survey maps prepared by the author, O. Henry, have been obtained by President Clifford Jones for the library of Texas Technological College. The maps, made when O. Henry was an employee of the Texas General Land office, contain evidence of the artistic handiwork of the writer.

One bears a drawing of a coiled rattlesnake, another a jack-rabbit and a third shows a cowboy twirling a lariat.

Vandenberg Ready To Accept Party's Bid, if It Is Desired

Washington, May 29 (AP)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) announced today he would seek re-election to the Senate in 1940, but added that "if there are subsequent responsibilities of a broader nature, I shall meet them to the best of my ability."

Vandenberg's statement was made in a letter replying to a request from Michigan Republican officials that he be drafted for the party's presidential nomination next year.

Vandenberg's Senate term expires in 1941, and thus he would have to choose between seeking re-election to the Senate and running for the presidency.

Vandenberg's statement today said the next Republican convention "must first set down clear-cut, constructive, courageous principles which dependably promise to save the American system of free enterprise under the renewed spirit of constitutional democracy, and to recapture prosperity for our whole people under a government restored to solvency."

Should Fit Nominations
"Then it should fit its nominations to its principles," the senator said.

The Michigan Republican added that the convention should strive "to create common ground upon which all like-thinkers may unite to produce an administration for all Americans."

In such an administration, Vandenberg said, the President should be "a pre-pledged, one-term president" who would be "manifestly free of all incentive but the one job of saving America." The senator added:

"In my view, the nominations should flow from the deliberative judgment of a convention wholly free to search out the wisest, surest answers to these critical problems."

"Holding this deep conviction, it would be wholly out of character for me personally to pursue the nomination for myself. It is for the people themselves to speak. No man understanding its difficulties and responsibilities could covet the presidency; and no American could decline it if chosen."

Vandenberg expressed gratitude for the statement by Michigan Republicans, and said that he hoped "to proceed with whatever responsibilities lie ahead in a manner that may justify these general opinions."

"At the moment," he added, "these responsibilities require me to announce that I shall be a candidate to succeed myself in the United States Senate."

"If there are subsequent responsibilities of a broader nature, I shall meet them to the best of my ability."

I shall meet them to the best of my ability."
